Gandhi Issues Call for Passive Revolt.

BOMBAY, India, Aug. 7 (AP).—In the bizarre setting of a canvas pavilion fitted with electric fans and a public address system, Mohandas K. Gandhi today called on his nationalist followers to rise with him in an unprecedented mass campaign of civil disobedience aimed at driving the British out of power in all India.

Mohandas K. Gandhi.

"Our movements for freedom in the past will become insignificant compared with the forthcoming movement," the frail little ascetic orator said, as he sat motionless, bare legs crossed on a couch before a microphone.

"Now is the occasion when we will have to rise."

However, with this dramatic summons to action, he coupled warnings that the campaign must be passive, that he would not tolerate violence, and that Japanese invasion would be "a dangerous thing," meaning the end of China and perhaps Russia.

10,000 Hear Gandhi's Call.

Ten thousand spectators heard him at the opening of an All-India Congress party session, called to sanction a resolution which will make Gandhi the generalissimo of the nonviolent independence drive.

The committee adjourned until tomorrow without any action on the resolution.

The Congress party's working committee previously had authorized its president [Maulana Abdul Kazan Azad], as soon as the resolution is indorsed, to appeal to President Roosevelt, Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, and Ivan Maisky, Russian ambassador to Britain, to support the demand that Britain free India immediately.

Doesn't Want to Peril Russia.

Addressing the 360 Congress party delegates and the thousands of others, Gandhi declared he did not want to be "the instrument of Russia's defeat, nor of China's."

He called Indian independence essential to Indian coöperation in the war against the axis, adding:

"If it is only Britain and the United States who fight this war, and if our part is only to give monetary help, it is not a very happy proposition.

"We shall get our freedom by fighting. It cannot fall from the skies.

"I know full well that the British will have to give us our freedom when we have made sufficient sacrifice and proved our strength.

"We must remove hatred for the British from our hearts. At least, in my heart there is no such hatred.

"As a matter of fact, I am a greater friend of the British now than I ever was. My friendship demands that I make them aware of their mistakes."

If Violence Comes, Gandhi Dies.

Despite his mention of fighting, he cautioned:

"It may be that in a moment of anger they [the British] might do things that might provoke you. Nevertheless, you should not resort to violence. Put violence to shame."

Then this cryptic utterance:

"When such things happen you may take it that you will not find me alive, wherever I may be. Their blood will be on your head. If you don't understand this it will be better if you reject the resolution."

At the opening of the meeting President Azad called for immediate Indian independence, but said the committee did not want the British or American armies to leave India.

Bar Closing of Shops, Cafés.

Nazis Within 60 Miles of Oil Fields—Russia

MOSCOW, Aug. 8 [Saturday]—(AP)—German armies plunging deeper into the Caucasus have driven to the Armavir area within 60 miles of the Maikop oil fields while other Nazi forces moved closer toward the threatened Volga city of Stalingrad, the Russians announced today.

Indicating that the German masses had stormed across the vital Kuban river in the western Caucasus, the midnight communique reported that fierce engagements were being fought in the Armavir area and to the south of Kushchevka.

Armavir is 160 miles south of Rostov on the Rostov-Baku railroad. It is almost on the Kuban river, slightly to the west of that waterway. Kushchevka is 50 miles south of Rostov.

Tells of Caucasus Reverse.

The midnight report told of the new reverse in the Caucasus in these terse phrases:

"In the area south of Belaya Glina [100 miles southeast of Rostov] our troops have been waging defensive battles for several days against advancing German troops. After bloody battles against superior enemy forces our troops retreated to a new defense line in the direction of Armavir."

But, the Russians acknowledged, the Germans had pushed a wedge north of Kotelnikovo closer to Stalingrad. Just how far this German threat carried toward the city of the Volga named for Josef Stalin was not disclosed. Kotelnikovo is 95 miles southwest of Stalingrad and below the Don river.

In that battle the Germans were hurling tanks and automatic riflemen into the wedge they had driven into the soviet defenses.

Deepest Thrust Yet: Reds.

The soviet troops pressing the Germans in the Voronezh sector 300 miles northwest of Stalingrad forced a crossing of the upper Don river and occupied two large populated places.

The Russians are attempting to relieve the pressure on the south by the action around Voronezh.

But with all the Russian resistance, bolstered by reserves, the penetration into the Caucasus in the Armavir region was the deepest thus far reported by the soviets in that important sector.

The fresh reserves apparently were checking the superior Nazi forces in all except the area south of Belaya Glina, thru which the German tanks have plunged toward Armavir and and Maikop oil fields, 170 miles southeast of Rostov.

30 Miles from Maikop: Nazis.

BERLIN, Aug. 7 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—The German high command said today its troops and their Rumanian allies had pushed thru the sweltering heat of the north Caucasus to a point within 30 miles of the Maikop oil fields.

A communique said the axis forces were approaching Krasnodar and had stormed the rail junction of Timashevskaya. Krasnodar is on the Kuban river 80 miles west of Kropotkin and 150 miles air line southwest of Rostov. Timashevskaya is on a spur rail line 60 miles north of Krasnodar.

The approach to within 30 miles of the Maikop fields, 55 miles southeast of Krasnodar and 55 miles southwest of Armavir was made from bridgeheads across the Kuban river, the war bulletin said.

Military sources said earlier that German troops had captured Armavir, 160 miles south of Rostov on the Baku rail line, and Yeisk, 70 miles southwest of Rostov on the shore of the Sea of Azov. [These claims, however, were not repeated in the communique.]

Panama City Faces Bread Shortage; Gets U. S. Flour

BALBOA, Panama Canal Zone, Aug. 7 (AP).—The capital of Panama, Panama City, which had faced a prospect of being without bread beginning tomorrow, received a supply of flour today from Canal Zone authorities sufficient to provide bread for five more days. Further aid was promised if the flour shortage continues.

OWI ANNOUNCES AID TO ALLIES IS FALLING BEHIND

Warns 'We Can Win, but We Aren't.'

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7 (AP).—The Office of War Information, warning that "we could lose this war," declared tonight that production of fighting planes, tanks, most types of artillery, and naval vessels fell behind schedule in June and that increasing sacrifices must be made by civilians if the war program is to be successful.

Presenting a gloomy and critical review of the military and production situation at the present time, OWI asserted that individual Americans had made great sacrifices, but "as a nation we are not yet more than ankle deep in the war."

Referring by indirection to demands for the opening of a second front in Europe, the OWI declared that "popular pressure for action on this front or that of the many possible fronts can serve no useful purpose."

Must Hit Where It Counts.

American military forces are being disposed "as and where the military commanders believe they get the maximum of results," and "when we cannot be strong and hit hard everywhere, we must be able to hit hard where it counts most, even at the price of leaving other areas inactive," OWI said.

"We always knew that, for us, 1942 would be largely a year of preparation, and that our allies would have to do most of the fighting during most of the year. Before we can do much of the fighting we must move great numbers of men and vast masses of material over enormous distances.

"This job, so far, has been done with entire success; but we are going to have to keep on doing it, in increasing volume, until the war is won."

Aid Not Up to Promises.

The review declared that our allies thus far have carried most of the load "and we have not given them as much help as we had led them to expect." This was due partly to enemy victories, the review added, but "by and large, we have not been producing war material to the maximum of available capacity and have not been getting that material to the fighting fronts in the time and in the volume that will be needed to win."

"We are deep in what may be the decisive year of the war," the review continued. "But 1942 will be the decisive year only if our enemies do not succeed in inflicting crippling blows on our allies before the year is out.

"Even if they fail in that they will still take a lot of licking.

A More Costly Victory.

"But, if they should paralyze the striking power of Russia or wear down the endurance of China, or break the British power in the middle east, the war will be decided in some later year not now foreseen, and victory will be far more costly."

Asserting that the military forces had done "pretty well but not well enough," OWI said "we held the

PREPARE RATION BOOK TO COVER ALL ITEMS AS NEEDS MAY ARISE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7 (AP).—The Office of Price Administration disclosed today that it is preparing a universal ration book which can be issued to each citizen for use in rationing any commodity or article as need may arise.

"Such a book is being designed experimentally at the government printing office," said Paul M O'Leary, deputy OPA administrator in charge of rationing.

"If it can be made workable, we will have an instrument that would enable us to start a rationing program almost over night, instead of having to take 6 to 10 weeks, as in the past, when we have had to let the emergencies wait while we got millions of coupon books printed."

Men Win All 3 Grand Prizes in Tribune's Fashion Contest

BY RITA FITZPATRICK.

The third annual American Fashions contest sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in a nation-wide search for practical and beautiful clothes for women in wartime came to an exciting finale last evening in W-G-N's studio theater.

Twelve hundred fashion experts and widely known Chicagoans, 600 present at a preview of the 30 winning gowns in the afternoon and 600 at the evening show voted three exquisitely designed beige costumes the grand prize winners of $3,000, $2,000 and $1,000. All three gowns had been designed by men.

J. "Terry" Wilson of New York City, 36 years old, who made his first dress design some years ago in Paris for a joke, captured the grand prize for a subtle but simply designed taupe, or beige, wool and satin afternoon frock.

Tempts Every Woman.

Mr. Wilson's winning dress had a touch of genius. The young designer, who boasts of his Irish birth and states that he wanted to become a brain doctor "but never got around to it," used all the ingenuity of his race and the painstaking care of a specialist in the design of the dress. It was a frock that made every woman in the audience want to wear it.

The 30 costumes, made up at the expense of THE TRIBUNE under the careful eye of Mrs. Grace Pickering, noted fashion authority who was in charge of the competition, were selected from several thousand entered by amateur and professional dress designers thruout 35 states. The costumes were chosen for their originality and wartime adaptability, as well as for their suitability for the fall and winter market.

The grand prize winner had all the qualifications and something more. A short afternoon gown of taupe crêpe with insets of taupe satin beneath flounces of crêpe from the hips to the hem, the costume was cosmopolitan to its seams. The sleeves were long and snug, the neckline high and demure. The mannequin's hat was a tiny calot of crêpe with a huge puff of blue fox, matching the stole she carried. A gold clip, huge gold link bracelet, brown pumps, and long taupe gloves were perfect complements.

In appropriate sequence, the second and third grand prize winners were a smart beige wool suit and a superb beige crêpe dinner dress. They were designed by Harold Madsen of Brigham, Utah, 28 years old, and Donald Frist of Clinton, Ind., 39 years old.

Each Has Distinction.

The collection proved this year's competition to be the most outstanding and noteworthy of any of the contests. Each gown had a distinction subtly its own. The lines were simple and often daring. There was romance for this era in which women must look most feminine and appealing. Durability and elegance were intermingled. There were colors new, muted and brilliant. Above all, there was pride in every silhouette.

The fashion experts, who this season must juggle trends to cope with the rulings of the War Production board on the manufacture of women's clothing, applauded each costume as it appeared. They jotted notes for future reference as they observed unusual details of line and workmanship, all of which adhered strictly to the WPB regulations. They traded low voiced comments and pondered carefully over their selections for the three grand prize winning numbers.

Board of Awards Helps.

A board of awards, composed of Rea Seegar, fashion editor of THE TRIBUNE; Mrs. Walter B. Wolf, vice president of the women's board of St. Luke's hospital, who has been active in managing the annual St. Luke's fashion show; and Ernst von Ammon, widely known interior decorator and commentator for the Northwestern university settlement fashion show, aided in the balloting.

Mr. Madsen, whose smart suit was only 217 votes behind the design of the first grand prize winner, had honorable mention in last year's American Fashion contest. His 1942 entry was an outfit that he would

Special Prosecutor Named to Direct Chicago Quiz.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7 (AP).—Attorney General Francis Biddle announced today that a grand jury investigation will be started immediately at Chicago into the publication "by certain newspapers on Sunday, June 7, 1942, of confidential information concerning the battle of Midway."

Biddle said he had ordered the investigation as a result of a preliminary inquiry and upon the recommendation of the navy department.

The official announcement did not name the newspapers, but Robert W. Horton, head of the news bureau of the Office of War Information, said

Mitchell to Direct Probe.

The grand jury will be directed to investigate the possible violation of any criminal statutes, Biddle said, particularly the amended act of March 28, 1940, forbidding the unlawful communication of documents or information relating to national defense.

Biddle said he had appointed William D. Mitchell, now practicing law in New York City and former attorney general of the United States, who was in charge of the preliminary inquiry, as a special assistant to the attorney general to direct the grand jury inquiry "and any prosecution which may result therefrom."

[Mitchell was solicitor general of the United States from 1925 to 1929 under President Coolidge and attorney general from 1929 to 1933 under President Hoover. He resides at East Norwich on Long Island and has an office at 20 Exchange place, in the Wall street district, New York City.]

Jap Strength Involved.

Horton said the three newspapers he named published a story stating that the strength of the Japanese naval forces engaged in the battle of Midway was known in advance in American naval circles. The story cited as its authority "reliable sources in the naval intelligence."

The story carried a complete listing of both the enemy's striking force and the occupation force which were engaged and turned back by American naval and air forces.

Managing Editor Gives Complete Review of Case.

Stanley Johnston, the war correspondent who wrote the epic series on the battle of the Coral sea, furnished THE TRIBUNE with the story on which the navy and department of justice are basing their grand jury investigation announced yesterday by Attorney General Francis Biddle in Washington.

Johnston, who has been recommended for a bravery citation for his part in the Coral sea engagement, made up an estimate of the size and strength of the Japanese armada the navy defeated west of Midway Island. It was this article, published in THE TRIBUNE on June 7, that is used by Attorney General Biddle in ordering a federal grand jury in Chicago to go after THE TRIBUNE.

Attack Is No Surprise.

That Washington would attack THE TRIBUNE and other newspapers which have demanded an all-out war effort and the removal of high officials who have been fumbling the ball at home came as no surprise. The political pot has been brewing for months.

Announcement of the grand jury investigation follows closely on the heels of the failure of the administration's purge and smear campaign in the primaries against critics in congress, many of whom reside in the territory where this newspaper circulates most widely.

Factor in November Election.

Such an investigation, with all the attendant leaks of information and half truths to friendly newspapers, can be easily dragged out until the November election. If THE TRIBUNE's patriotism can be impugned in the minds of the electors, the administration's campaign to retain control of congress will be helped immeasurably.

Knox Unfair to Competitor.

The extent to which Knox has used his high official position for the benefit of his own Chicago newspaper property, which is paying him $60,000 a year for "advice," his unfairness in naval assignments and release of news toward a competing paper—THE TRIBUNE — will be discussed later.

In the current case it should be noted that Johnston was recommended for a bravery citation, but Knox's navy has held it up. Johnston went below decks on the burning aircraft carrier Lexington at the risk of his own life and rescued several of his mates. He also helped pull other American sailors out of the water.

The Tribune war correspondent was recommended for a bravery citation by Capt. Frederick Sherman, now a rear admiral, who commanded the Lexington; Rear Adm. Aubrey Fitch, commander of the Lexington flotilla, and Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, commander of the Pacific fleet.

Johnston Hampered in Many Ways.

Besides having his heroism citation blocked, Johnston's efforts on behalf of navy recruiting have been halted. His credentials as a war correspondent have been withdrawn by the navy. Material for his book on the Coral sea battle was barred to him for a time.

The Johnston story that precipitated the inquiry was a companion or sidepiece to the big news of the American victory over the Japanese invasion armada. It was printed along with the official battle score card set forth in the communique of Adm. Nimitz.

Seen as Boost for Morale.

It was Johnston's conviction, and this was concurred in by his managing editor, J. Loy Maloney, that the United States had won a tremendous victory and had prevented a full dress invasion of Hawaii. As an expert on naval warfare, Johnston believed the victory had changed the whole picture in the Pacific theater.

Johnston and Maloney were certain that a story showing the magnitude of the fleet our navy had defeated would add to the glory of our armed forces and have a salutary effect on national morale.

Johnston's article suggested the probable size and makeup of the enemy armada which the United States navy shattered and sent fleeing homeward. It was also stated the strength of the Japanese units moving on Midway was known before the battle was joined.

How Estimate Was Formulated.

Johnston had drawn up a probable list of the Jap warships. He named some of the vessels and grouped them in their own categories as belonging to the striking, support, and occupation forces. This was a conventional naval lineup.

According to Johnston, some of the surmises arose from his own expert knowledge. Some came by a process of elimination because of the known Jap losses in the Coral sea, and some from discussions he had with officers of various navies, with experts everywhere, including "Jane's Fighting Ships," and lastly with those on the naval transport which carried them back home after the aircraft carrier Lexington plunged beneath the waves.

After the story was published, the Bureau of Censorship made an inquiry into whether THE TRIBUNE had violated the voluntary code, and found the paper guiltless. But Secretary Knox's navy persisted in its complaint.

Justice Department Acts.

Suddenly the department of justice appeared on the scene. This was the same branch of the government which earlier this year mustered out "G-men" from its Federal Bureau of Investigation to invade the offices of newspaper editors and try to coerce them into granting the Associated Press services to a new proadministration organ in Chicago. Here was the golden opportunity for jumping on THE TRIBUNE the administration had been looking for.

William De Witt Mitchell, former United States attorney general, now practicing law in New York City, was retained by the department of justice to handle the case.

The administration allowed details of the case to leak out to one of its principal newspaper apologists and to Walter Winchell, gossip monger, radio commentator, and another apologist for the Washington régime.

Despite the "Get-THE-TRIBUNE" aspects of the case, J. Loy Maloney, Tribune managing editor, voluntarily went to Washington and appeared before navy officials on July 9 to make a statement on the facts surrounding publication of the story and to submit to any questions the admirals wanted to put to him.

Statement of Managing Editor.

Maloney gave his testimony in the presence of the following: Vice Adm. Russell Willson, chief of staff to the commander in chief of the United States fleet, Adm. Ernest J. King; Adm. Theodore S. Wilkinson, chief of naval intelligence; Capt. Carl F. Holden, office of chief of naval operations; Capt. Harold C. Train, office of chief of naval operations; Arthur Sears Henning, chief of the Washington bureau of THE TRIBUNE, and Mitchell, representing the justice department.

Thru his experience in the last war, Maloney was familiar with information which might be useful to an enemy. He was in the service 26 months in the World war, spent 19 months overseas, most of which was with the famous squadron commanded by Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker.

Attorney General Biddle, according to "Who's Who in America," served in the United States army from Oct. 23 to Nov. 29, 1918. The armistice was signed on Nov. 11.

CENSORSHIP RULES OBEYED

Refrains from Reflecting Unfavorably on Navy.

Maloney characterized the calling of a grand jury to investigate Johnston and THE TRIBUNE story of June 7 as "outrageous and ridiculous." Maloney declared THE TRIBUNE had scrupulously observed censorship regulations despite the favoritism shown by Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox toward his own Chicago newspaper property.

"In spite of repeated injustices visited upon THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE by Frank Knox, secretary of the navy, in his efforts to favor his Chicago newspaper," said Maloney, "THE TRIBUNE has meticulously refrained, in both its news columns and editorials, from printing anything that either reflected unfavorably upon the navy or might aid the enemies of the navy.

So careful is THE TRIBUNE in observing the rules of voluntary censorship that the record has been repeatedly commented upon by both Washington censors and local army and navy officers to whom stories are submitted, Maloney asserted. He added this newspaper had been told frequently that "if all newspapers were as careful as THE TRIBUNE there would be little necessity for censorship."

Cites Johnston's Army Record.

"The thought that Stanley Johnston would offer information to THE TRIBUNE for publication which would be of use to the nation's enemies is as outrageous and ridiculous as the charge that THE TRIBUNE would or did print such information," said Maloney.

"Johnston joined the Australian army at the age of 14½ in the World War I. He went thru the battle of Britain as an observer for THE TRIBUNE. Johnston would sooner cut off his right arm than give information to the enemy.

"Recently we have learned that Johnston has been recommended for a bravery citation for his valor in the battle of the Coral sea. We did not learn this from Johnston, who spent six days in close touch with Tribune executives without mentioning the recommendation.

"Instead, THE TRIBUNE learned of the matter from Vice Adm. Willson, chief of staff to Adm. King, commander of the fleet, who had the recommendation on his desk. We understand that this recommendation was made by Adm. Fitch, in charge of the Coral sea task force, approved and forwarded by Adm. Nimitz, and is now resting on the desk of Adm. King in Washington, with other Coral sea citations.

Johnston's Record Found Perfect.

"Soon after the battle of Britain, Johnston, who was still at that time an Australian citizen, terminated his employment with THE TRIBUNE and came to the United States on his way to his homeland. While here he sought reëmployment with THE TRIBUNE. His name was submitted to both the naval and military intelligence by THE TRIBUNE at that time. Both these divisions checked his life abroad and gave him a clean record. About this time Johnston received his final papers as a United States citizen.

"When THE TRIBUNE hired Johnston it had every reason to believe that he was a man of fine character, large experience, exceedingly well informed on the weapons of modern warfare, especially ships and airplanes, and that he was loyal to the cause of the united nations, and it still so believes.

"Johnston, fighting side by side with the men and officers of his ship in the battle of the Coral sea, added to his already great store of information thru experience and association with these men. After the battle the officers with whom he was so closely associated—three of whom bunked with him and a dozen or more of whom visited his room daily—often discussed the make-up of the Jap ships in the Coral sea battle.

Discussions After the Battle.

"He also discussed, as is being discussed everywhere, the units of the Jap fleet as listed in the latest edition of 'Jane's Fighting Ships,' and the probable units secretly constructed and not appearing in 'Jane's Fighting Ships.' They naturally discussed the losses in the Coral sea battle and also the losses that had been sustained by the Japs elsewhere.

"The makeup of the Jap navy, its fire power, speed, etc., has been and is being discussed everywhere among naval men, armchair strategists, and even ordinary citizens. As was the case in the World war, and as is the case in all wars, soldiers, sailors, airmen, etc., think continually of the forces opposing them and discuss possibilities of attack and methods of outwitting and outfighting the enemy.

"This is what Johnston and his comrades on shipboard did.

"Johnston entered into these discussions enthusiastically. Naval affairs, especially the names, sizes, effectiveness and range of navy fighting units of the various nations, have been a hobby with Johnston for years.

Acquainted with Jane's Editor.

"During his stay in London his office was adjacent to the office of Editor McMurtrie of 'Jane's Fighting Ships,' the publication which has long been standard on the world's navies. Johnston knew Mr. McMurtrie well and frequently discussed with him in detail the naval strength of the world's navies.

"The prime object of the discussion was the secret naval building thruout the world and especially by the Japanese. There is probably no man in the world better informed on these subjects than Mr. McMurtrie.

"Fighting Ships" His Bible.

"'Since Pearl Harbor,' to quote Mr. Johnston, '"Jane's Fighting Ships" has been my Bible because of the great importance of navies in this World War II. Consequently I am familiar with the characteristics of practically every capital ship, aircraft carrier, and cruiser listed therein.'

"It was Johnston's general knowledge of the Jap navy together with his discussions with naval men and officers of Jap naval losses, which enabled him to give an intelligent opinion of the probable names and organization of the Jap warships composing the fleet which later attacked Dutch Harbor and Midway Island. The story was printed along with Adm. Nimitz's announcement of the great American victory in this sea fight."

Tribune Managing Editor Flew with Rickenbacker in France

James Loy Maloney, managing editor of THE TRIBUNE, known as "Pat," is a veteran in the service of this newspaper and also a veteran of the first World war.

Except for something more than two years spent in army training and overseas duty, he has been an employé of THE TRIBUNE since Feb. 18, 1917, a period of 25 years. In Europe he was a first lieutenant of the 94th aero squadron, flying over the enemy lines under the command of Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker.

His rise in the newspaper field has been pronounced remarkable. Returning to his former job as a reporter after the war in 1919, he became day city editor in 1926, city editor in 1937, and managing editor in 1939. He was 47 years old at that time.

Started with News Bureau.

Maloney's actual newspaper experience has been almost entirely on THE TRIBUNE. He never has worked for any other newspaper. After studying at Dartmouth and at the Pulitzer school of journalism at Columbia university, he began to work in 1915 for the Chicago City News bureau, which has produced many successful newspaper men.

Two years of intensive training on important beats such as the federal building and the city hall brought his work to the favorable attention of the city editor of THE TRIBUNE. Two months before the United States entered the war of 1914-'18 he joined the staff of this newspaper.

Regardless of his improved prospects in his profession he was eager to enter the war at once and enlisted as a private in the first officers' training camp at Fort Sheridan which began to function in May, 1917. When the call for volunteers for aviation training reached the camp he offered himself and was in the first group of six candidates sent from Fort Sheridan to the ground school at the University of Illinois.

Trained at Chanute Field.

With that work completed successfully, he received his initial flying training at Chanute field where he passed his tests and was recommended for a commission about Sept. 1, 1917. He sailed overseas on Nov. 15 as a member of the 14th foreign detachment. Further flying training came at Issoudon, France, and aerial gunnery instruction in the school at Cazaux, France.

He was commissioned as a first lieutenant of the air service in April, 1918, and was assigned as a ferry pilot based at Orle, France. He ferried planes to the front and from England to France during May and June of that year.

He was ordered to the front on July 14 and assigned to the Rickenbacker squadron. He participated in the battle of Château Thierry. On Sept. 5 he was sent to a hospital and remained there for 12 weeks.

After the armistice he was with the 94th squadron in the American army of occupation and was stationed at Coblenz. He was transferred to G. H. Q. at Chaumont—Gen. Pershing's headquarters—in March, 1919, where he aided in the preparation of a manual on scout plane fighting, until about May 10, 1919. Then he was ordered home. He arrived in the United States on May 30, 1919, was sent to Camp Grant and there was honorably discharged.

Maloney is a native Illinoisan, a grandson of James Smith Maloney, a pioneer farmer in the northern part of the state, who came to Illinois in 1842 and died in 1925 at Mount Carroll, when he was 92 years old. The present managing editor is the son of J. Sumner Maloney and Elizabeth Tressler Maloney and was born at Mount Carroll Oct. 21, 1891. Some of his younger years were spent in Polo, Ill.

CIRCUMSTANCES OF STORY

Withholds Details for Navy's Approval.

Next, THE TRIBUNE'S managing editor took up the circumstances which led to the printing of the story that precipitated the complaint.

"After his thrilling experience in the battle of the Coral sea and his trip back to the United States in the crowded cabin of a transport, Johnston arrived at a west coast port on June 2. He called THE TRIBUNE. He declared he had the most fascinating, detailed eyewitness story of a sea battle which has been told in a lifetime.

"When asked for details he refused to give any. He said that under navy regulations, to which he was subject as a correspondent, the outline of his stories, which he had already written, would have to be transmitted to the navy department in Washington thru navy channels. This he did on June 3.

"Johnston would neither indicate the losses of the enemy nor would he state whether the United States navy had suffered losses in the Coral sea battle; nor would he mention the names of ships on either side which participated in the battle. He was told to proceed to Chicago at once, to write a full account of the five day Coral sea battle."

His Careful Attitude Shown.

Johnston's care in following the naval regulations concerning the printing of news of the Coral sea engagement is set forth here to show how unthinkable it is that he offered his newspaper information concerning another engagement—the Midway battle, at which he was not present—in violation to the censorship, law, naval regulations, or usage.

"Once in Chicago Johnston set to work writing the Coral sea stories in great detail," Maloney continued. "One by one these stories were deposited with the navy department in Washington to be censored.

"Altho THE TRIBUNE was fortunate enough to be the only newspaper to have a correspondent with a naval unit in the Coral sea battle, the publisher of THE TRIBUNE ordered Johnston's stories turned over to the newspapers of the world.

"In doing this THE TRIBUNE, as a contribution to American morale, voluntarily relinquished a great newspaper scoop that an eyewitness account of the bravery of the American navy might reach practically every newspaper reader in the United States.

Nimitz's Victory Announcement.

"As Johnston wrote his stories in Chicago the sea battle of Midway was being fought. Dutch Harbor had been attacked. News stories were being carried that the attack had been expected; that the station was not surprised; that both our forces at Dutch Harbor and on Midway were on the alert; that all was ready to give the Japs 'a hot reception.'

"On Saturday night, June 6, came Adm. Nimitz's victory announcement. When Johnston learned of the communique, he hurried to the desk of THE TRIBUNE'S managing editor.

"Johnston declared that he was certain that the Japs' attacks on Dutch Harbor and Midway were a prelude to an attempt to take Hawaii, the American outpost; that the Dutch Harbor attack was merely a feint; that it was clear from the Nimitz communique that an immense Jap fleet—as big as the Japs could get together—was in the action; that he could make a good guess, based on his experience and knowledge, of the makeup of the Jap armada.

Enhances Magnitude of Victory.

Johnston's views seemed to Maloney to furnish an aspect of the Midway victory of which the American people should be informed, that the Jap attack was not a mere face-saving effort. Johnston's idea of the whole situation appeared to enhance the greatness of the American victory.

"In making his report of the probable enemy forces which he had worked out from his own knowledge of the situation with the aid of reference books on the Jap navy, from his knowledge of the Jap Coral sea losses, and from discussions with naval men of all countries and his battle comrades of the remaining ships available to the Japs, Johnston believed and still believes that he was aiding the American cause."

CITED AS CODE VIOLATOR

Tribune's Answer Accepted by Censors as Adequate.

THE TRIBUNE printed the story and the next morning, Sunday, the paper was notified that the Bureau of Censorship had cited it for violating the censor's code.

Arthur Sears Henning, head of the Washington bureau of THE TRIBUNE, answered the citation in writing. After a few hours' consideration Henning was told by the censor in charge that his reply was adequate and that the censorship bureau "had no further quarrel with THE TRIBUNE in this matter."

A few hours later the censor bureau issued a supplementary rule requesting newspapers hereafter to impute to the United States navy no advance knowledge of the disposition of enemy ships. This in effect, was an admission that the previously promulgated regulations did not forbid such publication.

Johnston Tells Story to Navy.

However, the navy department pretended not to be content with the ruling of the bureau of censorship. It so informed Mr. Henning. THE TRIBUNE, Maloney said, immediately forwarded full information to the navy department and sent Johnston by airplane to Washington with orders to tell his entire story to naval authorities. This he did.

Maloney also demanded the right to be heard by the admirals investigating the Johnston matter in Washington. After several weeks' delay this opportunity was accorded to him. When he appeared in the office of Vice Adm. Willson, chief of staff to the commander of the United States fleet, to tell his story, William De Witt Mitchell, former attorney general, appeared to question him without any notice to Maloney a lawyer would be present.

Cites Dispatch in Knox's Paper.

Under questioning by Mitchell, Maloney told how THE TRIBUNE got the story complained of and why THE TRIBUNE printed it. As for imputing to the navy advance information concerning the invasion attempt, Maloney reminded the admiral that the correspondent of the secretary of the navy's own newspaper in Chicago, the Chicago Daily News, in writing of the Midway battle, said that Adm. Yamamato [the Jap commander] knew, "as did everybody else, that never in history had such a force been launched against the United States."

Mr. Knox's correspondent also said the Japs were so cocksure that they made no attempt at concealment. American patrols sighted the Jap vessels. With this foreknowledge, the American commanders began to concentrate all available warships in the vicinity. The secretary of the navy's paper stated:

"Meantime, the clans, such as they were, were gathering somewhere north of the Hawaiian Islands. Looking back on the performance, you can see the skill and decision that prompted the rendezvous. The situation had to be estimated at once and fleet dispositions made to meet the attack—the strategist in chief had to figure out, for instance, whether the Japs would make a drive on Midway or the Aleutians, or both. The conclusions were eminently correct."

Imputes Advance Knowledge.

The secretary's own newspaper correspondent, in this description of the prebattle strategy, certainly imputed advance knowledge of enemy size and dispositions. Yet the secretary's correspondent and paper have never been reprimanded or investigated.

Adm. Willson asked Maloney why THE TRIBUNE'S story, which had a Washington dateline on it, was ascribed to naval intelligence officials.

Maloney replied if there were newspapermen in the room they would understand why. It is a common practice, and newspapermen all over the United States follow it, he declared, when a story of federal affairs can not be pinned on any definite place or spot, to ascribe it to Washington sources.

Johnston at the time, he explained, was not well enough known as a naval expert to be quoted as a naval authority. Now that Johnston's name has been in the public eye all over the country, Maloney added, he would not hesitate to quote him on ships and movements.

As a matter of fact, Maloney added, he thought he was doing the naval intelligence an honor and a favor by attributing to the officials of this service, knowledge which Johnston fully believed they did possess thru their alertness and savvy.

"That is how we won the battle," Maloney told the admirals. "We had the advance notice and went up there and beat hell out of them! This was a great victory for the navy and they accomplished it thru the information they had in advance."

N. Y. NEWS DECLINES COMMENT ON BIDDLE ORDERING JURY PROBE

New York, Aug. 7.—The New York Daily News tonight said it had no comment to make on Attorney General Francis Biddle's order for a grand jury inquiry into the publication of a story on the Midway battle by "certain newspapers," other than stating parenthetically, in connection with the story on Biddle's announcement, that the News published on June 7 the story to which the investigation referred.

TIMES HERALD SILENT.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—The Times Herald tonight had no statement on the Biddle investigation of a Midway battle story published June 7.

CITES WORDS OF NIMITZ

Defenders Not Surprised, Communique said.

Stanley Johnston went to Washington and gave his version of the affair on July 13. Present at that hearing were Rear Adm. Wilkinson, Capt. Holden, Attorney Mitchell, and Mr. Henning.

Questioned by Mitchell on the events which occurred on the night of June 6, the night the controversial story was written, Johnston remembered the first news of the great Midway Island victory in the communique of Adm. Nimitz.

"The Japanese invasion force, far from surprising the defenders of Midway, was engaged in battle before its advance raiding force could sever the defenses of the tiny westernmost bastion in the Hawaiian group and before its troopships could come close enough even to attempt the landing. Just as in the battle of the Coral sea, this invasion force was hit more than 1,000 miles from its probable ultimate objective."

Tells of Estimating Force.

The Tribune correspondent, versed in naval affairs and fresh from the Coral sea triumph, was greatly elated as he scanned the dispatches on the Midway scrap, he told his inquisitors.

"What did you do?" inquired Mitchell.

"I said, 'This must be the biggest fleet the Japs could get together.'

"I offered to list up for Mr. Maloney for publication my views on what the Jap fleet at Midway consisted of, and I did so."

Johnston told the admirals that he obtained a volume of "Jane's Fighting Ships," and with its aid made up the list of the Jap fleet as printed in The Tribuhe story of June 7.

Attorney Mitchell asked Johnston why he believed the navy had advance knowledge of the size and disposition of the Jap fleet. Johnston in reply pointed out that for several days before the attack American airplanes must have been observing the hostile fleet and, at times, had even attacked it. United States submarines were constantly on watch in waters controled by the Japanese.

"By submarine reconnaissance we should have known the ships that were with the Japs," said Johnston.

"Every one of them?" asked Mitchell.

"I see no reason why not," replied Johnston.

Johnston also recalled that a week before the Midway attack broke, Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson issued a warning that an attack was coming. There were black-outs on the west coast and warnings, he recalled.

Cites Latest Communiques.

Johnston also noted that the latest communiques on the Midway affair plainly indicated that reconnaissance aircraft and submarines had noted the withdrawal of enemy naval ships from the southwest Pacific toward Japan. This was the same as imputing advance knowledge of the enemy forces, he declared.

Furthermore, Associated Press dispatches, which were based on the official communiques, declared: "Japanese invasion armada ran into an American ambush in the battle of Midway, official reports disclosed today." Johnston remarked that people don't lie in ambush for other people unless they have advance knowledge the other people are coming.

NAVY ANNOUNCEMENT SAYS IT ASKED QUIZ ON MIDWAY ARTICLE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox was reported "not available" tonight for comment about the announcement of Attorney General Francis Biddle of an impending grand jury investigation of a Midway battle story carried by "certain newspapers" including THE TRIBUNE.

"The navy department requested the action announced by Attorney General Biddle. Obviously the navy believes that there has been a violation of the particular statute mentioned—the 1917 act."

Mitchell Won't Comment.

New York, Aug. 7.—Efforts to contact William D. Mitchell relative to his appointment as a special assistant attorney general to direct an ordered grand jury investigation into a Midway battle story were met tonight with the telephoned report at his home that he was not talking with reporters about the matter.

REGULAR GRAND JURY TO CONDUCT TRIBUNE INQUIRY

The regular federal grand jury in Chicago, impaneled for July and August, will hear any presentation in connection with the investigation of THE TRIBUNE'S news of the Midway battle ordered by Attorney General Francis Biddle, it was announced by United States Attorney J. Albert Woll last night.

"Any investigation that may be conducted would be conducted by the regular grand jury, and not the special sedition grand jury," said Woll.

He was unable to say when the inquiry would actually be started, explaining that the preliminary work had been prepared by William D. Mitchell, special assistant to the attorney general. Mitchell is not in Chicago at present, and it is not known when he will arrive.

Asks for Corner Stone Markers in Salvage Drive

William L. McFetridge, metropolitan area salvage director of the Office of Civilian Defense, yesterday requested building owners to contribute cornerstone markers and memorial plaques to the salvage drive. He said these markers contain copper, tin, zinc, and other metals needed in war production.

JOHNSTON! HERO, SOLDIER, EXPERT ON WORLD NAVIES

Veteran Who Has Seen War on Major Fronts.

Stanley C. Johnston, THE TRIBUNE'S distinguished foreign correspondent who provided the information contained in a news item that has been made the subject of a federal grand jury investigation as announced in Washington last night, is one of the outstanding naval and aviation experts among newspaper men in this country.

He is a tall, spare, genial veteran who has seen World War II. on both its major fronts. He is not a professional soldier but he knows war from the intimate experience that comes from soldiering, for he fought the full four years of World War I. with an original Anzac field artillery unit. His first active duty was in the shambles that was Gallipoli, and he served the last two years of that earlier World war in Flanders.

Sets Up Press Relay.

His newspaper experiences in World War II. commenced when as an engineer for Press Wireless in 1939 he set up stand-by press relay equipment at Tours, in France. This, linked with the Press Wireless transmitter at Bordeaux, kept American press copy going to the United States thru all the chaos and violence of the final fall of France and her capitulation.

From there his duties led to London, where he joined THE TRIBUNE'S special war staff. He went to Dover to cover the expected Nazi invasion of England that by all anticipation in those days would probably be attempted at or near that channel port. During the late summer and fall of that year he saw from the Kentish downs the great aviation battle of Britain and reported it for this paper.

When the fury of the German assault cooled somewhat he flew to Lisbon and sailed from there for the United States. This was in May, 1941. As soon as he arrived he commenced writing a series of articles for THE TRIBUNE and associated newspapers that were among the most illuminating that came out of the confusion of the war.

Granted Citizenship.

And while writing these articles Johnston, born an Australian, completed his qualification for citizenship in the United States. He was granted his final papers and sworn in as an American citizen last December.

This came only a few days after the treacherous Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor. When the United States declared war on the axis powers Johnston was preparing to return to Europe—to Berne, Switzerland, this time—to set up a listening post for this paper. The war canceled this propect and Johnston was assigned to the United States Pacific fleet.

After he was accredited by the navy department he went to Honolulu, headquarters for Adm. Chester Nimitz, commander in chief of Pacific operations. While there he arranged to accompany the Lexington—he was, as has often been told, the only newspaper man aboard her—on what was to be her last and greatest fighting voyage. His stories of the Coral sea action traced some of the greatest pages in American naval history.

A Hero on Own Account.

Not until weeks after he had returned to the United States did THE TRIBUNE learn that Johnston not only reported the valor of our fighting men but was a hero in the Lexington's final hours himself.

Busy writing his dispatches, Johnston failed to tell of his own part. THE TRIBUNE'S first inkling of his personal bravery came from Vice Adm. Russell Willson, chief of staff to Adm. Ernest King, commander in chief of the navy. Adm. Willson told Arthur Sears Henning, head of THE TRIBUNE'S Washington news bureau, that Johnston had been recommended for citation for great personal bravery and for risking his own life to save that of other men.

This citation, it was discovered, originated with Capt. Frederick Sherman [now rear admiral], who commanded the Lexington. It was approved by Rear Adm. Aubrey Fitch, commanding the Lexington flotilla, and then forwarded to Adm. Nimitz. He in turn approved it and sent it on to Washington, where, with other recommendations, it still rests on the desk of Adm. King.

Admiral Tells of Bravery.

Even then Johnston demurred when asked to tell of his own actions. Not until Rear Adm. Sherman came thru Chicago did Johnston's editors hear that he rescued several wounded and dazed men from deep within the Lexington's burning hull, and afterward pulled 60 exhausted swimmers out of the oil-filmed waters around the burning derelict.

Subsequently many other officers and men aboard the Lexington have told of Johnston's heroism.

Stanley Johnston is 42 years old. He holds a mining engineer's degree from the University of Sydney, Australia, and his engineering training has been partially responsible, at least, for the accuracy of his observation and analysis of the weapons of modern war. He has just completed a book on the Lexington and the Coral sea that will be published next month.

SMALL OIL MEN ASK CZAR TO END CHAOS IN CAPITAL

Boston, Mass., Aug. 7 (AP).—The Atlantic Coast Oil associations conference today suggested appointment of an administrator "who has authority to coördinate the government departments that affect petroleum." In a letter to Secretary of Commerce Jesse H. Jones, the conference asked him to use his influence to this end.

"The ills of our industry stem from a divided command," the letter said. "We know of the friction between the Office of Price administration and the Office of Petroleum Coördinator. We know that there is little coöperation between the Office of Petroleum Coördinator and the Office of Defense Transportation.

"The large integrated companies on the eastern seaboard are just as divided as are the varius departments in Washington for they, too, seem to be unable to formulate overall constructive policies for presentation to our chief executive." The letter said the conference represents small business men who market 75 per cent of the light fuel oil on the Atlantic seaboard.

TRIBUNE APPEAL GETS BINOCULARS FOR USE BY NAVY

But There Are Still Quite a Few at Race Tracks.

At least 25 pairs of binoculars of the accepted types have been turned over to the navy public relations office at 333 North Michigan avenue since THE TRIBUNE ran a color back page on Tuesday urging owners to lend their field glasses for the duration of the war.

The office said it was probable a much larger number had gone directly to the naval observatory in Washington, as requested by the navy. The local office has received, according to its own report, more than 700 letters offering other types of glasses which may later be requested. Carl Zeiss and Bausch & Lomb 7 and 6 power glasses with apertures 50 or 30 are those needed now.

Call on Turf Followers.

It is believed that many usable glasses are in the hands of turf fans and race horse owners. One track habitue said yesterday he believed a "considerable percentage" were of the right sort, and might if donated help in saving sailors' lives.

"It wouldn't be a bad idea to set a barrel in front of the grand stand and ask the owners of the glasses to send them in as a mass donation," he added.

In recent years the government has been kind to race tracks as business institutions and to the wealthier division of racing stable owners. It has tentatively recognized the fiction that horses are raced to improve the breed of cavalry horses. It has also issued regulations that permit the big owners—some possessors of immense inherited estates—to write off their stable losses in their income tax reports.

Recognize "Business Losses."

These people in tax appeal hearings have insisted that their racing stables were business enterprises in which they invested in the hope of making money. It is generally agreed that the largest stables have expenses running into the hundreds of thousands of dollars, and that few if any of them win enough purses to meet outgo. With the wealthiest horse owners 75 per cent, or more, of losses can be written off as income tax deductions.

Three members of the Widener family of New York, George D. and Joseph E. Widener and their sister, Mrs. Eleanor Dixon, asked deductions from 1919 to 1922 totaling $908,000 of stable losses and the board of tax appeals set a precedent by upholding the "business" theory.

A minority report, written by a Kansan, William C. Lansdon, held that a sport was not a business and that the racing stables were established actually for the pleasure of the owners.

Tax Deductions Help.

The Whitneys of New York, Warren Wright of Chicago, Bing Crosby, Louis B. Mayer, the movie magnate, and E. F. Woodward are big stable owners whose losses are believed to have been large in recent years, altho not too great a burden because of the income tax deductions. Marshall Field III. is one of those who went to court to have his racing establishments in America and the British isles declared a losing business. The Circuit Court of Appeals in New York upheld his claims to losses of $566,388 between 1924 and 1928.

The government attitude toward the $2 bettor who makes the "sport of kings" possible is different. It tells him that he doesn't bet as a business—if he loses. He can't deduct. But it's a business gain if he wins—and he is supposed to pay on it.

Binoculars at the Race Track

8 KILLED AS WALL OF WATER HURLS AUTO DOWN HILL

Wenatchee, Wash., Aug. 7 (AP).—A wall of water which went hurtling down a mountain canyon after a cloudburst last night trapped nine persons in an automobile, killing eight of them. The car was carried several hundred yards down a hillside.

Russell Kirk, 27 years old, the driver, was thrown free. He waded thru mud and débris to the highway nine miles north of here and was found by a motorist.

Six of the bodies were found in the car. The dead were: Mrs. Ann Kirk, 24; Mrs. Lena McCann, 22; Lena Firpo, 19; Wilbur Hale, 27; and his wife, 22. Frank McCann, 27, and his wife, 21, and Ray McCann, 32.

FIRST YANKEE IN U. S. ARMY UNIFORM FLIES AGAINST THE GERMANS

WITH THE UNITED STATES ARMY BOMBER COMMAND, in England, Aug. 7 (AP).—Lieut. Col. Cecil ["but call me Brick"] Lessig whose home is in Ellsworth, Kas., is believed to be the first American in a United States army uniform to fly against Hitler's Europe.

It was disclosed today that on March 25, Lessig crossed the channel with the RAF, flying a Spitfire in the "tail end Charlie" position—the last plane in a flight of four in 36 plane formation.

Lessig had his guns loaded but the flight was called back when it got over France because 50 Messerschmitts rose to meet it. Lessig didn't pull a trigger, neither was a shot fired at him. But he was tormented inside his altitude mask by pure oxygen pouring over an exposed nerve in a dental cavity.

The Price of Tuna Climbs to Tune of $415 a Ton

Astoria, Ore., Aug. 7 (AP).—The way prices are going, tuna is well on the way to becoming a luxury food. Albacore tuna went up to $415 a ton today—$7 above the record high set last week in private sales. Some packers have expressed fears that since tuna is not being purchased by the government, it might be classed as a nonessential product and that the fishing fleet might be confiscated for war duty.

ASSERTS JAPAN ALREADY AT WAR WITH RUSSIANS

Soviet Ships Being Sunk, Rep. Magnuson Says.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 7 (AP).—"Japan is already at war with Russia and it is common knowledge in Washington, D. C., that the Japs have already sunk several Russian ships in the Pacific," Rep. Warren G. Magnuson [D., Wash.], a member of the naval affairs committee, said today in an interview.

"The last was sunk very recently," he said. "They are justifying their action on the ground that the Russians were carrying American materials."

He said he knew only in a general way of the sinking of Russian ships by Japanese submarines. He said he had heard the name of the vessel most recently sunk in the north Pacific, but had forgotten it.

Island Seizures Start of War.

"War between Japan and Russia started," he said, "when the Japs began strengthening their forces in Manchuria [Manchukuo], and when they seized Attu and Kiska islands in the Aleutians.

"It is generally believed in Washington that the Japs went into Attu and Kiska for three reasons. First, they beat us to it. They knew we'd be there sooner or later in offensive action against the Japs' home islands.

"Secondly, they wanted weather information from that area. Because the weather moves from northwest to southeast across the continent from the north Pacific, they are now in a position to know what kind of weather we're having along the west coast and in the northern interior.

Aleutians Guard Flank.

"But the last and perhaps the most important reason was to be able to straddle the Russian supply line from the American west coast.

"The value of Kiska and Attu to them is simply this—they can harass the lend-lease supply to Russia and their flank is protected when they make an attack on Siberia."

He said that "as far as an invasion stepping stone, Attu and Kiska are out. The Japs could just as easily assemble an invasion force in their home islands and sail by Kiska on their way east. If they were going to invade Alaska they would go right on by the Aleutians."

"In fact," he added, "I don't know of a better place for 20,000 Japs to be occupied than in Kiska and Attu. They're no good until they're taken off again."

KILLED BY FALL ON STAIRS.

John Casey, 63 years old, 8844 South Hermitage avenue, died yesterday in St. Luke's hospital of injuries suffered earlier in the day when he fell down a flight of stairs while working in the Auditorium theater.

TRIBUNE FASHION MODELS AMONG LOVELIEST IN U. S.

Seven Beauties at W-G-N Show Very Talented.

Seven of the nation's loveliest models walked down the runway into W-G-N's studio theater last night attired in the prize winning costumes of the annual Chicago Tribune Fashion competition.

They were selected from among hundreds of models to appear in the show by Mrs. Grace Pickering, noted fashion authority in charge of the show.

June Cox was recently voted the model with the most typical American figure. Another contest decided that her legs were the most beautiful in the United States. Her modeling experience started when she was 6 years old, and shortly after that she added acting to her list of abilities. She played on Broadway in "Counselor at Law," with Paul Muni, and followed that performance with parts in "Girls in Uniform" and "Growing Pains." Miss Cox announced that she once sang briefly with a New York dance band. She emphasized the word briefly. Her topaz eyes twinkle as she tells of her ambition, "To get married some day."

Betty's sister, Gay, was also launched upon her modeling career in Chicago, altho she's been working in New York for several years. Gay has done little modeling during the last few months because she devotes most of her time to serving on Long Island with the civil air patrol. Working now for a commercial pilot's license, she has to her credit more than 250 hours in the air. Like her sister, Gay has brown eyes and dark brown hair. Always eager to learn something new, Gay has tried almost every form of athletics, but she complains that she loses interest in a sport once she acquires the ability to play.

Blonde Prefers Relaxation.

Sally Bynum, a slender blonde, has no great love for sports, preferring more languid types of entertainment. Born in Kentucky, she began singing at an early age. She is a radio actress and has ambitions in the field of acting.

Brown eyed Maurine Zallman recently started flying lessons in order to share the fun found in the air by her husband, now stationed with the army air corps at Miami Beach, Fla. Until she made her debut several years ago in modeling, Miss Zallman was a student of music. She plays piano and violin and specializes in modeling at fashion shows.

Child of the heart of Texas, Elaine Bassett has two hobbies—her husband and horseback riding. Her greatest pride is some poetry which was published in the Anthology of Newspaper Verse for 1942. Miss Bassett sings with a New York dance band, poses for magazine illustrations, and acts in radio "soap operas." Her ambition is to have a home, a family, and a large tree in the yard.

The seventh, Louella Hurd, was born in Albany, N. Y., and has studied singing, dancing, music, and dress designing. Besides modeling, she has been an instructress in the Powers School for Models. She is an accomplished pianist.

Winning Fashion Designers

Names of 30 Fashion Winners Listed; Costumes Described

What will women wear in wartime?

Thirty winning costumes, shown in the finale of THE TRIBUNE'S third annual American Fashions contest in W-G-N's studio theater, answered the question last evening. They had been culled from several thousand sketches entered by amateur and professional dress designers from all parts of the country, and made up into gowns at the expense of THE TRIBUNE.

The designers of each of the 30 costumes received a $50 cash award. Three designers each had two winning designs. They were Elinor K. Bowman, 4893 North Hermitage avenue, and Terry Wilson and Nancy Layton, both of New York City.

Exhibit Runners-Up.

In addition, 50 honorable mentions were awarded and those sketches were placed on exhibition in Harmony hall, between W-G-N studio and Tribune Tower.

Celeste Byrne, New York City—A bright green wool coat trimmed in nutria, tangy as a wintry pine. The fur was the sleeves, the back yoke and the little collar. With it the model wore a muff of the tweed and the fur, gloves and pumps of brown suede, and a perky hat of the green tweed trimmed in brown beads resembling rich coffee beans.

Jane Ann Read, Aurora, Ill.—A bright red wool coat stitched in dark green suede, as Christmasy as a poinsettia. The coat fastened with oblong buttons of the green suede with gay red centers. A dashing large green felt hat highlighted with a red grosgrain ribbon band; a knockout, green leather handbag, laced with red wool, and green suede shoes and gloves completed the outfit.

Elinor K. Bowman, 4893 North Hermitage ave—[1] A blue wool suit touched with coral, the jacket fastened with coral suede frogs slanted mischievously. Reflections of the coral were the suede hanky tucked in the pocket, the bright turban, and the narrow belt that encircled the model's slim waist. The gloves, bag, and shoes were conservative brown. [2] A black wool dress and sleeveless red wool jacket detailed with insets of shirred black grosgrain ribbon. With it the model flaunted a modern buccaneer's hat of black felt trimmed with black and red ribbon, black suede gauntlets startling with red insets, and a large black and red handbag.

Mink Trim Wanders.

Harold L. Madsen, Brigham City, Utah—A stunning beige wool suit trimmed with mink that wandered from the right side near the shoulder, around the back of the neck, down to the left side to form a patch pocket. A perfect outfit for that date of high ranking, especially with a beige hat trimmed with mink tails, brown gloves and bag.

Muriel King, New York City—For chill winds and warming looks, a dark green, fitted, padded, wool coat, perfect with or without furs. Its indispensable accessories were small but high, green felt hat misted in green veiling, green suede shoes and gloves.

Victor A. Pineus, New York City—A Russian costume composed of a thin, black wool skirt and yellow tunic blouse. Black Persian lamb edged the flaring tunic and hugged the neckline. Persian banded gloves and a high Cossack hat of the fur provided the exact complements.

Mme. Paule Madoc, New York City—A costume to see the morning in and the evening out. On first appearance it is a sheer black wool suit, smartly outdoor with a squashy mink muff and hat. With the wool jacket removed, a dressy afternoon frock with another jacket of black net embroidered in black soutache braid fastened with gold and black tassels. Beneath, a decollete, short evening gown with a pale apricot and iridescent green taffeta bodice.

Simple But Stunning.

William Gebhard, New York City—A dark blue wool coat frock accented with bright magenta. A simple but stunning frock with bands and curlicues of magenta taffeta trimming the high neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. The mannequin looked charming with a felt hat and suede gloves of the same brilliant color, silver fox furs carelessly over her arm.

Kathryn Bill, Arcadia, Cal.—Drama in emerald green and cerise by means of a slim wool skirt and jacket of the green with a crepe, sleeveless blouse of the cerise. The jacket fastened to a big black button at the waist for fun. The hat was also fun, green felt trimmed with long quills. The gloves, long and shirred, bag and shoes repeated the green.

Shoulder Straps Are Wide.

Marlin McClintock, New York City—A Cinderella gown in aquamarine peau de soie [taffeta or faille] and tulle. The tulle formed an overskirt, split and tied at intervals around the hips to form diamond shaped cutouts. The wide shoulder straps were tied at the front with taffeta bows and a narrow belt of taffeta encircled the mannequin's tiny waist. Long blue suede gloves clung to her arms and silver sandals peeked below the skirt.

Mme. Ada Villa, New York City—Here comes the bride and what a bride! A simple, lustrous, white satin gown devoid of trimming save for a cluster of pearls that served as buttons down the front. The court train of net banded in satin, fastened to the gown in a sort of cape effect. A breathless, little face veil of net fastened to the model's head by a wreath of orange blossoms. Long, white gloves touched the elbow length sleeves and white satin slippers ornamented with pearl clusters trod beneath the uneven hemline.

Subtle Afternoon Gown.

Terry Wilson, New York City—[1] Simple but subtle! A short afternoon gown of beige crepe with insets of satin just above the waistline, at the hips, and at the knees. The sleeves were long and close fitting, the neckline high. The mannequin's hat was a tiny calot of crepe with a huge puff of blue fox, matching the stole she carried. Her pumps were brown, her gloves beige. [2] A gown, perfect for evening wear in wartime, a simple, black crepe dinner gown with a cerise girdle that flared into a wide but fairly short train in back.

Mrs. J. Farquharson, New York City—A black crepe ensemble, called Black-Out, that could be worn anywhere at any time. The costume consisted of a basic dress with a short skirt, a jacket, and a cape, all of the same material, black crepe. The flattering hat was black lace with a snitch of Persian lamb to repeat the fur of the jacket's collar and cuffs. By sleight of hand the cape becomes a long, graceful skirt and the jacket discloses a decollete bodice of black and flesh net.

Albert W. Davies, New York City—For looking at the bright side of things, a fuchsia silk jersey dinner gown, shirred and inset with velvet of the same shade. The neckline was high in back and the sleeves were three-quarter in length. Silver sandals, a sable muff, and a proud headdress of the velvet misted with a dotted veil.

Gown Expertly Draped.

Librada Castellon, Brooklyn, N. Y.—A purple, crepe afternoon gown for a date with a uniform. Skillfully designed, the frock had a surplice effect at the back which was expertly draped to the front to meet a skirt, also cleverly draped. Sleeves, short and rather puffed. Accessories de luxe, a purple velvet hat trimmed with emerald green feathers and a wisp of green veiling, gloves and sandals of the same brilliant color, and a large silver fox muff.

Nancy Layton, New York City—[1] A dramatic outfit of Chinese inspiration, perfect for dining at home or at a friend's house. Of handsome, soft blue brocade with the design in two shades of green and gold. Deep blue and deep green satin bands trimmed the neckline and a slit in the skirt. A long, soft blue tassel hung from the waist on the slit side. [2] Another Chinese poem, a deep gold slipper satin dinner suit, the jacket and skirt elaborately embroidered in black and tiny jet beads. Sophistication plus with a wee hat of black ostrich feathers, black suede sandals and gloves, and a long, black chiffon handkerchief.

Beatrice Bieman, Detroit, Mich.—Design for living, in a long evening gown of midnight blue and blush pink peau de soie [taffeta]. Intricately made with wide strips of the silk in the two colors wound 'round and 'round. Charmingly complemented with long, pink gloves, blush pink sandals, and a bright turquoise beaded bag.

Red Crepe Dinner Gown.

Elinor Osterman, New York City—Distinction in a dinner gown of red crepe with touches of deep purple velvet. The pencil slim skirt revealed a slit edged in purple velvet. The neckline was high in front and back but a deep V-cutout in back kept it from concealing charm. Two narrow ropes of purple velvet encircled the waist. The mannequin tucked a velvet bow of the same shade in her hair, reflecting also her sandals and gloves. Her furs were silver foxes.

M. Morris, New York City—A bottle green dinner outfit for a champagne mood. A simple gown of taffeta topped with a peri, flaring, velveteen jacket, whose wide cuffs were pushed above the elbows and fastened with three gold cuff links each. The gloves were unusual, also—taffeta with suede palms of the same color. Gold bag and sandals added the proper note.

Band of Buttons.

Shirley Wolk, Detroit, Mich.—A costume fit for a queen! Two shades of blue, Madonna and baby blue, combined to create a satin evening costume. A sheath skirt of the deeper blue and a long, fitted coat of the same shade, banded at the neck and around the bottom with the paler blue. The lower band was studded extravagantly with buttons like star sapphire cabochons. The tunic flared, accentuating the slimness of the skirt with its not so concealing slit. Extremely long, blue gloves, a flat purse of the two satins, and silver sandals completed the picture.

Margaret Husel, Chicago—A dazzling evening ensemble of sapphire blue velveteen and orchid taffeta. The velveteen skirt, long and slit in front, was topped by a taffeta jacket of that rich, deep orchid tone so expensive in flowers. The jacket had a peplum, almost a bustle, in back. It fastened at the deep V-neckline with two triangular velveteen buttons. Flaring gloves and an entrancing bag of taffeta with gold sandals for accessories.

Donald Frist, Clinton, Ind.—A tone poem in serene beige. Artistry in line and workmanship created a superb crêpe dinner gown of the one shade. Gloves and sandals did not mar the even tenor of its ways. Just a sable scarf for contrast.

MERGE OWI NEWS AND INFORMATION BUREAUS IN CITY

The first consolidation of federal public information agencies with news bureaus in the field was reported yesterday by Paul H. Jordan, regional director of the news bureau of the Office of War Information.

Jordan said the Chicago bureau of public inquiries and the news bureau, both outlets for the OWI, have been centralized in room 2600 of the Civic Opera building, 20 North Wacker drive, in a move to coördinate the services.

Homer Mat Adams, former manager of the Springfield office of the defunct Office of Government Reports, is manager of the Chicago OWI bureau of public inquiries. He will work under Robert Cummins of Mandan, N. D., who is regional director of the bureau. William F. Sullivan, who was in charge of the Chicago office of the Office for Emergency Management information division, will be assistant news bureau chief in charge of Illinois operations, Jordan said. The government information agencies were reorganized recently by President Roosevelt.

PRESIDENT SIGNS BILL TO FINANCE 'SECRET WEAPON'

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7 (AP).—A measure authorizing expenditure of $974,634,000 to develop United States naval outposts and to provide funds for "a kind of secret weapon" was signed into law today by President Roosevelt.

During the debate on the bill in the house, Chairman Carl Vinson [D., Ga.] of the naval committee declared that $30,000,000 was earmarked for "a kind of secret training and a kind of secret weapon." He said that for reasons of military secrecy he could not elaborate.

Biggest allotments in the authorization were $399,494,000 for naval aviation facilities to provide training for 27,500 naval aviators and $315,000,000 for miscellaneous structures and advance bases.

DEALERS ASSAIL COUPON SYSTEM IN GAS RATIONING

New York, Aug. 7 (AP).—The executive committee of the Eastern States Gasoline Dealers conference today condemned the coupon rationing system and urged a return to the dealer rationing system "as it is now being successfully applied in Oregon and Washington."

The committee held that the allotment to dealers—to be distributed at their discretion—need not be reduced by more than 30 per cent.

Sol Herzog, counsel for the conference, added that salesmen and other persons who depend on automobile travel for livelihood should not be restricted when pleasure drivers in the midwest may use all the fuel they please.

MEN WIN THREE GRAND PRIZES IN FASHION CONTEST

New Yorker Voted First at Tribune Show.

like to see his girl wear when he goes away to the army soon. It is a suit that any man, in the armed forces or not, would like to see on his best girl. Despite its luxurious mink trimming, the suit fits in with WPB regulations which allows quantities of fur on a costume if desired.

But in just the right swathes, the mink wanders from the right side of the hip length jacket near the shoulder, where it hides a little pocket, around the back of the neck, down to the left side to form a soft patch pocket. The mannequin wore a pert, beige pillbox hat trimmed with a cockade of mink tails, brown gloves and bag, and dainty loop earrings.

Wins Three Times.

The third grand prize winner, Mr. Frist, is now a three times major award winner in the American Fashions contest. Despite his talent, the young designer has had a checkered career. He has hopped from undertaker to dress designer, back to undertaker, and again to dress designer, and now to defense work in an ordnance plant.

In his crêpe dinner dress of glowing beige, he wove flattery and artistry. A fresco of crêpe and chiffon framed the low neckline and graceful cut-out shoulders. Slender as a blade of wheat, the skirt fell in slim, gentle folds to the floor. The mannequin, a golden-haired beauty, wore gloves and sandals that did not mar the even tenor. There were only a sable scarf, ruby and diamond earrings and gold bracelet for contrast. It was a costume for that all-important wartime dinner with a general or a private.

Selection of the grand prize winners presented a more difficult problem this year than ever before. Each costume had a particular adaptability and mood for wartime wear. There were all-purpose costumes, in which a woman could attend an early morning business session, change slightly for an afternoon tea, and end the evening perfectly groomed in long flowing dinner frock or formal gown.

There were misty, ethereal evening gowns for women whose days are spent in the regimentation of uniforms. There were short evening gowns and long, ballerina length and ankle top gowns, each designed for that one all important evening gown this winter season.

One convertible costume combined all the features of a smart winter suit with a cocktail frock and evening gown. It could be worn five ways. A black crêpe ensemble, called Black-out, it could be seen anywhere at anytime. It consisted of a basic dress with a short skirt, a jacket and a cape, all of the same black crêpe. By sleight of hand, the cape became a long, graceful skirt, and the jacket disclosed a decollete bodice of black and flesh net. A flattering hat, a mere snitch of Persian lamb to repeat the fur on the jacket's collar and cuffs, could be worn thru the entire day to opera time.

Trends Are Forecast.

Many new trends were forecast. Conservation of material left nothing to be missed in the slim, pencil-silhouetted skirts, the three-quarter length sleeves and the brief jackets. Hand or saddle stitching gained a new prominence, being used for finesse on simple, tailored frocks. Gloves were long and graceful, many being of the same material as the garment. Bags were no mere bagatelles, but large and roomy to accommodate all the addenda women believe necessary as well as defense reports or other important papers.

It was noted that jewelry will be worn with all types of costumes, but not as lavishly as last season. The brilliance of the precious and semi-precious gems enhanced each outfit in the show. The jewels were lent for the occasion by the Chicago chapter of the American Gem society.

Glowing shades of hose were worn by the mannequins because of studio lighting effects, but Mrs. Pickering said the tones were comparable to the leg makeup which is now popular.

None to Look Alike.

The collection, despite very definite trends, emphasized that no two women must look alike this season, except, in uniforms. Evening gowns ran from breathless fragility to daring sophistication.

One Cinderella frock in aquamarine taffeta and tulle was romance and youth, first love and last. In a mist of grace, the tulle formed an overskirt which was split and tied at intervals around the hips to form diamond shaped cut-outs. The slender bodice of the taffeta, rose into wide shoulder straps caught with taffeta bows. The merest whisper of a belt encircled the mannequin's tiny waist. Soft, blue suede gloves and silver sandals added to the starry effect.

On the other hand, there was a green silk jersey evening dress, so daring, so clinging, and revealing that it looked like the stuff that successful women spies are made of. Still, subtly it was a perfect lady's gown. Only a patrician figure could be enhanced by the bare midriff. Gold sandals and a Russian ermine coat, which were modeled with the gown, did nothing to take away the illusion.

Afternoon Frocks Smart.

For women, whose duties do not require uniforms, smart, chic, but simple afternoon frocks were in the collection. One, a coat dress ironically entitled Patches, was created for the quiet woman of the world. Of black crêpe, its only trimming was bright stripes of red, turquoise blue, reseda green, purple, and black which clustered together at the cuffs. It was spectacular with a purple hat and bag, and black shoes and gloves.

Three of the charming afternoon costumes, one a suit, another a coat dress and the third a simple one piece frock with an unusual treatment, have been patterned by THE TRIBUNE for the public. It is the first time that any of the exclusive models in the American Fashions competitions have been copied into patterns for TRIBUNE readers. The patterns have been made to help women to dress smartly during wartime.

Sketches to Be Printed.

Before and after the preview and the show last evening, the audience viewed sketches of 50 honorable mention designs exhibited in Harmony hall between W-G-N studios and Tribune Tower.

The show itself set a new production standard in staging of fashion reviews. A corps of the nation's top-flight mannequins, selected from hundreds by Mrs. Pickering, modeled the gowns which had been made to their exact measurements. Appropriate music, keyed to the mode of each costume, was played by Jack Russell's orchestra.

Descriptions Keep Pace.

Vivid, entertaining descriptions of each gown by Marvin Mueller, W-G-N announcer, kept pace with the parade of the mannequins down the runway. Details of style were noted by India Moffett, women's editor of THE TRIBUNE, who assisted in the commentating. The production was directed by Kenneth McGregor of W-G-N.

The show, featuring the three grand prize winning costumes, will be presented again this afternoon in the studio. All tickets for the performance have been sold. Net proceeds of both last evening's show, also a sellout, and this afternoon's, will be given to the United Service Organizations.

The preview, which was held in the afternoon, accommodated members of the Inter-State Merchants council and other manufacturers and fashion buyers here for annual market week. The preview had been advertised by the Chicago Association of Commerce as one of the features of market week.

YANK GOB HUNTS BLACK MARKET— AT THE RED CROSS

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The bluntness of newly arrived American service men sometimes startles the British. Today, for example, an American gob fresh from the sea eagerly approached a titled lady at the Red Cross Service Men's club.

"Lady," he said, "can you tell me where to find the nearest black market? I want to get a bottle of good Scotch."

When the matron got over her astonishment, she set the gob straight. "Okay, lady," he said. "One of our guys just steered me wrong."

TRIBUNE PAPER MILL OFFERS U. S. RUBBER SOURCE

Would Make Butadiene from Waste.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THOROLD, Ont., Aug. 7.—The Ontario Paper company, a subsidiary of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, today announced that it has applied to the War Production board at Washington, D. C., for priorities on distilling apparatus thru which rubber to help win the war will be made from a paper mill by-product.

The company told the WPB it would finance construction of facilities necessary to convert sulphite liquor—the waste product—into alcohol, the step preceding its conversion into synthetic rubber. Further, the company stated it would make the process available to other paper mills.

Can Fill 10% of Needs.

It is estimated that the sulphite liquor, which is drawn off in the production of wood pulp paper, is available in sufficient quantities in the United States and Canada to make 90,000 tons of synthetic rubber each year. This is about 10 per cent of our present rubber need.

Chemical and engineering details already have been worked out and the Ontario Paper company is ready, as soon as necessary materials are made available, to start building the distilleries and other apparatus. In outlining the plan to the government, the Ontario company set forth a number of the benefits to be gained.

First and most important, large supplies of alcohol would be obtained from a source now completely wasted. There would be no need to use vital war materials in the construction of new plants, for the steam plants, electric power equipment, and storage facilities of the existing paper mills would be used. In addition the scientific and technical staffs of the paper mills would produce the alcohol for butadiene, principal ingredient of the most practical kind of synthetic rubber, helping to allay the shortage of highly trained producers.

Would Save Transportation.

Second, the waste sulphite is already at the mills, where it would be processed. Neither water nor rail transportation would be required, and hundreds of ships or boxcars which would be required to transport raw materials to the plants for other methods of alcohol production would be released for other war needs.

Third, the possibility of using existing facilities in the production of alcohol from sulphite liquor will eliminate the need for large capital investment in new plants, etc., at a time when money is needed for other war effort. It is estimated that the conversion to alcohol production in one large plant for which plans have been drafted would cost less than $400,000.

The paper company is pioneering in this new method of rubber production in the conviction that it will importantly help to erase the rubber shortage. Since one ton of synthetic rubber can be obtained from each 1,000 gallons of alcohol produced from sulphite liquor and since 90,000,000 gallons of alcohol can be obtained from waste sulphite liquor produced in the United States and Canada each year, this single source will produce approximately 10 per cent of our rubber needs.

Description of Process.

Synthetic rubber can, of course, be produced from oil, coal, or other products, but the method to be employed at the Ontario Paper company plant would be a conversion from alcohol obtained either from farm products or sulphite liquor.

Sulphite liquor results after sulphurous acid has been used to extract the sugars from wood being made into paper. The distilling apparatus then would boil the liquor and condense the vapor to make alcohol, after a fermentation process had prepared the waste product.

Thru a series of chemical processes, the alcohol would be converted into butadiene, which in combination with styrene would make rubber. The alcohol-to-butadiene process is comparatively new to this country and is the subject of intensive experimentation in a number of research laboratories.

Among these is the Universal Oil Products company of Chicago, where Prof. Vladimir Ipatieff, who first made butadiene from alcohol in 1301, is at work refining the process.

A high type product—buna rubber—results from the process which now has reached the practical stage. It is buna rubber that goes into the tires of the Nazi and Russian war machines.

Two Types of Buna.

The Germans began their experiments immediately after the last war, when rubber was expensive and money in Germany either was almost worthless or nonexistent. The annual quantities in which the Germans turned out their product would not compare to the volume possible in this country and Canada, experts assert.

At best Germany turned out only about half the synthetic rubber tonnage that could be achieved here, available records indicate. Now, after three years of war and with no surplus petroleum available, the Nazis are using coal for the process.

The Russians create their buna rubber from wheat, potatoes, and other farm products. Exact production figures are not available.

There are two types of buna rubber: buna-S and buna-N. Of these the first is the less expensive and could be turned out in larger quantities. The chief charactertistic of the other is that it is oil resisting. Tires made of buna-N are used in oil fields, around refineries, and where it is necessary to protect tires from quantities of oil.

The styrene required for buna-S can be made from a wide variety of materials. The most efficient known catalyst for styrene production is solid phosphoric acid, which is obtained in ample quantity in the Chicago area. Large scale styrene production is being planned here under particularly favorable conditions, with minimum use of scarce materials.

Service Men's Center Is Year Old

Cutting the birthday cake are Mayor and Mrs. Edward J. Kelly and (between them) Irwin Tucker, chairman of the center's commissary, while a group of soldiers and sailors look on.

Cake 4 Feet High

Mayor and Mrs. Kelly cut a birthday cake yesterday. The cake was 4 feet high, 2 feet in diameter, and was topped with an American flag, a Chicago flag, and a single red, white, and blue candle. The candle was in honor of the first anniversary of the Chicago Service Men's center at 174 West Washington street. The cake was cut in the Center canteen, which has operated under the direction of Mrs. Kelly. Soldiers and sailors were present at the birthday party.

DR. L. E. SCHMIDT, LONG ON HEALTH BOARD, MARRIED

In their apartment at the Pearson hotel yesterday, Dr. Louis E. Schmidt and his bride, the former Mrs. Lillian D. Stevens, were undetermined where to go on their honeymoon. Their surprise marriage had been revealed and they were receiving friends and congratulations.

Mrs. L. E. Schmidt.

Dr. Schmidt, 73 years old, well known surgeon, and Mrs. Stevens, former secretary to Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the city board of health, were married Thursday in the Disciples of Christ church, 57th street and University avenue, by the Rev. Edward Scribner Ames. The doctor, who until his resignation this week, had been a member of the board of health for years, said he had known his bride for some 20 years.

Mrs. Schmidt has a son, Sergt. Richard Stevens, in the 33d division, engineers, and a daughter, Mrs. Robert Moore in Washington, D. C.

U. S. HOLDS 50,000 TONS OF RUBBER IN 2 YARDS HERE

Fifty thousand tons of scrap rubber gathered in Illinois, Wisconsin, and Iowa during the rubber drive is being stored by the federal Rubber Reserve corporation in two Chicago yards, Frank M. Murchison, manager of the Chicago loan agency of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, disclosed yesterday. He is buying agent for the RRC.

The yards are at 2723 West 47th street and at 43d street and Damen avenue. The discarded rubber, to be stored until needed by reclaiming plants, is the property of the government and must not be sold except for reprocessing.

Murchison said reports that the scrap was being stored and useful tires sold to dealers were unfounded. He said attendants at the lots are forbidden to sell any of the rubber and that investigation has indicated that none of the government's property has been removed illegally.

Fire Prevention Week Proclaimed by Roosevelt

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7 (AP).—President Roosevelt has proclaimed the week starting Oct. 4 as fire prevention week, declaring it was essential that destructive fire be controled more strictly "that victory may be achieved at the earliest date."

SUBS SINK THREE MORE VESSELS; SEIZE CAPTAIN

Report Ship Leisurely Stalked by U-Boat.

Loss of a Uruguayan ship, a Norwegian freighter, and a Panamanian 418 merchant vessel, disclosed yesterday, increased the Associated Press tabulation of announced sinkings in the western Atlantic since Pearl Harbor to 418. Since then 2,346 persons have lost their lives in the attacks, 1,630 are missing, and 12,819 have been reported rescued.

The torpedo sinking of the brightly lighted Uruguayan merchant ship Maldonado by a submarine which cruised leisurely around her for four hours, and the capture of her captain at gun point by the submarine commander, were reported by 13 survivors who drifted five days before being rescued by a United States warship. Three other lifeboats have not been reported.

Sub Stalks Vessel.

The survivors, thru George Jhons told how a submarine they were certain was German stalked their vessel before sending a shell crashing into her boiler. The submersible cruised around the ship but the crew said they were not alarmed because they thought the flood-lit Uruguayan flag would protect them. The captain was so undisturbed that he retired to his cabin.

When the submarine signaled for the crew to abandon ship, the men did not reply and the submarine fired. The men said they took to the boats then and the submarine came alongside and the captain ordered aboard by a sub officer holding a machine gun. The ship later was sunk.

Sunk in Gulf of Mexico.

A U-boat sank the Panamanian ship in the Gulf of Mexico June 6. One oiler was killed but 51 survivors were picked up by a rescue vessel within 15 minutes.

The captain and three seamen were lost when the Norwegian craft went down. Thirty-nine survivors, adrift in three lifeboats, were picked up by a British warcraft soon after the vessel went down.

FORD TO AID 150 FIGHTING LOSS OF HOMES FOR PARK

Ann Arbor, Mich., Aug. 7 [Special.]—Henry Ford, it was reported today, has offered his company's legal services to aid 150 residents of Vanburen township, Wayne county, in their fight against condemnation proceedings begun by the Huron Clinton parkway authority to obtain 1,000 acres of land along the Huron river, just south of the Willow Run bomber plant, for development of a recreational park for war workers.

A Ford attorney, Frank Nolan, told a meeting of the protest group that "your neighbor, Henry Ford, will not sit idly by and let you be put out of your homes."

Spokesmen for the group said they believed the project was both unnecessary and unwise, and pointed out that 60 families would be forced from long established homes at a time when it is difficult if not impossible to build, buy or rent new homes because of the influx of war workers. The area also includes two large privately operated parks.

ALLIED PARLEYS ON SAVING RUSSIA OPEN IN KREMLIN

U. S. Envoy and General Meet with Reds.

LONDON, Aug. 7 (AP).—Urgent conferences among allied strategists and diplomats on means to save Russia now as an essential to winning the war were in progress at Moscow today. This information came from sources whose identity could not be disclosed.

Known to be conferring with Russian militarists in the Kremlin were:

Adm. William H. Standley, American ambassador to Russia, who flew from the alternate capital at Kuibyshev.

Maj. Gen. Follett Bradley of the United States air forces, who flew to Moscow from the United States with a personal message from President Roosevelt to Premier Josef Stalin.

Sir Archibald Clark Kerr, British ambassador to Russia, who flew from Kuibyshev to the Kremlin.

Maj. Gen. William Steffens, Norwegian military attaché to Kuibyshev.

Seek to Relieve Pressure.

The established presence of these conferees suggested that others representing their own and other united nations were in Moscow to help determine how to relieve the pressure on the Red armies defending the Caucasus oil and the Volga lifeline of supply.

Indeed, axis radio broadcasts of the last several days have rumored that Prime Minister Churchill has been in Moscow along with William C. Bullitt, special envoy of Mr. Roosevelt.

Axis sources several days ago put out the rumor that Stalin had gone to the southern front to direct the defense of the Caucasus and his namesake city, Stalingrad. It was said in Moscow today that Gen. Bradley had not yet had the opportunity to deliver Mr. Roosevelt's message to Stalin.

Deny Steinhardt's Presence.

Another axis broadcast launched the report that Laurence A. Steinhardt, former United States ambassador to Russia and now the American envoy to Turkey, had gone to Moscow from Ankara, but Moscow dispatches said he was not there and not expected.

The purpose of Bradley's mission was given in a Russian communique as "a discussion with the appropriate soviet authorities of practical questions connected with the supply of arms and war materials to the U. S. S. R. from the United States."

British official sources maintained a fast silence on the Moscow conferences except to disclose that their ambassador was in on them.

Among the subjects likely to be under discussion in Moscow were the "second front," and the supply of implements for Russian military use against the Germans all along the eastern front.

The supply lines are threatened perilously in the south and no less urgently in the north where material moves to Murmansk and Archangel along frigid routes infested with German warships and planes.

Fear Jap Drive on Russia.

These warnings were reiterated by Dr. George Yeh, London director of the Chinese ministry of information, who said the Japanese appeared to have deployed their forces on the Siberian frontier both for attack and for defense against Chinese-soviet flanking attempts.

Dr. Yeh said that more Japanese troops were moving north to reënforce upwards of half a million already reported there and that 1,000 Japanese planes had been concentrated in the northeast.

JAPANESE HINT SOLDIERS MIGHT ATTACK SIBERIA

New York, Aug. 7 (AP).—The Tokio radio broadcast Japanese editorial comment containing the first hints from there that Japan herself might open a second front with an attack on Russia in Siberia.

The broadcast noted reports of the arrival in Moscow of allied representatives and said the moves in the Russian capital were "indicative of further Anglo-American machinations aimed to open up a second front to save the soviet union from collapse." The Japanese press, the radio added, pointed out that formation of a second front was not necessarily restricted to Europe or western Asia or Africa.

The radio quoted the newspaper Chugai as warning that this point should be borne in mind by Japan "and that with the approach of the decisive struggle between Germany and the soviet union Japan too should be prepared even more fully for ultimate victory."

There have been various reports, particularly from Chinese quarters, that Japan had massed a large army in eastern Asia for an attack on Siberia.

YANK BOMBERS SURPRISE JAPS; BLAST 10 PLANES

Raid Enemy's Air Base at Canton, China.

CHUNGKING, China, Aug. 7 (AP).—With 34 planes in all, the Japanese extensively reconnoitered Hunan, Kwangtung, and Kwangsi provinces today, according to the Chinese central news agency, as a sequel to yesterday's destructive American air attack on one of their airdromes.

The American raid was on Tienho airdrome near Canton. At least 10 Japanese planes were destroyed on the ground, a communique from Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters said.

"The Japanese were taken completely by surprise," it said, adding that the bombers also scored hits on the airdrome runway.

All U. S. Planes Return.

A Chinese army communique reported a fresh Japanese land thrust in coastal Chekiang province was being held in check in the vicinity of Sungyang, while the battle for Linchwan in adjoining Kiangsi province was continuing.

The Japanese received reënforcements and attacked Chinese positions at Linchwan's western and southern gates the night of Aug. 4, but finally were repelled after suffering 500 casualities, the communique said. Wulitang, a southern suburb, changed hands six times.

Land Mine Wrecks Train.

Japanese forces trying to rescue remnants from Hawan, 12 miles southeast of Linchwan, have been beaten back, the communique added.

In northern Anhwei province, it said, more than 1,000 Japanese troops with artillery attacked Chinese positions north of Kwoyang July 30. Fighting still is in progress.

In Hupeh province, the communique said, several hundred Japanese were killed July 27 when a Chinese land mine wrecked a Japanese munitions train en route from Hankow to Hwayuan.

Information reaching Chungking said the Japanese were enlarging Kaitack airdrome at Hongkong, former terminus of trans-Pacific Clipper service from the United States and were moving residents out of adjoining property. The airport is in Kowloon bay across from Hongkong.

COUPLE ROBBED.

A watch and $27 were taken early yesterday from Jerome Kritcheksky, 7049 Chappel avenue, by two Negroes who also robbed his companion, Miss Esther Weiss, 909 East 50th street, of a watch. The robbery occurred in front of her home.

FINNS DENY REPORTS EX-ENVOY TO RUSSIA IS ON PEACE MISSION

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Aug. 7 (AP).—Authoritative Finnish quarters tonight discredited foreign reports that Juhu Paasikivi, former minister to Russia, is engaged on a peace mission. These sources said his current Scandinavian trip is strictly privat.

[The British radio, as heard in New York, quoted Paasikivi, who signed the soviet-Finnish peace treaty in 1940, as telling Danish newspaper men in Copenhagen that "in Finland the question of peace with Russia is often discussed," and adding that "I do not think my mission is finished yet."]

STERLING EX-FIRE CHIEF DIES.

Sterling, Ill., Aug. 7 [Special].—M. C. Williams, 73 years old, retired, a railroad man for 51 years and a former fire chief here, died today of a heart attack.

HEPBURN VISIONS AXIS ATTACK ON ATLANTIC COAST

FERGUS, Ont., Aug. 7 (AP).—Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario, who recently predicted an imminent Japanese bombing of the American mainland, today declared, "I believe we are going to have an attack on the Atlantic coast very soon, and a two ocean attack in the near future."

In a speech at the opening of the $2,000,000 Shand dam here, the provincial premier described Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King's dominion government as "those men at Ottawa with Vichy minds." He said, "I believe our fate all depends on the disposition of the French fleet in the Mediterranean and the German drive into the Caucasus."

Hepburn said the Ottawa government was "an army of penguins" impeding a full war effort in Canada.

"They are feeding us sugar coated news from Ottawa by an army of high paid publicists at public expense whose whole efforts have been to conceal the truth," he added.

AIR SUPPLY LINE TO ALASKA URGED IN PLACE OF ROAD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C. Aug. 7.—Contentions that all the military supplies needed for immediate defense of Alaska against Japanese invasion could be carried there by air at less cost than it will take to complete the Alaska highway have been placed before army and navy high commands by transportation experts.

Furthermore, these experts assert the fleet of planes to carry out this operation could be built and in operation before the two years are up that it will take to finish the highway. They are urging the armed forces to take a lesson from the Burma road and recognize the value of air transportation in the defense of Alaska.

Cite Burma Experiences.

The Burma road, thru which supplies were sent from Burma into China, wound for 726 tortuous miles thru mountainous country. At peak operations 4,500 trucks were employed" on the route. The trucks made the round trip in six days and were good for about 20 round trips. The peak load carried by the trucks in a month was 17,000 tons.

Just before the Jap invasion of Burma the route was in process of being augmented by air transportation. Under the conversion, 28 Douglas DC-3 transportation planes were to do a job equal to that of the 4,500 trucks on the route.

By air the route was about 300 miles. Each plane could make about 4½ round trips a day, carrying some 6,000 pounds of supplies. Running at capacity the 28 planes could equal the peak truck load of 17,000 tons a month, according to transport experts.

Ideal Air Route.

Alaska, according to the data laid before the army and navy by transportation experts, is as ideally suited for air transport operation as was the Burma road area. At present some supplies being moved into Alaska are being moved by air, the army has acknowledged. Transportation experts insist the air fleet serving the area is not large enough, however.

The Alaska road, now under construction, is 2,100 miles long. The distance is considerably shorter by direct air line. For Alaska air transport service, Douglas DC-4 transports could be used, capable of carrying 10,000 pounds of any form of supplies from ammunition to tanks, experts say.

The number of planes to be used would depend upon the amount of supplies needed. Air transport experts are confident that a relatively small fleet of planes could do the work of a large number of trucks even if the Alaska highway were completed.

High Cost Listed.

They recognize that there should eventually be road communication between Alaska and Canada and the United States, but hold that the present is a poor time for the development. In wartime the road will cost at least $50,000,000, air experts say. This sum could more than build and maintain an air transport fleet large enough to supply Alaska.

Further, they argue, the amount of critical materials in road construction is far greater than would be needed for the construction of the planes to say nothing of the materials needed for the trucks which would be used to haul supplies.

For the present, air transportation experts recommended that emphasis be placed on air transportation and the road building be left until after the war. They recognize that the road should have been built years ago, and should be built in the future, but assert it should not be developed now.

PRESIDENT ASKS PARK STATUES, CANNON FOR WAR

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7 (AP).—President Roosevelt said today he thought it would be a good idea to collect old cannon and bronze statues from the nation's parks for melting into weapons of war. The suggestion was made at a press conference at which he urged citizens to gather in scrap metal for the war effort.

The President smilingly told newsmen that he thought a great many parks probably would look better if the statues were converted into weapons and replaced after the war with something more artistic. He only laughed when asked whether he had any specific statuary in mind.

Report Mexico Plans to Auction Axis Properties

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, Aug. 7 (AP).—The newspaper Excelsior said today that according to well-informed sources properties of axis nationals would be sold at auction to compensate for damage caused to Mexico by the enemy.

Posthumous Honor

Maj. Gen. George Grunert presenting James W. Orr with distinguished flying cross awarded to son. With them is Mrs. James W. Orr.

In the first ceremony of its kind in metropolitan Chicago, the distinguished flying cross was awarded posthumously yesterday to Second Lieut. James J. Orr of Oak Park, who sacrificed his life and the lives of his crew when he crashed a bomb laden army plane into a gravel pit near Mitchell field, N. Y., rather than endanger civilians by a forced landing in a street.

Lieut. J. J. Orr.

The cross was presented to Lieut. Orr's father, James W. Orr, by Maj. Gen. George Grunert, commanding general of the 6th service command, in a full military ceremony in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel. As part of the program the 740th military police battalion commanded by Lieut. Col. S. Z. Eleveld and stationed at the Stevens hotel was reviewed by Gen. Grunert and Mayor Kelly.

The official citation said that Lieut. Orr's action "reflects great credit on himself and the army air forces." Lieut. Orr decided to crash on Jan. 1, 1942, when one of his engines failed two miles east of the landing field at less than 500 feet altitude. The airplane was loaded with four 300 pound demolition bombs, fuel and tactical equipment and was flying over a thickly populated residential district.

JAPS PAY DEARLY FOR ALEUTIANS, AIR CHIEF SAYS

Santa Monica, Cal., Aug. 7 (AP).—Japanese occupation of Attu and Kiska in the Aleutian Islands has been costly to the invaders, Artemus L. Gates, assistant secretary of the navy for air, told a press conference today, and it will be even more costly.

Expressing reluctance to discuss the Aleutian situation because he said it was a military matter, Gates added:

"By being in the Aleutian Islands, the Japanese are that much nearer to our shores, and naturally to the extent of those miles, our danger is greater."

He said the Aleutian occupation was "a very definite part of the Midway adventure," failure of which caused a switch in plans after the initial attack on Dutch Harbor.

Aid to Allies Admitted Not Up to Promises.

central Pacific and reënforced Australia; but he [the enemy] still holds the Philippines, and the Dutch islands and the rubber that we need."

The situation at home likewise is a job done ' pretty well but not well enough," OWI asserted.

Production "Not Enough."

"Our production, measured by our standards of a couple of years ago, is amazing; measured against what we need to win, it is not yet enough. In June we fell slightly below schedule in total military planes, in total combat planes, and in most of the individual types; we made more planes than any other country in the world, but we did not make as many as we said we were going to make. The same is true of tanks, of most types of artillery and naval vessels—particularly the small craft needed to fight submarines."

In July, the review said, the curve of submarine sinkings thruout the world started downward and, while it was hoped this trend would continue, "production of small vessels for the anti-submarine campaign is still lagging and in June was less than half of schedule.

"Even if shipbuilding continued to rise and sinkings to decrease, we shall probably be well into 1943 before we again have as much merchant shipping as we had on Dec. 7, 1941," the review declared.

Faulty Control Criticized.

OWI was critical of "faulty control of inventories and of flow of materials" which it said had forced some temporary shutdowns in war plants. The review added however that the war production drive was taking a new turn to emphasize output of materials and that "mistakes made this time were perhaps unavoidable and will not be made again.

"But, their consequences will be with us for some time to come, and the resolution not to repeat them must be backed up by an intensified effort of the entire nation."

Declaring that there was no doubt that the American people meant to win the war, OWI contended there was doubt "that all of us realize how hard we are going to have to work to win it.

"Too many people seem to feel that we are fighting this war out of a surplus—a surplus of resources and productive capacity, a surplus of time," OWI said. "That is not true.

People 'Fooling Themselves.'

"We should all like to believe, for instance, that we are going to have all the rubber we need for pleasure driving as well as for military and essential civilian uses. But there is no present prospect of that; if people eagerly believe everybody who tells them that there is going to be plenty of rubber, they are only fooling themselves and helping the enemy."

This country is fighting a war against an enemy "with whom no honorable peace is possible," the Review asserted, adding that "we can win it if we realize that winning it is the one vitally important thing in the world today, but we are not winning it yet."

Must Fight to Win.

Emphasizing that wars are won only by fighting battles with what is produced in munitions plants, "and winning some of those battles," OWI forecast that "it is probable that we shall also lose some of them, and certain that we are not going to win without heavy losses of men."

"We had better prepare ourselves for that," OWI cautioned, "and learn to take it as our ancestors took it. In a global war we cannot expect always to win everywhere; we may have to learn to take local and temporary defeats as part of the price of ultimate victory."

2 INCH RAINFALL DRENCHES LOOP, SLOWS TRAFFIC

Heavy rains pelted the city in the late afternoon yesterday during a storm that knotted traffic, drenched thousands in the loop area and caused an involuntary black-out in the city hall and county building.

Much of the downpour appeared to be concentrated in the loop. The sanitary district reported that two inches of rain fell in one hour in the loop, but the United States weather bureau office at the airport measured only .04 of an inch during the storm.

Lights Out in City Hall.

Electrical current in the city hall and county building was shut off an hour when water backed up in a sewer in the sanitary district's substation, which supplies the current, and threatened to flood all of the wiring.

Traffic in the loop was snarled. Mrs. Martha Walter, 53 years old, 4826 Winthrop avenue, suffered from shock while other passengers were shaken up when lightning hit an Ashland avenue street car at Addison street.

Street cars were stopped at 14 points where deeply flooded underpasses compelled passengers to get off and take cars on the other side.

Motor Buses Detour.

The underpasses filled were at Grand and Kenton avenues, North and Kenton, Diversey and Kildare, Montrose and Cicero, 81st and Parnell, Western and Logan boulevard, 47th and Federal, Racine at 16th, Elston at Hobson, Blue Island and 16th, 56th and Lake Park, 79th and Green, Grand and Michigan, and 31st and Federal. Motor coaches were forced to detour at some of these points.

Lightning struck a transformer shed on the grounds of the Pullman Standard Car company, 11001 Cottage Grove avenue. It burst into flames and cut off the power of three adjoining offices. Water flooded the basement lockup in the Englewood police station. A live wire dropped at 64th and Green streets.

How Rear Admiral Sherman Fought the Coral Sea Battles, as told by Stanley Johnston

What two insignia can only Rear Admiral Richard C. Sherman wear? What is his opinion of the value of aircraft carriers in modern warfare?

In tomorrow's Chicago Sunday Tribune, Stanley Johnston, the only newspaper man to witness the Coral sea battle, will give you a detailed account of the aircraft carrier Lexington's commander during this historic victory. How Sherman of the Lexington dodged Jap bombs, how he fought fires below decks and how he finally had to abandon his ship will be related just as Johnston saw it happen from the carrier's battle deck. BLAME U. S. ARMY SCATTERING FOR AUSSIES' PLIGHT

Military Men Advance Reasons for Policy.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—The plight of Australia as Japan seizes base after base in a new southwest Pacific offensive is attributed by military men to the prevailing policy of scattering our forces thruout the world and not concentrating adequate striking power at any one point.

Two main reasons are advanced for the administration's failure to send more men and planes and other equipment to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, allied commander in chief in the Australian theater.

The first is that we could not provide the men and equipment and the shipping necessary for their transportation without diverting supplies from other fronts, notably Russia, Egypt, and the British Isles.

The second reason suggested in explanation of the administration's policy is that Australia has been sufficiently strengthened to defend it against a possible Japanese invasion attempt, while it is too far away to be used as a base for offensive operations against the Japanese.

Senators Plan Quiz.

Friends of Gen. MacArthur insist that if the hope of a future offensive based on Australia has been abandoned he should not be kept "on ice down under" but should be given an assignment commensurate with his military ability.

Members of congress who have been most concerned about the administration's war strategy conceded that it is a serious question whether men and supplies should be sent to Australia at the expense of other fronts. It was learned, however, that the menace to Australia, the Japanese occupation of three Aleutian islands, the "Russian debacle" and other allied reverses are being considered as a whole by a group of Democratic senators who are quietly planning an investigation of the conduct of the war, including such questions as the determination of strategy and the distribution of munitions.

According to these senators, who were supporters of the administration's foreign policy before Pearl Harbor, the investigating committee headed by Sen. Harry S. Truman [D., Mo.] was created under New Deal auspices and has been concerned primarily with the industrial management theories of the young lawyers on its staff.

Dispatches Reveal Situation.

The uniformity of dispatches filed by correspondents for press associations and individual newspapers from "somewhere in Australia" and published today, all of which were passed by "military censorship," suggested a common and authoritative source, such as a press conference. According to these dispatches, only a "trickle" of men and supplies have gone to Australia. American troops there number only slightly more than the Australian troops now serving in other theaters of war. All the American planes in the southwest Pacific represent less than three days of American production. Since the last official announcement indicated that our plane production is about 4,000 a month, presumably there are fewer than 400 American planes in the Australian theater.

While the dispatches state that American bombers are superior in quality to the Japanese equipment, they add that the Curtiss P-40 and Bell Airacobra [P-39] fighters are no match for the highly maneuverable and high climbing Japanese Zeroes.

Only Planes Available Now.

But these are the only fighting planes now being produced in sufficient quantities to spare them for Australia. The Republic P-47 "Thunderbolt" is said to have a ceiling of more than 40,000 feet and to be the equal or superior of any fighting plane in the world, but, according to a report by the Truman committee, it cannot be delivered in appreciable quantities until the end of 1942.

Ever since the Pacific war began in December Australian and New Zealand officials have differed with those of Great Britain and the United States as to the relative importance of the southwest Pacific theater. The disposition of American and British officials to regard the war with Japan as subordinate to the main objective of crushing Hitler has provoked repeated protests from Australia and New Zealand.

Their demands were primarily responsible last March for the appointment of Gen. MacArthur as commander in chief of the united nation's forces in the southwest Pacific. The scope of Gen. MacArthur's command remained ambiguous, however, until complaints filed by correspondents and passed by his censors resulted in a clarification which put New Zealand under a separate naval command.

Pacific War Council Created.

Australia and New Zealand still were not satisfied with their treatment by the British government. Prime Minister John Curtin of Australia made a speech in March saying Australia looked to the United States instead of Britain for leadership in the southwest Pacific. Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, Australian minister for external affairs, came to Washington with a demand for the creation of a Pacific war council, in which Australian and New Zealand representatives would sit as full united nations partners, and not as subordinates, which had been their status in the London Pacific council. The Pacific war council was created at the end of March.

This action placated Prime Minister Curtin, who had protested indignantly a week earlier when Australia's ambassador to the United States, Richard G. Casey, was appointed British minister of state for the middle east.

While apparently satisfied with their representation in the allied war councils, Australian officials have continued to demand greater aid from the United States.

NEW ZEALAND'S CABINET TO PEG FARM MAN POWER

Entry of Men in Army Being Felt.

BY QUENTIN POPE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Aug. 7.—Farm War Production Minister William J. Polson today announced that New Zealand's war cabinet is moving to peg farm man power to ensure that agricultural output is maintained at an adequate level. He said he had asked the cabinet to strike a balance between army and civil requirements. He added that the pegging move was a step in a plan designed to carry on production at a war winning figure.

"The first problem is man power," the minister declared. "We can't maintain production unless we do something about that, and we're getting on with the job."

Plan Women's Land Army.

Polson forecast the creation of regional production councils to help develop farm war plants. He also said an effort is now being made to mobilize a women's land army.

The degree which national mobilization has reached was indicated by the minister's words: "We must take men from the army because there is nowhere else we can get them."

The supply ministry disclosed that soldiers are being released to help grow and harvest a record tobacco crop.

A. MacLagan, new minister of industrial man power, said the government is studying creation of a special section in the national service ministry to deal exclusively with direction of the country's industrial resources. A survey is being pushed to ascertain the man power of various industries, the extent of their labor losses, and also possible shortages.

Seek to Learn Trends.

MacLagan said the war administration is determined to learn the present trends so that labor could be allocated intelligently. He called the man power position not yet acute, altho beginning to feel the effects of mobilization.

Farmers and industrialists united in urging adoption of a man power policy to meet essential needs of the army and industry.

Walter Mulholland, the farmers' leader, called attention to the "very definite relationship between production and the fighting man and a maximum war effort," and urged the balance be created at once.

Past releases of soldiers for farm work had only carried producers over labor peaks, Mulholland said.

AXIS IN N. AFRICA GETTING SUPPLIES BY SPEEDBOATS

WITH BRITISH EASTERN MEDITERRANEAN FLEET, Aug. 7 (AP).—Nazi Marshal Erwin Rommel is counting on speedy motor torpedo boats and barges to bring what he needs quickly: Gasoline and ammunition.

The sudden appearance of increasing numbers of these small craft near Matruh and Sidi Barrani indicates he is hoping they can keep his advanced lines at El Alamein supplied while axis cargo ships escorted by warships pour materials and men into Tobruk and Bengazi.

Whatever the enemy gets in by speedboat to Matruh and Sidi Barrani saves that much from the long and difficult overland haul. That is why Rommel has clung to these two small ports despite smashing bombardment by the British fleet and heavy raids by American and British planes. British naval guns have made Matruh virtually useless for large ships, while only small craft are able to get into Sidi Barrani even under the best condtions.

CATHOLIC PAPER CRITICIZES U. S. WAR LEADERSHIP

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 7 [Special].—Leadership of the nation in the war effort has been "far from brilliant," it was charged today in an editorial in the Catholic Standard and Times, publication of the archdiocese of Philadelphia, which also urged that "something should be done about it."

"A good start," it was asserted in the periodical, the board of directors of which is headed by Cardinal Dennis Dougherty "would be to stop publicity seeking burocrats from whining about those who are doing more than they for the war effort, and to have some competent official make an authoritative statement on the true state of affairs."

The paper urged that "these men should get out of the artificiality of Washington, and mix with common people and find out what they think.' It added:

"In this section a small percentage believe that victory is only a matter of time. But a large majority are frankly worried. They do not like the contradictions that come out of Washington. They have acquired a great respect for the ability of the axis generals; the unchecked success of the German submarine worries them; Russia's refusal to allow allied observers has created doubts, and there are numerous other factors that have served to upset any complacency that the citizens might cherish."

PLAN COMMANDO TRAINING IN N. Y. PUBLIC SCHOOLS

New York, Aug. 7 [Special].—The New York City school system has revised its health education program so that high school students will receive training to prepare them for later induction into the army.

Officials expect the new physical training course to develop a "junior commandos." Frederic Ernst, associate superintendent, said that every boy from 16 to 18 years of age, capable of undertaking the strenuous program, would be expected to participate. The program will be patterned after one tried last year in the Flushing High school, providing for a gradual increase in standards of running, jumping, weight carrying and various other physical tasks.

Among other requirements were: dip 10 times on parallels; chin 10 times; climb ropes without feet; vault over elephant at five feet; pick up and carry own weight 100 yards; high jump four feet; step and leap 16 feet; running broad jump 16 feet; run quarter mile in 62 seconds; run half mile in 2½ minutes, and run mile in 6 minutes.

Protests at Horace Dodge Commission Go to Capital

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7 (AP).—Sen. Prentiss M. Brown [D., Mich.] said today he had forwarded to the war department several written protests he had received against the appointment of Horace E. Dodge, wealthy Detroit boat builder, as a major in the army. Brown said Dodge's appointment had stirred editorial comment and caused individual protests in Michigan, but that he knew nothing about the circumstances and merely had referred the matter to the war department.

Britain to Compel Women to Act as Fire Watchers

LONDON, Aug. 7 (AP).—Compulsory fire watching by women 20 to 45 years old was introduced today with a statement by Home Secretary Herbert Morrison that the measure was taken "on the assumption that the weight of luftwaffe [Nazi air force] raids will increase" and "because of the seriousness of the man power situation." Millions of women will be affected, he said.

SEES MacARTHUR KEPT FROM FIGHT BY LITTLE U. S. AID

'Rosy' Stories by Allies Called Confusing.

Bomb Jap Air Field

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Aug. 8 [Saturday]—(AP).—Allied bombers carrying out a heavy raid on the Japanese invasion base at Rabaul, New Britain, dropped 15 tons of bombs on the main Japanese airdrome there, it was announced today. The allied command communique also reported that allied planes shot down seven Japanese fighters in yesterday's operations and that the runway of the airdrome at Lae, New Guinea, was bombed.

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Aug. 7 (AP).—Gen. Douglas MacArthur was described today by Norman Stockton, war correspondent of the Melbourne Herald, as an "offensive-minded" leader who "has been placed in the position where apparently he cannot take the offensive."

"The United States has considered that this country [Australia], in the wider strategy of global war, must play a secondary rôle for the balance of 1942—perhaps longer," Stockton asserted.

Meanwhile an authoritative source declared that the greatest part of Australian defense forces are Australian, not American, and that both the Australian and American public have been somewhat confused concerning the real facts of the situation.

Australia Carries Own Load.

American equipment which has been sent to Australia is a "trickle" which could be replaced by three days of United States war production, he said, adding that in the main Australia was carrying her own load.

Stockton said that "by sacrificing the initiative which material aid would have permitted we have lost Gona, Tulagi, and Kieta, and the Japanese are constantly nibbling at other islands and other potential bases."

"They are employing every conceivable means of sea transport from launches and schooners to great transports," Stockton continued. "There are many small mission and trading posts and many strategic islands which perhaps have succumbed to the invader already.

"Land based planes can roam farther into the Coral sea where once we defeated them. They can escort Japanese along the entire Papuan coast. Japanese troops are about 60 miles from the only big allied base in the southwest Pacific outside of continental Australia.

United States Aid Stories Too Rosy.

"The Owen Stanley range of mountains which is now the chief land bulwark against land invasion of western Papua has been described by a general headquarters spokesman as 'almost impassable' but the Japanese advanced across more impassable and more rugged mountains in China and Burma.

"They cut the Burma road in Yunnan province within sight of the highest mountains in the world. Australia has been told too many rosy stories about United States military aid. The American press has fed the American public similar lines. I have spoken to seasoned Australian pilots from England and the middle east who are staggered at the odds our bombers and fighters pit themselves against in the air war in the north.

"Only by the presence of carriers in the Coral sea were we able to smash the initial Japanese attempt to invade the north. Those carriers may not be available again. I believe there are all the elements of grave danger to Australia unless the policy that is sacrificing this area because of demands from other fronts is changed in the immediate future.

"The answer to Japan's southward drive, which may be resumed in real earnest in the not distant future, is sufficient bombers to blast their ships from the sea and sufficient first class fighters to protect the bombers.

"We and the people who are our allies have got to realize the grim fact that we are still fighting a losing war and that there is no possibility of an offensive from this country until real material aid is forthcoming."

Press Issues Warning.

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

MELBOURNE, Australia, Aug. 7.—Australian newspapers, discussing the reply of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters to criticism of the defensive character of allied strategy in the southwest Pacific, strongly deprecate assumptions of invincibility in New Guinea such as have repeatedly preceded disasters in the earlier stages of the Pacific war.

Typical of these warnings is today's editorial in the Melbourne Age, which asserted that the Japanese landings at Gona and Buna in New Guinea and persistent enemy air attacks over a wide arc north of Australia have proved the deceptiveness of assumptions that Japan's southward drive has been checked. It suggests the enemy's main purpose is to neutralize Australia as an offensive base by occupation of islands from which counter moves could be hampered and Japan's southward pressure assisted.

"Reliance on impenetrable obstacles has cost the empire very dearly," it said. "The enemy has shown himself remarkably adept in circumventing supposedly impassable barriers."

General Cites Germans

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Wadesboro, N. C., Aug. 7.—The importance of field training in winning victories in any kind of conflict was emphazised today by Maj. Gen. E. J. Dawley, 6th army corps commander and director of the Carolina maneuvers, in an informal press conference on the maneuvers' second phase, which ended yesterday.

"An example of the stress the German army always has placed on training as essential to military success," he said, "may be found in the record of the last war when, after four years of war, they ordered veteran troops to engage in two days of maneuvers training behind the lines in preparation for their last offensive on July 15, 1918.

Guides Future Plans.

"There is no substitute for practice—perfection in any activity can be obtained only by hard work. Field training in noncombat zones serves as a research laboratory and divulges strength and weakness of various component units.

"The information obtained in this way becomes a guide for future planning and enables commanding officers to exert additional effort in eliminating deficiencies and properly to appraise their own strength.

"A common expression in connection with the requisite of conserving strength to the limit is the pertinent saying, 'Don't waste two men for one man's work.' A successful commander never would send a regiment to accomplish a battalion mission, nor a squadron of bombers to blow a bridge that three could handle.

War Compared to Movie.

"Yet, if the smaller and more economical forces lack training and equipment, or if the commanding officer is not aware of the ability of the unit, the mission will be disastrous."

Gen. Dawley said the business of war, usually looked upon as exceedingly complex, may be compared to an event as simple as going to a picture show.

"The elements of war," he said, "are covered by the fundamental, five paragraph order as follows: objective, own situation, decision, supply, and communication. Applying these to the picture show; the objective would be the quality of the picture, the situation would be the admission price, the decision to go or not, supply would be the matter of transportation, and communication the learning of the time of the show."

USO Follows Troops

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Headquarters 3d Army, Somewhere in Louisiana, Aug. 7 [Special].—Behind the broken windows and old rose walls of the Mansfield Female college, the natives in these parts will tell you that on a moonless night, you can hear the ghostly stumping of a soldier's peg leg. The story harks back to the days of the Civil war, and in particular the battle of Mansfield on April 4, 1864, when the young ladies' college was closed and converted into a hospital for wounded soldiers.

But if the peg leg is to be heard these days, its erie stumping must rise above the voices of the soldiers of a 1942 American army, the voices of the young women of Mansfield and above the swinging jive from a juke box. For the most modern wing of the old college, built in the '20s, about 10 years before the institution closed, has been converted by the citizens of Mansfield and the USO into a service men's center.

Morale Building Job.

Like almost every other town and hamlet in the maneuver area of western Louisiana, between the Sabine and Red rivers, where the 8th army corps is taking part in combat problems, Mansfield and the USO are doing a morale building job for thousands of soldiers encamped here.

Weeks before the troops moved in, field agents of the federal security administration, canvassed the entire area, itemizing in infinite detail the resources of 80 communities.

Then the USO moved in. In the larger towns, such as Alexandria, Leesville, and DeRidder, which had camps nearby, the USO already had its own buildings. To the smaller towns it gave money and advice.

Mobile Units Follow Troops.

In the field, moving right along with the troops, went another USO service, a brand new one, its mobile units. Whenever an outfit is resting, or in bivouac, dance records are played until dusk when motion pictures are thrown on large screens.

Any night you'll find soldiers lolling near one of the big trailers, for the free service they get includes cigarets, candy, stationery, envelopes, or athletic equipment.

Tonight many of the men in bivouacs are benefiting by these services, while others trundle along traffic choked roads preparing for the second of 10 combat problems which starts tomorrow. This one will feature jungle fighting technique.

GIVE STEEL HATS TO CIVIL DEFENSE WORKERS SUNDAY

White enameled steel hats and identification insignia will be distributed to 8,400 auxiliary firemen, policemen, and air raid wardens at a mass induction of civilian defense workers in Grant park tomorrow afternoon. Judge Otto Kerner of the United States Circuit court will administer the oath and Mayor Kelly, OCD coordinator for the metropolitan area, will speak in ceremonies to be conducted in the bandshell. Local OCD officials said 9,000 helmets, each weighing three pounds, were received from OCD headquarters in Washington, D. C. An additional 5,000 auxiliary policemen and 2,500 auxiliary firemen are in training here.

A Summons for Speeding Vexes a Man on Crutches

TORONTO, Ont., 7 (AP).—Martin Bruton inquired of the police today why they keep sending him summonses for such things as speeding and ignoring stop signs. He said his car has been dismantled, he has no gasoline ration book, and he has been able to proceed only on crutches since he broke his hip in February, 1941.

YANK TELLS HOW TRAINS OF PLANES RIPPED COLOGNE

So Many the Pilots Feared They Would Collide.

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 7 (AP).—British plane followed British plane so closely during the royal air force's 1,000 plane raid on Cologne in late May that the pilots' chief concern was to avoid bumping into each other, a Baltimorean with the RAF told his wife in a letter today.

"Over the target we weren't worried about the defenses so much as bumping into other aircraft," Flight Sergeant Michael Stein Jacobs wrote. ". . . Everywhere you looked there were planes. It seemed like one big formation.

"This was the conversation over the 'intercom' [the plane's intercommunication system], especially from the rear gunner: 'Hello, captain, two Wellingtons on the starboard, one Halifax just above, and I think there's a Sterling right behind.'"

Jokes of Aerial Traffic Cop.

Jacobs said that on their return the British flyers commented on the number of their own planes they saw, and one gunner remarked facetiously:

"Yeah, I saw a traffic cop just as we crossed the Dutch coast and he was waving and shouting, 'This way.'

"That raid was a real thrill and something I certainly didn't want to miss," Jacobs added. "Altho there will be more, it was exciting to be in the first one."

Mrs. Jacobs also received a cablegram from her husband after another of the RAF's great raids on Germany, saying simply:

Hit Ruhr 3d Night in Row.

LONDON, Aug. 7 (AP).—The RAF sent a strong force of bombers thru thick weather to the Ruhr valley for the third successive night last night, blasting the big industrial center and inland river port of Duisburg and other points.

The air ministry acknowledged six planes were missing after these attacks and other raids on Nazi airdromes in the Low Countries, but did not disclose the number of participating planes. However, a British source said that in the days before the 1,000 bomber raids last night's force would have been regarded as "a whopper."

The German high command admitted material damage to buildings and said the raids caused some casualties in residential quarters in several towns. It claimed seven British bombers were shot down.

Scotland Hit by Raiders.

The last raid on Duisburg, site of many war industries, was the night of July 25, the fourth such attack in six nights.

German raiders were reported to have dropped fire bombs on a northeast coast tonight, a few hours after a lone raider flew over the northeast coast of Scotland and dropped bombs which killed three men and injured 10.

Earlier today three places in southwest England were bombed after German raiders last night had made small attacks on Scotland and East Angelia.

Last night's Nazi raiders dropped a new type of phosphorus fire bomb for which the public had been prepared by a government bulletin. This gave explicit instructions for dealing with the incendiaries. As a result, fires they started were extinguished with a minimum of damage.

Edinburgh Raided, Says Nazis.

BERLIN, Aug. 7 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—German air raiders attacked Edinburgh, Scotland, and the English university town of Cambridge last night, the news agency DNB reported today.

U. S. BOMBERS HIT TOBRUK; BATTER HARBOR, SHIPPING

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 7 (AP).—United States army air force bombers "effectively attacked" shipping and the harbor at Tobruk yesterday, the royal air force reported today. No details were given. An earlier communique had said the raiders set a large fire.

The American attack followed a heavy raid on Tobruk the previous night by RAF bombers, which started fires in the dock area and were believed to have hit two ships.

There was little other land or air activity on the Egyptian battlefront, today's British communique said.

Camps, Columns Hit: Rome.

ROME, Aug. 7 [from Italian broadcasts]—(AP).—The Italian high command today said axis planes attacked British encampments and marching columns, and shot down four planes. Two airdromes in Malta also were reported bombed. Only reconnaissance and artillery activity on the Egyptian front was reported.

PAPER PLASTIC PASSES TEST IN MAKING PLANES

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 7 (AP).—Airplanes of paper were envisioned today by the McDonnell Aircraft corporation as a partial answer to the industry's critical shortage of aluminum and steel.

The company announced that its engineers have completed successful experiments using laminated paper plastic in the manufacture of wing tips, rudders, elevators, ailerons, and other parts.

An experimental wing tip made of the plastic was lighter and 40 per cent stronger than aluminum, withstanding 2,800 pounds of weight in a test, the company said.

The new material was described as having a smooth surface, eliminating finishing and coating processes; greater resistance to abrasion and denting than aluminum, uniformity and adaptability to curved and tapering forms without special treatment.

QUEEN THANKS U. S. RED CROSS FOR DUTCH AID

Honors Navy Officers; Ends Visit.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands brought her three day official visit to Washington to a close late this afternoon by boarding a train for the summer home she is occupying at Lee, Mass.

Before leaving, the 61 year old monarch attended President Roosevelt's press conference, visited the American Red Cross building to express the thanks of her people for aid rendered, and then decorated five American naval officers for their work in defense of the Netherlands East Indies.

The queen lunched with the President and Wendell Willkie, Republican candidate in the 1940 Presidential campaign. The latter remained to confer with the President.

Presented to Press.

At the President's press conference the queen sat at the right of the Chief Executive. Mr. Roosevelt presented her to reporters with a few informal remarks saying that in the last three days "all of us have been made very happy by the presence of this really great head of a government as our guest—head of an allied nation who is seeing this war thru with us."

In response the queen said she was grateful to the President for his invitation to attend the press conference, because she wished to voice "my admiration of all the work the members of the American press and radio have done," adding that it is of "imemnse value in contributing to the victory of the democracies."

Calls on Norman Davis.

From the press conference the queen went to the American Red Cross to express the thanks of her people to Norman H. Davis, head of the organization. She then went to the chancery of the Netherlands embassy where she presented awards to the American naval officers.

Adm. Thomas C. Hart, former commander of united nations sea forces in the South Pacific, received the grand cross, Order of Orange Nassau with swords.

Vice Adm. William A. Glassford Jr., former member of the allied high command in the western Pacific, now naval district commandant at Charleston, S. C., also received the cross of the grand officer of the Order of Orange Nassau with swords. Commander T. H. Binford, commanding destroyer division 58, which took part in an engagement with the Japanese on the night of Feb. 19 in the Lambok straits, was given the military William order, fourth class.

Honors Commanders.

Commander H. E. Eccles, commander of the destroyer Edwards which took part in the Lambok straits engagement, was given the bronze cross with citation. Lieut. Comm. H. P. Smith, commander of the destroyer Stewart in the same engagement, received the bronze cross with citation.

The Lambok straits encounter resulted in the sinking of one Japanese cruiser and heavy damage to another cruiser and two destroyers.

WILLKIE SEEKING PERMIT TO VISIT BATTLE FRONTS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—Wendell L. Willkie, 1940 Republican Presidential nominee, probably will leave soon for a flying trip to the battle fronts of the middle east and Russia, it was indicated today after a lengthy conference between Mr. Willkie and President Roosevelt.

Mr. Willkie, emerging from the White House executive office where he had conferred with the President, told reporters only that he had discussed "a mission" with the President.

He did not specify the countries to which he would go, but previous reports have suggested that he would like to visit both the middle east and Russia, now the primary points of contact between the forces of the united nations and the axis.

Mr. Willkie would not say whether the President had given final permission for him to make the dramatic trip, but the participation of Elmer Davis, war information director, in the White House parley indicated that approval was imminent and that this government would take all possible propaganda advantage of such a demonstration of national unity as a trip to the fighting fronts by the defeated Republican Presdential nominee who has vigorously supported the President's foreign policy.

LAVAL EXPECTED TO CRACK DOWN ON INVASION TALK

Hint Nazis Will Take Hand Unless Unrest Abates.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, Aug. 7.—France is confronted with a difficult and crucial period during which the government will exact complete discipline from all sections of public opinion, it was indicated today following the weekly meeting of Pierre Laval's cabinet.

Radio appeals from Moscow and London to the French people to prepare for the establishment of a second front were reported to have caused considerable unrest which has reacted against the Laval régime.

German occupation authorities obviously are holding the Vichy government responsible, and unless possible disorders and agitation by the presently discontented elements in France—whatever their number—are curbed by Laval it might be found necessary to adopt harsher measures to dampen the second front ebullience.

All this has given rise to considerable uneasiness the last few days, and in the lack of free discussion, a flood of rumors has been unsettling popular opinion.

Press Urges Calm.

Today's newspapers unanimously appealed to the people to retain a calm sense of reality and not to listen to appeals from abroad.

Appeals were made to the French on both sides of the line of demarcation against getting involved in movements which, it was said, could only lead to disaster to the participants and damage to their country.

The Journal, for instance, pointed out to Frenchmen today that while the English radio tells them in French language broadcasts to get ready to assist an immediate invasion of Europe, the English radio and press advance for home consumption arguments why a second front is impossible.

The French press also warns that "the least mistake—and we all know what efforts Moscow and London are making to provoke us into such mistakes—will have irreparable consequences for France."

It is very likely that this was the background of today's cabinet meeting, held in the Sevigny pavilion with Chief of State Marshal Petain as usual presiding.

Confers with Petain.

Before the cabinet meeting Laval had a long conference with Petain and followed it with a long explanation of his difficulties to the cabinet as disclosed by his visit to Paris during the last few days.

A nation-wide appeal by Laval over the radio soon was believed foreshadowed in a preliminary statement issued by Francois de Brinon, French delegate in Paris, who asserted that excitement over joining a second front threatened to sabotage all the negotiations which Laval now is bringing to a successful conclusion.

The seriousness of the national situation has not been lessened by the assassination of Henri Gachelin, secretary of Jacques Doriot's French Popular party, which was announced today in the Paris press.

[The German radio charged that Gachelin was shot by "Communists" in Paris Tuesday night and seriously wounded by a revolver shot. The Swiss telegraph agency reported from France that he had died of his wounds.]

The times are difficult. Anything can happen.

Lloyd George Says Wales Is Tired of Whitehall Rule

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 7.—David Lloyd George, president of the Welsh National Eisteddfod [minstrel's congress], at Cardigan yesterday said the Welsh people "are tired of being ruled from Whitehall." Urging the people of Wales to bestir themselves now to safeguard their national life, the veteran statesman urged all intelligent persons to get together and submit plans to the newly formed advisory congress set up by the government to survey for postwar reconstruction in Wales.

'DON'T REVOLT BEFORE SIGNAL,' DUTCH WARNED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 7.—To avert a premature revolt, the Netherlands government here repeatedly has been warning the people of Holland "not to make any move until they receive definite word from London," Arthur Pelt, director of the Netherlands information bureau, told an Edinburgh audience today.

"We must be careful in speaking about the possibilities of a second front as long as we are not definitely certain," he said. "The worst thing that can happen is for the people in an occupied land to rise against Germany before the time is ripe."

It also was reported here that considerable nervousness has been created among Germans in occupied countries by the second front agitation, Lord Privy Seal Sir Stafford Cripps' assurances that the allies "had intentions," and the increasing strength of the American land and air forces in the British Isles, as well as the fact that important units of the American navy are in this area. Sabotage by local populations is said to have increased, while in France rumors are reported to be circulating that the British already have made landings.

REPORT NEW POLISH ARMY FROM RUSSIA ON WAY TO AFRICA

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 7 (AP).—New contingents of the Polish army were reported here today to be on their way to the middle east from Russia, equipped with British and American weapons.

They were expected to reënforce the Polish brigade which has been in campaigns in this area for the last two years.

So far there are 30,000 Poles serving in their own army in the eastern Mediterranean. In addition, some 10,000 Polish civilians are in this area, including many women who have joined Polish women's auxiliary units.

All seats are reserved. Mail orders should be sent to the Festival Ticket Managers, Tribune Tower. Checks should be made to Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

For the first time since Chicago launched its tremendous war effort, a vast cross-section of the population is to have an opportunity to see first hand the inner workings of a crack civilian organization designed to promote and protect the war effort.

At the 13th Chicago Music Festival to be held the night of Aug. 15 in Soldiers' field, the defense corps of Commonwealth Edison post of the American Legion and the Commonwealth Edison unit of the American Red Cross will demonstrate the vital work in which they have been trained to combat saboteurs, protect the city's great power plants and to administer first aid in time of emergency.

Champion Drum, Bugle Corps.

These two organizations, numbering more than 1,000 men and women, will be joined in the great festival exhibition by the Commonwealth Edison post drum and bugle corps, three times, and present national champions, of the American Legion.

The Commonwealth Edison defense corps was formed several months ago as a voluntary organization at the suggestion of the legionnaires. The initial membership was made up of legionnaires who fought for their country in the first World war. There are four divisions, each assigned to a definite zone and each division has two battalions, each subdivided into three platoons of auxiliary firemen, auxiliary police and first aid men.

Build Eight Ambulances.

Eight Edison delivery trucks have been rebuilt as ambulances, half of which have two-way short-wave radios. Four other trucks were converted into field kitchens and six auxiliary pumper fire trucks have been assigned to the corps. All these will be in action in Soldiers' field.

The training the personnel receives is rigid and thoro, covering both classroom and practical instruction.

Since the attack on Pearl Harbor there have been many dress rehearsals at the company's generating plants and other vital locations that might be targets of enemy bombing planes.

The entrance of the 75 men of the championship drum and bugle corps will signal the start of the thrilling event. As the drum corps sounds off, the defense corps will begin entering.

Led by Edwin R. Wegner, commander of the Edison post, and John L. Fisher, commander of the defense corps, the 1,000 members will be divided into two groups of 500 each and will be accompanied by their ambulances, field kitchens and fire trucks.

While marching the corps will play a medley of military airs, including "Anchors Aweigh," "Marines' Hymn," "United States Artillery March," "Stars and Stripes Forever," "You're a Grand Old Flag," and "The American Eagle." In a special formation the corps will stand motionless and play the march from Wagner's "Tannhäuser," considered extremely difficult for a drum and bugle corps.

This concert number was specially arranged for the corps by Victor Kust, its musical director. The manager of the group is Joseph L. Schuber, chief clerk of Commonwealth Edison's substation department.

WOMAN IS ACCUSED OF PAVING WAY FOR PAIR'S $1,000 HOLDUP

Edward Brown of Rockford, Ill., a watchman, was talking with Miss Antoinette Calamai, 18 years old, 3021 Shields avenue, in the offices of the Wilson Trucking company, 3001 Wells street, July 15, when two bandits appeared. The bandits carted away $1,000 worth of general merchandise.

Antoinette Calamai.

Yesterday, at the Pekin Inn police station, Brown identified Miss Calamai and the alleged bandits, Stanley Radick, 20, of 5401 Princeton avenue, and Joseph Marasa, 19, of 334 West 29th street. Brown accused Miss Calamai of being the "front" for the robbers.

He suspected her immediately after the robbery, he told Capt. Edward J. Kelly, because she had left the office door open while she was talking with him, just before the robbers entered. The captain said Miss Calamai has confessed paving the way for the holdup.

British Police Warned IRA May Strike at War Plants

LONDON, Aug. 8 [Saturday].—British police have been warned to guard against an outbreak of Irish Republican army activities, which it was reported this morning may be directed against vital war industries in this country. The warning follows the passing of the death sentence on six IRA men at Belfast, Northern Ireland, for shooting a policeman last Easter Sunday.

British Get New Rifle; Lighter, Shoots Straighter

LONDON, Aug. 7 (AP).—The British army is being equipped with a new rifle, lighter and more accurate than the old model. This was disclosed today when King George VI. inspected eastern command troops. The king examined one of the rifles.

TRAINING SCHOOL PAROLEE HELD IN ROBBERY SPREE

Seek Conviction Under Federal Statute.

Arthur Meyer, 14 year old parolee from the Illinois State Training School for Boys, near St. Charles, was under arrest last night in Quincy, his home town, following a spree of robbery that made the authorities in several counties dizzy.

The boy was captured in the home of an uncle. Sheriff Robert Woodard of Oswego county said he will charge him with violation of the Dyer act in an effort to send him to a federal penitentiary and beyond the confines of St. Charles. The Dyer act is a federal law making it a prison offense to drive a stolen automobile across state lines.

Slips Away; Robs Store.

Young Meyer was paroled to Charles Condon, a farmer near Oswego, two months ago. Last Saturday Arthur slipped into Oswego and robbed a store.

He then went back to Condon's home and did his work quietly until last Wednesday when Condon took him along to be a member of a community threshing ring.

Arthur saw that Charles and Lachen MacLaren, whose farm is near Naausay, were at the gathering. He also noticed that Farmer John McMickes, who had a farm near by, was present. So he slipped away, stole a shotgun from the MacLaren home, an automobile from McMickes' home and then he set out for Quincy.

Makes One Mistake.

In Quincy, he remembered he had once robbed the White Front grocery in the center of the downtown district. Arthur broke in and robbed it again.

Sheriff Woodard said Arthur made the mistake of driving his stolen car across the Missouri line during his travels. Just what he did in Missouri is not yet known.

Sheriffs of several counties want Arthur for burglary but Woodard says he'll hold him if possible so federal authorities can have first claim.

GIRL KILLED BY LIGHTNING.

Bloomington, Ill., Aug. 7 [Special].—Priscilla Wurzburger, 18 years old, was fatally injured here this afternoon when struck by lightning while hanging clothes on a wire line. A pulmotor squad tried for 45 minutes to revive her. She was one of nine children of Harvey Wurzburger, deputy sheriff.

BLONDE SLAYER OF LOVER FACES MURDER CHARGE

A first degree murder indictment against Eleanor Williams, 25 years old, the blonde dice girl and former dancer who shot and killed her lover, Gordon J. McNaughton, 32, in the hotel room of her rival, will be sought Wednesday before the grand jury, Julius Sherwin, assistant state's attorney, said yesterday.

The crime was relived yesterday at a coroner's inquest in the tearful testimony of Mrs. Dorothy Moos, 27, in whose room at the New Lawrence hotel the slaying took place Thursday.

In barely audible tones, Mrs. Moos, also a blonde, and the estranged wife of Fred Moos, small time operator on the grain market and race horse owner, told Deputy Coroner Edward Edelstein and a jury how "that woman" gained entrance to her hotel room and shot McNaughton with a .38 caliber revolver stolen that morning from a policeman.

Allman Suspends Policeman.

While the inquest was in progress, Commissioner James P. Allman ordered the suspension of the policeman who owned the revolver, Barney Towey of the North Damen avenue station. The commissioner also ordered charges preferred against Towey with the police trial board. The slayer was reported have taken the gun while Towey slept after the two had staged an all night drinking bout.

Eleanor hung upon her rival's halting words as Dorothy unfolded the half hour's drama which ended with the death of the man they both loved.

Eleanor's divorced husband, Clarence Williams, of the Berwyn Beach hotel, a telegraph operator, who had granted his wife a divorce when she told him that she loved McNaughton, appeared at the inquest.

Comfort's Former Wife.

Williams comforted his former wife, and held her hands during the testimony. When the jury recommended that the slayer be held to the grand jury on a charge of murder, Williams leaned quickly over the table and kissed her. Williams, divorced three years ago, has not remarried.

Dorothy, whose brown eyes were in vivid contrast to Eleanor's blue ones, told how "Gordie" could have saved his life by permitting her to call for police while the gun was hidden in the bathroom, but refrained for fear of involving her in a scandal.

Eleanor did not testify at the inquest, on advice of her attorneys, Emmett Moynihan and George Crane, except to give her name and address. Brief testimony was offered by the slain man's father, Bert McNaughton, of 3505 Sheffield avenue, who said that he is a tavern owner.

Mrs. Elsie Bracknies, 1555 Schrieber avenue, sister of the gun women, and her husband, Charles, were at the inquest, as was Mrs. Moos' mother, Mrs. Alma Powell. Dorothy's husband did not appear.

If convicted Eleanor faces a maximum penalty of death in the electric chair, and a minimum of 14 years, according to Sherwin. The coroner's jury deliberated less than 10 minutes before recommending that she be charged with murder.

Curious Throng Sidewalk.

Scores of curious thronged the sidewalk near the funeral home at 4611 Lincoln avenue where the inquest was held, and watched as Eleanor, in custody of two police matrons, was placed in a patrol wagon and taken to the county jail.

Funeral services for McNaughton will be held at 9:30 Monday morning at the same chapel where the inquest took place. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery.

VANDALS FORCE BRITISH TO CLOSE WAR RELIEF SHOP

Woonsocket, R. I., Aug. 7 [Special].—Threats against volunteer women workers, plus acts of vandalism which police profess to be unable to halt, have forced the British War Relief society to order the closing tomorrow of its workshop on Woonsocket's main street.

Altho no group is under suspicion as instigator of the attacks, anti-British sentiment in this city, whose inhabitants are predominately of foreign extraction, is believed to lie behind the acts. The making of clothing for widows and orphans of British fighting men and those bombed out of their homes has been going on in the downtown store building for two years.

In the latest of a series of attacks, the store windows were dirtied and defaced and the pole used to fly the British flag was broken. Previously, swastikas had been chalked on the windows. Women on duty at the shop have received anonymous telephone calls warning them not to fly the British flag. Several months ago the Federal Bureau of Investigation took a hand in investigating a threatening letter sent to Mrs. Reginald J. Godfrey, director of the workshop, and after that the attacks subsided for some time. Police have not arrested any one for the attacks, altho at one time an inspector was detailed to keep the place under surveillance.

Call 125 Police Eligibles to Fill 85 Jobs at Once

Police Commissioner Allman yesterday notified 125 men on the police eligibility list to report for physical examinations. They will be appointed, he said, to 85 vacancies on the force, beginning Monday. He added, however, that many of the men called may have been inducted into the armed forces. Only 82 responded when the last call for 125 went out.

Added to Black-Out

Three townships in northern Indiana which will be included in the black-out Wednesday night.

PUT INDIANA OIL, STEEL CENTER IN BLACK-OUT ZONE

Extension Is Asked by Gen. Grunert.

The vital steel mill and oil refinery center south of Chicago yesterday was included in the area which next Wednesday night will undergo the first general black-out test in the interior of the United States. The black-out is from 10 to 10:30 p. m.

At the request of Maj. Gen. George Grunert, commandant of the army 6th service command, Hobart, North, and Calumet townships in Lake county, Indiana, were added to the black-out area, which already included northern Illinois, southern Michigan, and the lake shore counties of Wisconsin.

The three Indiana townships are part of the Chicago Metropolitan area organization of the Office of Civilian Defense. They are, however, under the jurisdiction of the army 5th service command. Township and Indiana state officials have consented to participation in the black-out.

Won't Interrupt Production.

Ralph H. Burke, deputy OCD coordinator in charge of protective services in the area, said the steel mills have developed advanced programs for aid raid protection and black-out and "are able to obscure themselves exceptionally well" while maintaining operations. The mills will not be required to interrupt production.

Factories not directly essential to the war effort or not exempted by the army and navy will be expected to comply fully with black-out rules, Burke said. He said hospitals will extinguish exterior lights and maintain only those interior lights necessary for proper care of patients.

Illinois Bell Telephone company officials requested the public to refrain from making any calls during the black-out and for 30 minutes afterward except for emergencies or for essential business. The lines will be congested with civilian defense calls and unnecessary telephoning will interfere with communications.

Advice to "L" Passengers.

The Chicago Rapid Transit company [elevated lines] said it will distribute a bulletin to passengers Monday suggesting that they make arrangements for transportation Wednesday night to avoid the black-out period. Local elevated trains will be halted in stations 10 minutes before the black-out starts and passengers will be requested to remain in their seats. Express trains will be stopped at stations shortly before 10 p. m. Lights on trains, platforms, and stations will be extinguished.

JUDGE IMPOSES 25 YEAR TERM ON SLAYER OF WIFE

A 25 year prison sentence imposed by Cook county's first all woman Criminal court jury was pronounced yesterday by Judge Harold G. Ward for Allen Stuver, 23 years old, convicted last Saturday of slaying his wife, Virginia.

Judge Ward denied a plea for a new trial but granted a motion for appeal so that Stuver can carry the case to a higher court.

Stuver's mother, Ellen, who was a constant spectator at the trial, embraced and kissed him before he was led back to the county jail yesterday. Stuver was found guilty of strangling his wife in their home at 4729 Woodlawn avenue after he said she admitted being intimate with other men.

Bells of 11 Churches Join Evanston Black-Out Alarm

Eleven Evanston churches rang their bells simultaneously at 7:30 o'clock last night, in an effort to determine whether they would augment air raid sirens appreciably in the event of an alarm and bring about a quicker black-out. The bells continued for two minutes, stopped for two minutes and then rang for a similar period. Authorities reported they had been heard everywhere except in the southeastern part of the suburb.

Judge Fines Three Bookies; Seized Cash Goes to Army

More than $200 seized when police raided an alleged handbook at 751 West North avenue was ordered turned over to the army and navy relief fund yesterday by Judge Oscar S. Caplan in the South State street court. Gasper J. Ortaggio, 30, and John Lazare, 41, arrested in the raid, were fined $10 and costs and $25 and costs, respectively. Frank Zitto, 45, arrested in another raid at 29 South Dearborn street, was fined $25 and costs.

JURY GETS LURID PICTURE OF VICE IN CALUMET CITY

Clergymen, Housewives Are Witnesses.

Calumet City, which is said to have more taverns per capita than any other city in the United States, is now rampant with vice, two clergymen and three housewives were reported to have told the grand jury yesterday.

Lovemaking of soldiers and sailors and their sweethearts has reached a new high in brazenness in the southern Cook county community, the witnesses are said to have complained to the jurors.

So graphic was the picture painted by the complainants, that the jurors reportedly have elected to summon Mayor John W. Jaranowski, mayor of the suburb, and other Calumet City officials to testify before them next week.

Mayor Says It Isn't So.

Mayor Jaranowski, reached by phone, denied that either vice or gambling could be found in Calumet City. "You may tell the public," he said, "that there is no vice in this city, and there is no gambling. I enforce all of the laws passed by the city council and the state."

Jaranowski announced that he had just revoked the licenses of three taverns for failing to conform to anti-gambling ordinances. The taverns were owned by Mary Mihalovich, 486 Wentworth avenue; Anna Scott, 313 Pulaski road, and Patsy Hering, 912 Burnham avenue, all in Calumet City.

Also reported to have been brought to the attention of the grand jurors were recent activities of the Club Elgin, located just outside the corporate limits of Bedford Park, and within a stone's throw of the Willow Springs state police station.

Charges Political Protection.

A witness before the grand jury yesterday, Mrs. Maxine Hayes of 7813 West 66th street, Bedford Park, was reported to have told the jurors that she had lodged a complaint about the Club Elgin with Lieut. Henry Andel, one of the three lieutenants recently fired because of failure to halt gambling. He told her, she said:

Names of the two clergymen who testified were not disclosed. The women witnesses were Mrs. Mary Chaby, 512 Douglas street; Mrs. Nellie Hagen, 515 Douglas street, and Mrs. Edward Wahl, 105 State street, all of Calumet City.

6 JUDGES PONDER KIDNAPER'S PLEA TO LEAVE PRISON

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 7 (AP).—On orders of the United States Supreme court, six judges of the Circuit Court of Appeals sat en banc today to hear attorneys argue a habeas corpus petition for the release from Alcatraz prison of Thomas H. Robinson, kidnaper of Mrs. Alice Stoll of Louisville, Ky., for $50,000 ransom. He was arrested in Glendale, Cal., and tried here.

The court took the case under advisement but gave no indication when it will rule.

Frederik S. Waiss, attorney for Robinson, argued that Robinson was insane when he committed the crime eight years ago and was insane when he was sentenced to 25 years in prison. He contended that Robinson should not have been permitted to plead guilty without an attorney.

Attorneys indicated the chief question is whether the court can go back of the federal court finding in Kentucky that Robinson was sane. Several of the six justices indicated they thought it might be proper to give Robinson a hearing here.

MYSTERY VEILS GAS ATTACK ON 2 SUBWAY TRAINS

New York, Aug. 7 (AP).—Police and the FBI were baffled today by two mysterious tear gas attacks on 8th avenue independent subway trains, each occurring under the same strange circumstances.

In both cases three cars were affected and scores of passengers, coughing and choking, had to leave the train. In neither case could the source of the gas be determined.

Passengers first noticed the gas in the vicinity of 42d street. The two incidents were eight hours apart. Cars affected in the last attack were sealed and taken to the repair yards where police, fire, and FBI officials began an analysis of the gas.

3 BANDITS ROB SAVINGS BANK, MENACE WOMEN

The Keistuto Savings and Loan bank, 3236 South Halsted street, was robbed of $445 yesterday by three men, two of whom climbed a five and one-half foot partition over the money cage. Carrying a shotgun and a revolver the men threatened two women employés who told police the bandits carried wadded handkerchiefs in their mouths in an apparent precaution against release of tear gas. The women said they persuaded the men not to take a stack of checks because of the difficulty in cashing them.

Love Triangle Slayer Dies in California Gas Cell

San Quentin, Cal., Aug. 7 (AP).—Maurice L. Briggs, 26 years old, of Los Angeles, was put to death today in the San Quentin prison gas chamber for the murder of Nat Ross, a former film producer. Ross was killed in Los Angeles in February, 1941. Briggs told police he shot Ross because his bride had left him for the former movie executive.

BANDITS STEAL 50 PAIRS OF PANTS.

Three armed men yesterday stole 50 pairs of pants, valued at $125, and $8.45 in a holdup of a men's shop at 3000 West Cermak road.

'GOLF BAG SAM' MURDER JURY FAILS TO AGREE

A criminal court jury deliberating the fate of Golf Bag Sam Hunt was dismissed yesterday when Foreman Syver Hansen told Judge Harold G. Ward the members were unable to agree on a verdict in the state's charge that Hunt killed a Negro houseman after a traffic accident dispute July 4.

Dismissal of the jury, composed of nine women and three men, came after seven hours of deliberation. Hansen said the jury had been unable to come any closer to a decision than an eight to four verdict for acquital.

Judge Ward set a new trial for Sept. 28, and denied defense Attorney Scott Stewart's petition that Hunt, accused of slaying Michael Wade at Indiana avenue and Cermak road, be released on bail. Stewart later indicated that he will seek to have the state Supreme court grant bail to Hunt on a state law permitting release in a murder case where the evidence against a defendant is not considered conclusive.

CAN'T STAND PAIN; ENDS LIFE.

Englewood police reported yesterday that George Aiken, 81 years old, 925 Garfield boulevard, wrote a note saying "I can't stand this pain anymore" and then killed himself by slashing his throat.

THE YELLOW KID FREED ON BOND PENDING TRIAL

Joseph "Yellow Kid" Weil, widely accused confidence man, was released on $10,000 bond yesterday—raised by his daughter, Miss Josephine Weil—and breathed the first air he has had out of police custody, since 1939.

The bond was to guarantee Weil's appearance before Judge Julius Miner in Criminal court Monday on charges he defrauded Mrs. Bertha Harter and her daughter, Agnes, of $30,000 thru mining stock. He was brought here May 15 as soon as he was released from the federal prison at Atlanta, Ga., where he had been committed in 1939 for mail fraud.

Weil, no longer the dapper man who sported a red beard and wore yellow gloves, said, "This air smells awfully good." His daughter said he would live with her.

ARMY PROTESTS IMMEDIATE PAY TO SOLDIERS' KIN

Claims It Needs Months to Iron Out Details.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—Delay in the payment of allowances and allotments to dependents of men in the armed forces, which has aroused a storm of protest in congress, was requested by the army and navy during hearings on the original bill before house and senate committees, Sen. Edwin C. Johnson [D., Colo.], said today. He denied flatly that political considerations were responsible for postponing distribution of the first checks until the eve of the forthcoming congressional elections.

Sen. E. C. Johnson.

A section of the bill forbids payments before Nov. 1, or nearly five months after its enactment. Immediate action to pay the allowances and allotments, accumulating since July 1, has been demanded in both chambers and identical bills to repeal the existing restriction have been introduced by Senators Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.], and Bennett Clark [D., Mo.].

See Widespread Dissatisfaction.

At hearings on the measures today representatives of the war and navy departments urged the senate military affairs committee to leave the Nov. 1 payment date unchanged. Sen. H. H. Schwartz [D., Wyo.], said the witnesses contended that it will be impossible to start disbursements to all the dependents of the fighting men before that time.

They warned that early payments to a few would cause widespread dissatisfaction among those who cannot be paid until the disbursing machinery has been completely set up. According to the testimony, this machinery, which includes a special bookkeeping system and investigative facilities, has been planned to be put in operation on the date provided in the law. Changes in the law now, said the witnesses, would disrupt the present arrangements.

Months Delay Requested.

Sen. Johnson, floor manager of the allowances bill and chairman of the subcommittee which held detailed hearings on it, said the measure was drafted with the "assistance" of the army and navy officials. The senators were asked, he recalled, to place the date for payments several months in the future to allow time for investigating applicants for the money and preparations for making the disbursements.

"The question of politics never came up during our discussions and I am sure it was not in the minds of any one on the subcommittee," he said.

The law signed by President Roosevelt June 23 provides allowances of $50 a month to wives of enlisted men, of which $22 will come from the pay of the soldier or sailor and $28 from the government. In addition, the government will allow $12 per month for one child and $10 for each additional child. Provision is also made for allowances and allotments for other dependents such as parents, grandchildren, brothers, and sisters.

DEAN OF WAVES APPOINTED FOR OFFICER SCHOOL

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7 (AP).—The navy today announced that Lieut. Comm. Mildred H. McAfee, director of the women's naval reserve, had appointed Lieut. Elizabeth Bolard Crandall, 36 years old, of San Francisco, Cal., to be dean of women at the officer training school at Smith college, Northampton, Mass.

Lieut. Crandall, a graduate of Western Reserve university and assistant dean at Leland Stanford university, will report Aug. 17 to the bureau of naval personnel for work in connection with the Smith college program.

Lieut. Comm. McAfee also has appointed two assistants. One is Lieut. [J. G.] Virginia Carlin, 32, of New York City, a graduate of Wellesley college. She has been with R. H. Macy & Co. in New York. The other is Ensign Dorothy Foster of Atlanta, Ga., a graduate of Randolph-Macon college and New York university.

SLAYER GRANTED REPRIEVE FROM BORROWED CHAIR

Sioux Falls, S. D., Aug. 7 (AP).—Clifford Haas, 31 years old, won an 11th hour reprieve today while experts were setting up a borrowed electric chair in which he was to die next week.

Haas pleaded guilty of slaying Sheriff M. B. Lewis a year ago and was sentenced to death without trial. Last week he petitioned for a change of plea and a trial and Presiding Judge H. B. Rudolph of the South Dakota Supreme court signed an order for the state to show cause Sept. 16 why he should not have a trial. The order stayed the death sentence, at least temporarily.

The electric chair, borrowed from the Illinois penitentiary in Joliet, was being assembled under a court order which required that it be ready for operation by today. Penitentiary officials searched several weeks before succeeding in borrowing the chair.

Roosevelt Approves Bill to Provide Ships for Eire

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7 (AP).—President Roosevelt signed today a bill authorizing the war shipping administration to sell or charter two merchant vessels to the government of Eire.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Jane Broudy, 719 East 54th street.]

THE QUESTION.

WHERE ASKED.

THE ANSWERS.

L. E. Gardner, elevator starter, 5250 Carmen avenue—When I help with any household task I always choose the ones where I can see I've accomplished something. When I use the hand brush attachment to clean the Venitian blinds the contrast in finished and unfinished work is enough to spur me on to the finish.

John L. Marske, wholesale furrier, 609 Washington boulevard, Oak Park—I'm my wife's best assistant when it comes to dish wiping. When I'm not too tired I actually enjoy the job. At other times I'd rather take the dog out for a long walk while she does the dishes.

Toby C. Doheny, advertising salesman, 639 Lincoln avenue, Winnetka—When it comes to being a real domestic assistant I'm not so handy, but I often make myself useful around the house by repairing everything that needs it. I like to fix a leaky faucet or play electrician and repair light cords and switches.

Sy A. Potratz, photographer, 5834 North Manton avenue—Next to playing with trains on the living room floor I like to run the vacuum sweeper on the big rug there. It's not a bad job at all and when I'm around during cleaning time I take over the job every time.

Timothy H. O'Hara, salesman, 600 Diversey parkway—No work in the cleaning line appeals to me at all. If my wife would let me I'd do all of the cooking all the time. [If I had the time—I mean.] I especially like to broil steaks and chops because it doesn't include worrying about the gravy.

Stanley J. Walters, photographer, 905 West 31st street—There are lots of jobs around the house that I like to do, but I'm at my best when I'm appointed dish washer. I feel a little sorry for myself if the job includes drying them, and putting them away is worse.

CHARGE OFFICER USED NAVY JOB TO PUSH SALES

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 7 [Special].—Shifting its course in a surprise maneuver, the prosecution today sought to obtain admission from Lieut. Comm. Maurice N. Aroff that he had used his position in the officer procurement office here to build up business for his plumbing and paint firm in Los Angeles.

The new angles of questioning were introduced in Aroff's general court martial on Yerba Buena Island by Lieut. Irving Klein, the judge advocate, in cross-examination of the procurement office assistant director who was relieved of duty last April and who is being tried on charges of "scandalous conduct."

In support of the implication that Aroff had mingled navy duty with private business, Lieut. Klein offered a letter dated Oct. 20, 1941 signed by Aroff, written on official 12th naval distrit stationery. It was addressed to a "Mr. Patchell" of Universal studios. The letter told how Aroff's firm had a six month supply of paint materials on hand and would "continue to serve you 24 hours a day, seven days a week."

U. S. CONSIDERING STUDENT AID TO OBTAIN OFFICERS

Cash Grants Would Help Provide Supply.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7 (AP).—Education sources disclosed today a special committee of the War Man Power commission was considering a proposal for wartime "democratization" of American colleges thru direct money grants to students, as a means of assuring an adequate supply of army and navy officer material and other trained personnel for the general war program.

An educator, who preferred not to be quoted directly, predicted that unless the government subsidized higher education the number of students in colleges and universities might drop as much as 30 per cent during the next school term.

Educators Differ in Opinion.

Student subsidy is only one of several proposals being weighed by the special man power committee, he said, and it was understood there was considerable difference of opinion among educators as to the proper solution of the college problem.

A subsidy program would require congressional approval, with appropriation of several million dollars. Hence there appeared some doubt in education quarters that, with the program still in the formative stage and congress in informal recess, any action could be had before opening of the fall terms in September.

Supporters of the "democratization" idea contend it should create the same opportunities for all youths of equal ability to equip themselves for army and navy officer status, or for technical or professional service.

Might Include Women.

During the World war the government created the students army training corps and the students navy training corps, which in three months of 1918 prior to the armistice enrolled around 185,000 college men. The youths, joining up voluntarily, were put into service uniforms and given service pay. They drilled on the campuses and were required to study history and war aims.

Many educators were understood to oppose patterning today's program after the 1918 system.

Dr. Elliott is Chairman.

Dr. Edward C. Elliott, president of Purdue university, is chairman of the manpower committee formulating the coördinated plan. Other members are James V. Forrestal, under secretary of the navy; Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of the selective service system; G. H. Dorr, special assistant to the secretary of war; Arthur S. Flemming, member of the United States civil service commission, and Wendell Lund, director of the labor production division of the War Production board.

Paul V. McNutt, man power chairman, said the group "will shortly make its recommendations to the War Man Power commission with respect to the policy and action necessary to bring about the fullest possible use of the institutions of higher learning in the war program."

The program would affect 1,800 colleges and universities, which last year had more than 1,000,000 students enrolled, of whom around 600,000 were men.

ARMY RULES OUT FEMININE ROTC TO TRAIN WAACS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7 [Special].—The army today ruled out a feminine Reserve Officers' Training corps, saying it would have no official standing as a training corps for the Waac. The ruling was handed down after co-eds at the University of Indiana had organized their own counterpart of the ROTC. It was reported here that the Indiana girls had named their organization the women's auxiliary training corps, had selected uniforms, and were ready to start training for Waac officers' commissions.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

G. O. P. asks: "Why are enlisted men required to have their dependents sign dependency waivers and drafted men not? If these waivers are signed, does it cut the man's dependents out of the allotments?"

ANSWER: The signature of the dependency waivers is required of enlisted men so they cannot plead for a dependency discharge if they happen to find some spot in the service that doesn't please them. When the dependents sign the waiver, the act in no way jeopardizes their rights to allotments if they are otherwise eligible.

M. B. writes: "I am a commissioned officer and my wife argues with me that she has a right to post all her mail 'free' like the soldiers. Who is right? I say no."

ANSWER: You are right. Free postage is only for all service men, including commissioned officers, but their wives and relatives are excluded.

C. F. K. asks: "What would the draft classification be for a young man 19 years of age, a sophomore in a church college, preparing himself for the ministry but not yet in the divinity school?"

ANSWER: The regulations say a student who is preparing for the ministry in a theological school or divinity school which has been recognized as such for more than one year prior to the enactment of the selective service act [Sept. 16, 1940] may be classified 4-D. Selective service officials have had some difficulty in applying the act in respect to this classification, and have instituted certain requirements as to proof or satisfaction of the student's real intentions.

P. A. asks: "How can I find my husband's draft board? I've been to 15 already and I can't seem to find the right one. He is $1,045 in arrears on alimony and I want the army to get him."

ANSWER: You will have quite a job, unless you learn his whereabouts on or immediately after the registration date for his age group. Even if you should learn where he is registered, it would still be up to his draft board to agree to induct him.

W. J. A. asks: "What is the highest rank a friendly alien can reach in the army? I have heard it said such people cannot become commissioned officers under the present regulations."

ANSWER: An officer of the army of the United States must, at the time of appointment, be a citizen of the United States, Philippine Islands, or a citizen of a co-belligerent or friendly country, who otherwise possesses the same qualifications as a citizen of the United States and must be between the ages of 18 and 60. Apparently the only limit would be the person's ability.

WE'RE GOING BACK TO BATAAN!

EIGHT MONTHS OF WAR.

There is also a war in the Pacific. The Japanese know this, the Australians know it, but hope apparently is held in some quarters in this country that, even if the facts cannot be changed, Americans can be led to disregard their existence.

It is two months since the victory off Midway. There was no immediate attempt to follow up that victory. The Japanese have had two months in which to nurse their wounds and prepare new aggressions. It is about two months since they landed in the Aleutians. They have had that time to consolidate their positions there and to put some 10,000 men in that area. It is three months since the southern prong of Japanese invasion was smashed in the Coral sea. That victory was not followed up either. The Japanese, stopped for a time, are moving forward again.

Mr. Noderer's dispatch in THE TRIBUNE Friday, approved by Gen. MacArthur's and the Australian censors, tells why no offensive action has been taken in that area. Our troops in Australia, far from being a powerful army, barely escape the characterization of a token force. We have sent just about enough men there to replace the Australians who are fighting on the other fronts of the British empire. Five-sixths of the army is Australian, the force which a population of a few millions is able to raise. Our air force there is insufficient in both quantity and quality. It is estimated that it constitutes no more than 3 days' production of our airplane plants. So far as quality goes, our P-40s and Airacobra fighters are so inferior at higher altitudes to the Japanese Zeros that the latter are following our bombers right back to the ground on the air fields at which they are based.

We have been at war in the Pacific for eight months and every action there, excepting a few relatively unimportant raids, has been the result of a Japanese attack. The enemy has been permitted not only to choose the time and place of action, but to break off the fighting when it suits his purpose. We have not kept enough pressure on the Japanese to prevent them poising their Manchurian army to strike Russia in the back. Far from opening a second front to aid Russia, we have done nothing to save the Russians themselves from having to defend a second front.

Our military inaction is not confined to the Pacific. We are told that we have forces on either 31 or 33 fronts—the exact number is inconsequential since we are not conducting military action worthy of the name on any of them. This strange hesitation, the reluctance to get at grips with the enemy, demands an explanation.

We are told that we are producing arms in almost unprecedented quantities. Is what we are producing being so scattered and dissipated that we cannot gain sufficient force at any one point for effective action?

CLOSER TO HOME.

A dispatch from Clay Gowran at Bogota, Colombia, called attention again to the possibility of obtaining such commodities as rubber and quinine from Central and South America. As is well known, both these products came originally from these regions and for many years the world had no other source of supply. Later seeds and seedlings were sent abroad despite the effort to maintain the American monopoly and eventually the world came to draw almost all its supply from trans-Pacific plantations, chiefly in Malaya, Java, and the East Indies.

Cheap and docile labor in the British and Dutch colonies was perhaps the most important factor in their success. Another was selective breeding of the plants to increase yields. Still another was the gradual destruction of the wild trees in the Americas with the result that the supplies had to be sought deep in the jungle and far from the rivers which provided transportation.

The experience of this country since Dec. 7 may be expected to have an important effect in developing plantation culture closer to home. We have seen how easily our supplies coming from half way around the world can be cut off. In part we shall solve the problem by synthetic manufacture in this country; but to the extent that the factory products are inadequate in quantity or quality we shall have to depend on natural growths. The sooner we can get plantations started within the zone which we can protect, the better.

SOMEWHERE EAST OF SUEZ.

When Americans refer to the near east they are thinking of Turkey, Syria, Iraq, Palestine, Egypt, and Arabia. But to Britons this isn't the near east; it's the middle east, and Iran and Afghanistan are part of it. What Americans refer to as the "Balkans" is designated by the British as the "near east."

Out of this contradictory terminology emerges the fact that to Americans, who are farther away from it than are the British, a certain part of the world is considered nearer; while the British, who have always been active in Europe's affairs, habitually think of a section of Europe as being in the "east," tho, it is true, this part of the world is "nearer" than the "far east."

How far east any particular point may be is relative, or should be, but the geographers seem slightly confused about the starting point. Thus, what is generally called the far east is really the far west to Americans.

Geography is a matter in which scientific exactitude would seem to be desirable, and it could be provided if laymen, like mariners, were accustomed to think in terms of latitude and longitude, of degrees and minutes. But this is not standard mental equipment, so we flounder around in nebulous descriptive terms which hardly have accuracy for any two people, let alone any two nations.

An added difficulty is that collective geographical terms, like "near east," which seek to label a region, convey the false impression that there is some kind of racial or, at least, cultural homogeneity in that area. But this is far from the fact.

In the "near east" there are three separate population groups—the Turks, the Arabs, and the Iranians, not to mention the Zionists in Palestine. Even the former cultural association between Turks and Arabs is breaking down, for the Turk has abandoned Arabic script. As for the Arabs, it would seem that they live, not alone in Arabia, but clear across Africa to the Atlantic; that, altho they always speak some kind of Arabic, there are different kinds of spoken Arabic; that, altho an Arab is usually a Moslem, two or perhaps three million Arabs are not Moslems, and that, altho the popular conception is that an Arab lives in a tent and rides a camel, the majority of Arabs live in towns and villages and they have old and organized centers of urban and industrial life, such as Bagdad, Damascus, and Aleppo.

From all this it will be seen that it is both unsafe and unwise to consider the "near east" as a satisfactory geographical term. Accuracy requires that distinctions be made. Therefore, instead of thinking of the "near east," it would be better to refer to something more exact, such as the name of a particular country or area—for example, Iraq or Transjordania. And in thinking of the people of the "near east," it would be well to think first whether they happen to be Turks, Arabs, or something else.

And, in thinking of an Arab, it is perhaps best to think of him, not as a collective entity, but as an individual, i. e., as Gasim ab Dumeik, Moslem, who does not ride camels or live in tents, but who conducts a curio business at 9 Mahomet street, Bagdad. Thus will orderly habits of mind be cultivated.

PLANNING GONE HAYWIRE.

The American war economy is in essential outline that socialized dream world that the heavy thinkers in the New Deal have envisioned as the inevitable outcome of the processes set in train in 1933. This socialized state was to have centralized control. Superior minds were to be brought to the top. Thereafter they would take the worries off the minds of all the rest of us. They would make all the important decisions. Then, with the planners steering with a firm hand, the nation would be guided into realms from which want, insecurity, and error would be forever banished.

We should continue to elect congresses, but they would be little better than debating societies. Their function would principally be to grant approval, in the name of the people, to the designs of the planners. This system could be described, in the picturesque phrase of Dr. Alvin Hansen, the New Deal's economic fugleman, as "administrative democracy."

Well, the centralized control is here, the planners are in the saddle, the best minds are handing down the decisions, and all the rest of us are following orders. If the planners are to be believed, the economic system should be running like a well oiled machine. But is it?

One of the virtues claimed for centralized control is that it enables a sharp, clearly defined course to be pursued. The inefficiency which is supposed to flow from the diversity of desires and opinions should disappear when a few top minds are charged with responsibility for resolving problems. The only requirement is that the top minds be able to agree, but that is taken for granted. Recent experience, however, demonstrates that it is not always so simple.

The government silver policy has been part of New Deal theory for eight years. Since the war began, however, both Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau and Chairman Eccles of the board of governors of the federal reserve system have turned against it. They have lately been joined by Donald Nelson, head of the War Production board, who is trying to get some of the government's silver hoard for war industry. Other administration leaders apparently support the congressional silver bloc in maintaining the subsidy to the silver producers, for there cannot be a doubt that if the White House wanted the silver purchase act taken off the books, all it would have to do would be to crack the whip. So, oddly enough, we find the planners at odds among themselves on this question.

We also find that there is little unanimity among the planners with reference to price regulation. The secretary of agriculture fears that the policies of the price administrator may create a beef shortage, while the price administrator condemns the secretary of agriculture's parity prices as unjustified and inflationary. Meanwhile, the secretary of agriculture's crop loan and parity benefits for one set of farmers who grow grain are making things difficult for another set of farmers who have to buy the grain to feed steers and other farm stock. So here again the planners are divided.

The theme could be pursued with reference to almost all the other planning that is being done. The war and navy departments are at odds on policy with the head of the WPB. The classic example, of course, is the rubber muddle, in which there are no two planners who will agree.

With these examples before them the people will have difficulty comprehending why "administrative democracy" is any better than free republican government, under which their country has grown great and they themselves, despite the recurrent necessity of belt tightening, have steadily moved forward and in general have prospered. They can see the staggering expense of carrying out the schemes of socialism. They can discern that the socialized state requires them little by little, but more and more, to yield their liberties. What they cannot see is the advantages, the increase in efficiency, or the compensations. So it will not be surprising if they ask, "What's in it for me?"

BIG STEEL EARNINGS.

[Cleveland Plain Dealer.]

Nothing could better illustrate the effects of war on corporate profits than the second quarter earnings report of the United States Steel corporation, published in yesterday's papers.

"Big Steel," as it is known to the trade, is one of the genuinely efficient big businesses of the nation. It has been surfeited with war orders from the beginning and had been operating at capacity long before this nation entered the war. It is an operation, moreover, which is well diversified and whose over-all activities present a fairly accurate picture of wartime industry as a whole.

Persons whose recollections go back to World War I. were not surprised to read yesterday that United States Steel not only failed to earn anything on its common in the last quarter, but failed quite to cover the preferred dividend. What with increasing costs of operation, higher taxes in effect and very much higher taxes in prospect, the financial position of the strongest of the war industries leaves much to be desired.

Only yesterday the Iron Age called attention to "overdue repairs" in the steel industry and their tendency to soften the operating rate. Overdue repairs operate also to increase unit costs of production and to undermine profits.

THE WORLD IN BRIEF.

The first word in the English-Japanese Military Dictionary, published this week by the University of Chicago press, is the English word abandon. The last word is zutsu, Japanese for headache. Just as the war in the Pacific opened for us with the first, so let it close for the Japs with the second.

* * *

Excerpts from a wartime press release:

"Blushing thru the years is a real thrill and it is a different approach to the important business of keeping beautiful. . . . For weeks we've blushed . . . in the tub . . . in the shower . . . when we took a nap to regain energy . . . and even while we had our hair done we insisted on blushing. . . . We're really enthusiastic about this basic idea of blushing thru the years. . . ."

Couldn't be high blood pressure, could it?

Our heart goes out to Mr. Julian Gregory of Stephens City, Va., who swooped around priorities to build a 35x18x5½ foot swimming pool and now can't get the 17,000 gallons of water to fill it. Said Gregory: "I have quite a hole on my hands."

ANTI-SOCIAL ANT-EATER.

(A Brookfield Ballad.)

Like every one whose way offends,
The great ant-eater has no friends;
He never meets a neighbor's smile
Or welcome to his domicile.
He has a long and curious nose
That's hardly ever in repose,
And breaks up ant or termite nests
To wreck the home life of the guests.
So take a whispered tip from me;
If you wish popularity,
Just concentrate on your affairs,

Party Girl Meets Mother Earth.

"Don't tell me," I gasped, "that you raised these yourself."

She smiled complacently. "In my Victory garden with my own hands."

"Have you canned much?" I asked.

"I simply can't afford to can," she explained earnestly. "I spent so much to grow my vegetables that I can't afford to spend anything on canning equipment. You see, when every one got enthusiastic about gardening I caught the fever. So I rented an acre of land and had it plowed. And then I went to the store to buy a few packages of seeds. Would you believe it, darling, that good-looking salesman sold me a hoe, rake, spade, shovel, trowel, bags of fertilizer, and the cutest hand cultivator. Then I didn't know what to do with them, so I had to buy a book on gardening. The first time I tried out the tools I raised blisters all over my hands. Fortunately Ricco came along just then."

"Ricco, is he a doctor?" I asked.

"O, no, he's a marvelous gardener who was looking for work, so I hired him. And it seems there wasn't nearly enough equipment, because by the time I got thru buying it all I had to add a little tool shed to the garage to hold everything."

I made clucking noises of sympathy.

"And then my gardening costumes," she went on. "I bought them all at UL&B's and I had to have quite a number because, after all, dirt is so . . . er, dirty."

"Then it has really been a costly experiment," I said.

"But worth it," she exclaimed hastily, "because next Sunday my picture is appearing in the rotogravure section, holding the biggest turnip ever raised in this part of the country, and from my own garden." Eugenia Gerlach Stein.

Relic or Renascence?

A relic of the horse and buggy days is found in the law regulating pay for grand jurors. They are allowed mileage to and from the Criminal court for one trip only. This provision was made when grand jurors drove to the county seat by wagon and stayed in town for the month. There is a tradition that in addition to the mileage the juror was allowed one bale of hay for the horse.

THE UNMENTIONED.

You do not hear them loudly named in talk,
Nor see their letters proudly passed around
From hand to hand. Such circumstantial mock
Too like to sacrilege the heart has found
That keeps a war department paragraph,
A formal telegraphic line or two
More eloquent than tomb or epitaph,
A father's step gone sometimes heavy and slow;
What sacred and immortal souvenirs
Remembrance for all gallant lads has wrought,
Whose names beyond men's lips live in men's thought.

"BLIND FROM BIRTH."

EVERY now and then we learn of a child who is unable to see. It may be a congenital condition and if so, a careful examination will usually disclose the presence of cataracts. This means that the crystalline lens of the eyeball has become so changed that light cannot pass thru. Blindness may be partial or complete.

But what is a cataract? The word means to "fall down." Something happens to the device [lens], which focuses light upon the retina, rendering it useless. The entire structure or minute portions may resemble cooked white of egg. We now know that changes incident to advancing years or maladies such as diabetes may hasten the work of destruction.

Ordinarily we think of these "curtains" [cataracts] as developing late in life. Many an oldster has been able to preserve vision for years, however, because it was possible to remove the offending part and substitute suitable glasses.

Our interest, at the moment, lies in the "born with" type which implies that the defect may be hereditary. Occasionally, the weakness will be observed in a family. Nearly a century ago, a West Virginia couple reared a son and daughter. The latter was blind. The son married twice and all of his many descendants thru several generations were normal save one. The daughter married and was the mother of 3 children—a normal son and 2 sightless daughters. In due time the first of these girls gave birth to 3 blind children. The second married a nearsighted man and, thru the years, 100 offspring have been traced, a third of whom are unable to see. Others have extremely poor vision. Apparently the tendency follows thru the female line and it is assumed that the cause is a constitutional weakness.

Medical science is not without a plan for relief. If the operation can be performed early, sight will be restored to many of these little ones. Special glasses must be worn. But if nothing is done, mental and physical development will be retarded.

I have a keen recollection of a 7 year old lad who had been "blind from birth." Fortunately skilled surgery was able to remove his cataracts. In consequence, he experienced a rebirth.

We must recall that our babes are 3 or 4 months old before they acquire the power to fix the gaze upon an object. But after this period, if the slightest difficulty with vision is detected, parents must make certain that the seeing apparatus is put in perfect order. If trouble is present, both optics are usually involved.

Now and then these lesions will come on during the period of growth. In such circumstances nutrition may be at fault. Cases are known to be associated with rickets [lack of vitamin D] and certain other wasting ailments. This emphasizes the importance of the proper feeding of infants which has now reached a high state of perfection.

PREGNANCY AND HEART STRAIN.

Mrs. C. S. writes: Is it safe for a woman with mitral stenosis to have her first baby at the age of 30?

REPLY.

Pregnancy places a severe strain upon a heart suffering from this type of handicap. Ask your physician to go into a huddle with a cardiac expert. Abide by the verdict.

GOLD SALTS IN ARTHRITIS.

Mrs. E. H. writes: Do you have a leaflet on the treatment of arthritis with gold salts?

REPLY.

Yes. Send a self-addressed stamped envelope. Many cases have been benefited under this plan.

GLUCOSE AIDS THE LIVER.

REPLY.

HOW THE RACKET WORKED.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—To me all this noise about slot machines is confusing. It shouldn't be so difficult to locate the big boss if any one really means to find him. I could have put my hands on him in less than two hours, I believe, just a few years back, and I would follow the same procedure today.

A place in the suburbs in the back of a tavern was then the "center" for the northwest side. Tony and Murphy were the trouble shooters—a third man sat by and took the telephone calls. Occasionally a hushed whisper broke over the tavern crowd when Sam, a big shot, walked in. He was a small, swarthy fellow, quick of step. He spoke to no one, walked in thru the tavern to the rear, stayed a few minutes behind closed doors, and left as quietly as he came. Would it have been hard to follow him?

In another tavern close to this one Murphy came in breathless one evening. "Heat's on!" He and the tavernkeeper pushed the modern slot machine into the kitchen, covered it with a blanket, shut off the light, and closed the kitchen door. Murphy produced an old slot machine like those pictured in recent roundups and told the tavernkeeper. "In about 15 minutes one of the big boys will be in to pick this up. Let them have it." He then left. Perhaps a half hour later two burly men stepped in and told the proprietor, "This is illegal. We are taking it." And away they went with the machine. Their pictures no doubt were in the paper the following morning with big headlines: "Slot Machine Cleanup!" But the following day the very new and modernistic one-armed bandit was in the usual place doing big business.

Murphy always said when the heat was on: "The politicians want us to kick in more money. They are bleeding us to death now." JENNIE MCCARTHY.

WHY WE ARE LOSING.

Hoping that Japan has an earthquake.
Waiting for the Italian people to get disgusted with Mussolini.
Hoping that India will be appeased.
Waiting for Vichy, Turkey, and not a few others to prefer us.
We will win the war when we start to fight, stop talking, and quit worrying about what we will do after the war.

WOMEN IN BARS.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—Why doesn't Mayor Kelly enforce some of the old laws without making new ones that are ridiculous? Keeping women away from the bars! Look at the number of taverns in the city that just have one big bar with entertainment in the center of it. Just where can the women drink? The answer is, not at all in those taverns. There are plenty of taverns of that type thruout the city, and they will suffer. Now is the time for the women to get together and back up the tavern owners and bartenders and have the law annulled. It makes you wonder if they want to put us back beyond woman suffrage. I'm not what a lot of people call a drunk, but I like to go in a tavern with my husband and sit at the bar and have a few beers; and I'm not the only one. If the city council wants this regulation, why don't they at least give the people a chance to have something to say about it?

SLACKERS AFTER THE WAR.

Highland Park, Ill., Aug. 4.—I read the article by the mother from Lombard with a son in the service and I agree with her that it is wrong to spend money needed for the war effort on housing and feeding slackers and keeping them safe to come out and get the jobs our sons and friends will need after the war to get a new start in civil life. If we are going to handle the situation this way, let the powers that be sentence them for the duration and several years additional, so we keep them set until our soldiers come home and adapt themselves to the new business world and get jobs to earn their living. Let the slackers be the ones to worry about a new start and let them take what is left after our fighting men have had a chance to reestablish themselves. H. H. DREW, JR.

GETTING USED TO ARMY LIFE.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—It is not unusual for a draftee to complain about conditions in the army when writing his first letters to his mother. Most mothers who have sons in the army have many worries about their sons and it seems somewhat unfair for the draftee to return this motherly love with additional worries.

The draftee will find that after several weeks of army life his viewpoint changes for the better. We hope this will serve as a general reminder to mothers who have sons in the army not to take their darling boys' complaints too seriously, and for the newly inducted soldiers to refrain from complaining too bitterly about conditions which in all cases improve as they become accustomed to army life. A. E. F. No. 1.

DEPARTMENT OF STOOL PIGEONS.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—Every one knows that politicians and police are stool pigeons and grafters. Otherwise bookies, slot machines, late saloons, and vice could not run. Here is my suggestion: Have a stool pigeons' department in the Chicago crime commission office where the public could call up and report anything that is wrong, such as police drinking and gambling while on duty, taking graft, bookies being open, slot machines going, and police neglecting their duty. This officer could send a man out and catch the offenders in the act. When the police know about this department, they will be more careful and would work occasionally, instead of hanging around police stations, saloons and bookie joints looking for graft and free drinks. The office should be run by an honest business man.

DIVORCE AND REMARRIAGE.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. What state or states permit a lady to get a divorce on non-support and not let the husband know about it?

2. Would this be legal?

3. She knew at all times where her husband was.

4. She married another man after she got the divorce. Is she legally married now? R. R.

1. and 2. In Janssen vs. Janssen, 269 Ill. App. 233, 245, the court said, as to divorce decrees based on notice by publication, that it is only when the plaintiff has "established a bona fide residence in the sister states and the suit and action is free from any fraud that the courts of this state will give full faith and credit to the decrees of other states. . . . We are compelled . . . to hold that the decree of divorce granted by the Nevada court . . . is void."

In Jardine vs. Jardine, 291 Ill. App. 152, a marriage was annulled because of invalidity of the divorce that preceded it. See also Grein vs. Grein, 303 Ill. App. 398, decided Jan. 15, 1940.

In Berreron vs. Berreron, 287 Mass. 524, a Mexican divorce was held invalid, altho the wife had contracted another marriage in reliance on the decree.

We advise a person who contemplates going to a foreign state for a divorce to first get the advice of a disinterested lawyer in the home state. Do not rely on advertising, on news articles, nor on the claims of a lawyer who makes his living out of exploiting such cases.

3. If you mean that she has obtained a divorce, you should give us the facts.

4. We cannot pass upon the validity of the divorce without having the facts.

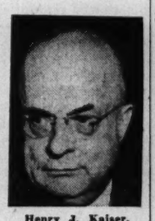
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—Henry J. Kaiser, west coast ship builder, who has been knocking at the doors of government bureaus for weeks in a one man campaign to induce the government to let him build a fleet of 70 ton flying boats as freight carriers, lost no time today in preparing to start work on the first order for 100 of the huge craft which has been given him as an experiment.



Henry J. Kaiser.

The bulky construction genius, who has hung up new records for speed in the building of Liberty ships, had offered to build 5,000 of the freight carrying planes, using nonessential materials and idle shipyard facilities, as the answer to the enemy submarine menace to America's shipping. He made the offer following admissions by military leaders that Nazi raiders are sinking merchant vessels carrying supplies to the battlefields faster than they are being produced.

100 in First Order.

This morning he was informed that Donald M. Nelson, chief of the War Production board, had announced that the government would give him a commitment to build the first 100 cargo planes, to be followed by 400 more providing that the work can be done without interfering with the combat plane program. The planes would be of the 70 ton Mars type, of which one has been produced by the Glenn Martin plant near Baltimore, Md.

"That's good news," said Kaiser, who has become a familiar figure in the capital pleading his cause before congressional committees and trudging in and out of departmental office buildings. "I am sure the job can be done without affecting the rest of the war program. I now believe the first plane can be turned out in eight months after the materials are made available and the working drawings are placed in my hands."

Must Analyze Plans.

Kaiser said the first step will be to work with the Glenn Martin engineers in coöperation with the navy department. The plans for the Mars will be analyzed and the materials needed will be determined, after which a detailed report will be submitted to the government supply chiefs. Meanwhile Kaiser will decide whether the planes are to be built in his yards at Richmond, Cal., or Portland, Ore.

It will be after the government receives the report on the materials and the construction facilities that officials can decide whether work can be done without disrupting the current plane production program. Chief objection to the Kaiser plan has been the length of time required to place the flying boats in service and the amount of critical materials, such as steel alloys for engines, which would have to be diverted from the manufacture of combat planes.

CHIEFS OF ARMY, NAVY ABROAD TO GO ON AIR TODAY

The Air Force sponsors, civic group which is promoting the enlistment of cadets in the Army Air corps, is urging all young men to listen to the broadcast of the official Army hour tomorrow from 2:30 to 3:30 p. m. The Army hour, which is broadcast over WMAQ-NBC, will explain how men are chosen to man pursuit ships, bombers, and other aircraft.

Pickups will be made from the gunnery schools at Las Vegas, Nev., and Harlingen, Tex., and the air forces classification center at Nashville, Tenn. A broadcast from a bombardier school is to be included.

These on the scenes broadcasts will bring listeners descriptions of student pilots going thru gunnery practice and show other aspects of their training. The Air Force sponsors are giving coöperation to the army in obtaining the enlistment of 20,000 air cadets in Cook county by Jan. 1, 1943.

Beverage Control Group Will Meet Here Sept. 1-2

The fifth annual meeting of the National Alcoholic Beverage Control association will be held in the Edgewater Beach hotel Sept. 1 and 2, the executive committee announced yesterday. Topics to be discussed include transportation, production shortages, substitutions, and price ceilings.

Mayor Kelly sent a message to Hitler yesterday—thru five newspaper reporters from neutral Sweden who attended his morning press conference.

"I want Hitler to know that Chicago is 100 per cent behind President Roosevelt and that the President is running this war. Hitler should receive no encouragement from any rumors he may receive that we are divided."

The mayor also told the visiting reporters that Chicago is prepared for air raids from both a civilian and military standpoint. He said army interceptor and fighting planes are within 40 minutes of Chicago and are ready at all times to answer an air raid alarm.

"But don't brag to Hitler about that," he said, "it may give him ideas. I most certainly am not inviting him to bomb us."

W-G-N TO PRESENT OPERETTA MEDLEY AT 8 THIS EVENING

A medley from Planquette's operetta, "Chimes of Normandy," will be a highlight of the broadcast of America Loves a Melody over W-G-N and Mutual Broadcasting system from 8 to 9 o'clock tonight. Marion Claire and Attilio Baggiore will be the soloists, with the W-G-N orchestra and chorus, directed by Henry Weber, providing the musical background.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will be the speaker of the evening.

More than 75 members of the Affiliated Teachers of the Sherwood School of Music, here for their annual convention, will be guests at the broadcast. While in Chicago the music teachers also will attend the Chicago Music Festival at Soldiers' field Saturday night, Aug. 15. Miss Marion Schroeder, W-G-N staff singer, is making plans for the convention.

In the operetta medley Miss Claire will sing "To Me No Stranger," and Baggiore, "On Billows Rocking."

Two song-dramas will be presented, one of "The Blue Danube Waltz," with Miss Claire singing the melody, and "A Pretty Girl Is Like a Melody," with Baggiore as soloist. Miss Claire also will sing "I'll Follow My Secret Heart," by Noel Coward; Herbert's "Sweetheart Waltz," and with Baggiore and the chorus, "All for You."

Kenneth MacGregor will be the producer.

CRUMP'S TICKET IS RENOMINATED IN TENNESSEE

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 7 (AP).—The potency of the E. H. Crump political organization in Shelby [Memphis] county demonstrated itself again in yesterday's state-wide Democratic primary with the renomination of Gov. Prentice Cooper and Sen. Tom Stewart.

Cooper was renominated for his third two year term and Stewart for his first full six year term in the United States senate. Democratic nomination in Tennessee is tantamount to election.

On the basis of nearly complete unofficial returns, the 46 year old chief executive and his opponent, former congressman J. Ridley Mitchell, ran virtually neck-and-neck outside Shelby county, but in 121 of 128 precincts there, Cooper polled 43,467 votes to Mitchell's 2,532.

Edward Ward Carmack, Stewart's opponent, led the junior senator by a margin of approximately 14,000 votes before he was engulfed by the 39,000 to 6,000 majority the Crump-dominated Shelby county gave Stewart.

EXPERTS BEGIN RUBBER PARLEYS ON PARK BENCH

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7 (AP).—Congress marked time on the grain alcohol rubber issue today as President Roosevelt's special committee to investigate the nation's rubber needs and production possibilities started work on two open air park benches.

The committee—composed of Bernard Baruch, chairman; Dr. Karl Compton, president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Dr. James B. Conant, president of Harvard university—got together with a couple of rubber experts in Lafayette Square across the street from the White House.

"It's a good place to meet, isn't it?" Baruch asked questioners who discovered the group sitting in the park.

Senators Guy M. Gillette [D., Ia.] and Elmer Thomas [D., Okla.], backers of the vetoed bill to promote the use of farm products in the synthetic rubber program, agreed that the committee might recommend action which would make legislation unnecessary. They said no effort to override the veto is expected before congress ends its semivacation in September.

U. S. COAST GUARD TO RECRUIT ON MICHIGAN BRIDGE

Ceremonies for the opening of a new coast guard recruiting office in the southwest tower of the Michigan avenue bridge will be conducted at 11 a. m. Monday in conjunction with a war bond sale program. The new

THOMAS CHOSEN FOR 4TH TIME TO HEAD AUTO UNION

Salary Boosts Are Voted for Officials.

R. J. Thomas of Detroit was reëlected by acclamation to his fourth term as president of the United Automobile Workers' union [CIO] at the Hotel Sherman yesterday after two other nominated candidates withdrew.

Thomas' election set off a five minute demonstration among the 1,640 delegates. There was another noisy outbreak when George F. Addes, Toledo, O., was named without opposition to his sixth term as secretary-treasurer. Addes and M. E. Patrick, Detroit, were the candidates for the presidency who withdrew.

There was no such unanimity, however, when delegates debated substantial increases in pay for their officials. The increases were approved, however, by a margin of approximately 7 to 6.

President to Get $9,000.

The increases are: President, from $5,500 to $9,000 a year; secretary-treasurer, from $5,000 to $8,500, and executive board members, from $3,500 to $6,000. Two new vice presidents will receive $7,000.

The roll call vote was demanded after James B. Carey, secretary of the CIO, to whom the chair had been relinquished, ruled the increases had been accepted in a standing vote. More than the required 250 delegates asked the roll call.

Complying with a resolution adopted yesterday to create two international vice-president positions the convention named Richard Frankensteen, national director of the union's aviation division, and Walter Reuther, author of the "Reuther plan," for conversion of industry to war production, to the posts.

Addes Continues No. 2 Man.

Union leaders pointed out that Addes still would be the No. 2 man in the organization, with Frankensteen and Reuther being obliged to follow his instructions.

The convention also approved a resolution empowering the union's executive board to hold a referendum among the membership on a proposal to increase the monthly dues of $1 to $1.50.

Delegates estimated that the boost, termed "vital" by Addes, would increase the dues collected by the union from $7,344,000 annually to approximately $11,000,000. One-half of the increase, if it is approved, is scheduled for the international union and the other half for the locals.

A health and accident department was created by resolution for research work in industrial hygiene and safety and to promote health education.

Contributions to USO Hit Total of $597,893

Contributions to the United Service organizations' war fund total $1,597,893, or more than 90 per cent of the $1,749,432 goal, Holman D. Pettibone, general chairman, said yesterday. The largest donation received since the official campaign ended was $14,747 from the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation and employés.

Makes Repairs

Charles Karlove baring his teeth.

When Charles Karlove of Crystal Lake took his examination for the navy air force at the Board of Trade building yesterday he had little trouble until he reached the dentist's chair. There, however, Lieut. Gordon S. Reynolds found six cavities, shook his head, and said the navy couldn't use Karlove.

Karlove left. Two hours later he returned with six newly filled teeth and one extraction. He passed. He told Lieut. Reynolds he had hurried to a northwest side dentist where he talked a patient in giving up his time for him.

Officials of the naval aviation cadet selection board said yesterday Chicago's "Fly for Navy" drive which started last Saturday already has brought hundreds of applicants for the navy air force.

FIGHT TO OUST HEAD OF UNION HINGES ON AGE

The position of James Leonard O'Grady as president of the once gangster ridden local 66 of the Elevator Operators' and Starters' union [AFL] hangs on the answer to one question:

When was he born?

If he was born Nov. 6, 1900, at Shrewsbury, England, as he alleged in a petition filed in the United States District court yesterday in asking an injunction to prevent him from being ousted as president, he can finish out the remaining two years of his term.

But if he was born Nov. 6, 1899, as has been charged before the executive board meeting of the Building Service Employés' International union, the elevator operators' parent organization, then he faces immediate removal from office as an alien.

The birth date is involved because of a former federal law declaring that children of an alien who was naturalized while they were under 21 years of age and living in the United States also became citizens.

O'Grady's father, John Joseph O'Grady, was naturalized April 15, 1921. Thus, the union president would have been 20 years and 5 months old when his father became a citizen—if he was born in 1900. But if he was born in 1899 the federal law stipulates he is still an alien.

Michigan Town's Last Civil War Veteran Dies

Colon, Mich., Aug. 7 [Special].—Funeral services will be held Sunday for Westley J. West, 94 years old, the last surviving veteran here of the Civil war, who died at his home yesterday. Two daughters, 20 grandchildren and 27 great-grandchildren survive.

BELIEVE MEAD BEATEN; EASE UP IN ATTACKS

Bennett Backers Think Senator to Withdraw.

New York, Aug. 7 [Special].—Convinced that Sen. James M. Mead's race for the Democratic nomination has finally collapsed, backers of Attorney General John J. Bennett Jr., today toned down their attacks on President Roosevelt's choice for governor.

As one of the attorney general's principal supporters put it: "Mead knows he's lost and that he personally is the only one who can do anything about it. Sooner or later he will have to pull out—in the interests of harmony—and we don't want to make it too difficult for him. We don't want to make a martyr of him."

The Bennett backers expect a compromise candidate, possibly Owen D. Young, to be offered by the Mead-for-governor camp. They expect the offer may be made by Frank V. Kelly who controls the all-important Brooklyn delegation to the convention.

Roosevelt Boosts Mead.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—Altho he insisted he is taking no part in the contest for the Democratic nomination for governor in New York State, President Roosevelt today put in a plug for his hand-picked candidate, Sen. James Mead [D., N. Y.].

Asked whether he had anything to say about the charge of the forces supporting the candidacy of Attorney General John J. Bennett Jr. that Sen. Mead is an isolationist, Mr. Roosevelt pondered a moment and then replied he was not talking politics and he is not engaged in the New York campaign. However, he added, if Jim Mead is an isolationist, so is he.

Urged Mead to Run.

The President has insisted repeatedly he is taking no part in the campaign even tho he urged Mead to run and has publicly indorsed him, which brought a shower of criticism on him for taking time from the direction of war to play politics.

The President's interest is said not to be in the outcome of the New York gubernatorial election, but in the 1944 campaign. Bennett is the candidate of James A. Farley, former postmaster general, who broke with the President on the third term. Nomination of Bennett would place Farley in the position of controling the state's large electoral vote against any fourth term movement in 1944.

42,962 Still Get Relief Despite 23d Monthly Dip

Despite increased opportunities for employment in the Chicago area, 42,962 relief cases were reported yesterday for July by George J. Klupar, relief commissioner. Klupar said this was the 23d consecutive month during which the load has declined and that there was a net decrease of 5.3 per cent from 45,375 cases in June. Of the total number dropped last month, 1,015 found private employment, the commissioner said.

CHICAGOAN WHO PICKED UNKNOWN SOLDIER IS DEAD

The funeral of Edward F. Younger, who selected the "unknown soldier" who now lies in state in the national cemetery at Arlington, Va., will be held Tuesday at 10 a. m. in St. Sylvester's church. Van Buren post, American Legion, and Post 2690, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will conduct military services. He was a member of both.

Younger, who was a sergeant in the American expeditionary force of World war I., was ordered to pick one coffin out of many in a chapel in France Oct. 24, 1921. At first he relished the honor, but he declared in later years that he was tired of making speeches about the event and said he hoped the public would forget him. He worked in Chicago as a foreman in the postoffice mailing department.

Younger entered the Hines Memorial hospital July 8 and died Thursday night of a heart ailment. He was 44 years old and lived at 2005 Bingham street Surviving are his widow, Agnes, and two children, Gloria and James.

LAUNDRY DRIVER ROBBED.

DECLINES TO CUT DAUGHTER'S BOND IN YOTT DISPUTE

Mrs. Whitmore Posts $10,000; Released.

Mrs. Esther Whitmore, 55 years old, of Lockport, N. Y., yesterday failed to win a reduction of the $10,000 bond set to insure her appearance in a suit charging her with conspiracy to defraud her aged father, William F. Yott, of $200,000.

The conspiracy suit was brought for Yott, 84 years old, who spent 49 years in the Elgin asylum for the insane, by Attorney Thomas J. O'Malley Jr., appointed his conservator by the Probate court. O'Malley contends he should have been free most of this time.

Claims Father's Estate.

Mrs. Whitmore, who is alleged to have obtained the $200,000 share in her father's estate from her mother, Eliza Yott, was found by deputies early Wednesday morning, hiding behind a washing machine in the basement of a Lake Forest friend's home.

At the hearing before Judge Oscar F. Nelson in Superior court, Attorney Cartwright said Mrs. Whitmore claims she received only $15,000 in securities from her mother, now worth about $6,000. She would "yield that up," he said, if Attorney O'Malley would make a public retraction of his charges in the conspiracy suit.

"I have no retraction to make," O'Malley responded. "I represent a man who has been incarcerated for 49 years and institution records show that but for his family's lack of interest he'd have been free years ago. I talked with Mrs. Whitmore, and my investigation since prove she told me things which are not facts."

Insists on Bond.

Cartwright in a long argument then pressed his motion to quash the bond order and the suit. Judge Nelson, however, refused.

"There is a strong presumption of fraud here," the court said. "The bond of $10,000 will stand. I've listened to you carefully and I know such action as this should be cautious. But the charges here are serious. Unless the bond is made, Mrs. Whitmore will go to jail."

Cartwright then said that his law firm, Winston, Strawn, and Shaw, would provide the bond. Later, the bond was furnished, and Mrs. Whitmore was given permission to leave the state, subject to recall for further hearings.

CHARGES ARNOLD TESTS 'PET' IDEAS IN PETRILLO SUIT

Charges that the government's antitrust suit against James C. Petrillo and his American Federation of Musicians was brought by Thurman Arnold "to test out some of his pet economic theories, which have repeatedly been repudiated by the United States Supreme court," were made yesterday by Joseph A. Padway, chief of Petrillo's counsel.

Padway had come to Chicago from Washington, D. C., and Attorney Henry A. Friedman came from New York to appear at a hearing in federal court on the suit, only to discover that the hearing had been continued on Thursday to Sept. 16 so that Arnold, assistant United States attorney general, may personally appear in it.

Both lawyers protested at the expense the defense was thus put to, but they filed a petition to suppress the suit on the ground that the injunction sought by the government against Petrillo's ban on "canned" music and record making makes no allegation that Petrillo and the union are in a business enterprise.

The petition contended the Sherman anti-trust act does not apply because the defendants are not seeking to suppress competition so as to control prices or to discriminate between would-be purchasers or otherwise deprive the public of the benefits of free competition.

AURORA COUPLE KILLED AS AUTO HITS LOCOMOTIVE

Albert Heidt, 67 years old, 640 Pennsylvania avenue, Aurora, and his wife, Ella, 65, were killed late yesterday when the car in which they were riding crashed into a Milwaukee road freight locomotive eight miles west of Aurora during a heavy rainstorm. Heidt was a department head for the All-Steel company of Aurora.

Jack Heath, 27, driver of the car, his wife, Harriet, and Mrs. Mildred Pearson, 27, all of 112 North May street, Aurora, suffered serious injuries. Mr. and Mrs. Heidt were Mrs. Pearson's parents.

William F. Benn, 51, a watchman on construction projects at the Great Lakes Naval Training station, died in the Alice Home hospital, Lake Forest, of injuries suffered Thursday night when his automobile smashed into the side of a Chicago and North Western railroad freight car at the intersection of state route 176, one mile west of Lake Bluff. Benn, who lived at 6012 Byron street, was discovered near the railroad track 30 minutes after the accident.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 433 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 337 were killed in Chicago, where 12,281 were injured.

Miss Truesdale to Be Bride of John Metcalfe

BY JUDITH CASS.

IT'S not often that news of a romantic nature can be kept so secret that the announcement of an engagement comes as a surprise, but this fact is true of the announcement Mr. and Mrs. William Day Truesdale are making today of the engagement of their younger daughter, Marjorie, to Corp. John Ward Metcalfe. Corp. Metcalfe is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Metcalfe of New York and Paris and is attending an officers' training school. He will receive his commission toward the end of the month; and the wedding will take place shortly afterward.

Miss Truesdale is a graduate of Mount Vernon seminary and of Sarah Lawrence college and was introduced to society at a tea-dance at the Indian Hill club in 1936. She is a member of the Chicago Junior league of which her elder sister, Mrs. Charles J. Gaspar, was a member of the board for several years. Mrs. Gaspar is coming from Pittsburgh to be her sister's only attendant at the wedding, and Mr. Gaspar will be here too, unless he has been called to active duty by the navy.

Corp. Metcalfe is a graduate of the Lawrenceville school and attended Princeton university.

Lake Geneva's Invitational Golf Tournament Canceled.

For the first time in 45 years the annual invitational golf tournament, the oldest tournament of the Lake Geneva Country club, has been canceled. This event, which survived the first World war, is heralded by members and their guests as tops in sporting entertainment during the summer. The tournament was to have been held this week-end. In its place there will be a special three-day golf tournament over the Labor day week-end, Sept. 5, 6, and 7.

A farewell party was given last Saturday night at the club for the winner of last year's invitational tournament and one of the club's best players, Lefens Porter. He departs today for the west coast, having received a commission as a lieutenant in the navy. Also departing today is the club's tennis instructor for the last several years, Edward S. Underwood, who is a first lieutenant in the army.

Gaylord-Gartz Wedding Will Take Place Today.

The war nearly disrupted other plans for this week-end at the lake, for early in the week it looked as if Miss Gail Gartz and Lieut. Clayton R. Gaylord of the army air corps could not be married there today after all. The bride-to-be and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Frederick Gartz Jr., and his parents, the Robert Gaylords of Rockford, had their bags packed and were ready to leave for Florida when the bridegroom's leave was changed. However, he was granted a special leave, and the wedding will take place as planned at the Episcopal church of the Holy Communion in Lake Geneva at 4:30 o'clock, with a reception following at Jerseyhurst, the Gartz home.

Mrs. Jack Vilas Jr., whose marriage took place at Jerseyhurst a few years ago, will be her sister's matron of honor, and their subdeb cousin, Gloria Gartz, will be maid of honor. Miss Claire O'Brien, who is to be married next Saturday to Frederick Crane Gartz, the bride's brother, and Miss Mary Whitmire will be bridesmaids. Wilbur Shank will be best man, and ushering will be young Mr. Gartz, his cousin, Richard C. Crane, and Edson Gaylord, brother of the bridegroom.

Oak Brook Horse Show Free for Service Men.

Biggest last minute news concerning the Oak Brook Polo club horse show this afternoon and tomorrow is that men in uniform will be admitted free. The show is being held on field 1 of the club, which is located in Hinsdale, and tickets are on sale at the gate. The proceeds will go to the United Service organizations.

Mrs. Paul Butler is giving a luncheon today for the dozen or more young women who are to sell war bonds and stamps, and there will be a cocktail party at the club tonight for the exhibitors and judges. Mr. and Mrs. Louis F. Swift are entertaining following the show tomorrow night. The Swifts, the Peter Moons, the Porter Essleys, Harry O. Owens, and the John A. McGuires are some

Ready for 'Carmen' Performance Tonight

Miss Gladys Swarthout (left), opera star, and Mrs. James G. McMillan, president of the Illinois Opera guild, both will be in Soldiers' field tonight. Miss Swarthout will be on the stage taking one of the leading roles in the Chicago Opera company's presentation of "Carmen." Mrs. McMillan will be occupying one of the boxes which the guild is selling to raise funds for opera tickets for service men next fall. In case of rain tonight the performance will be given tomorrow night.

Front VIEWS and PROFILES

BY KATE MASSEE

Following Thru:

One day recently a woman went into the office of the British and American ambulance corps, handed one of the workers a slip of brown paper, and said, "My boy wanted me to come and thank you." The paper was part of a wrapping on a birthday present that the corps' birthday club had sent last January to her son, Pvt. Howard Sillis, at Camp Forrest, Tenn. By the time the gift reached camp Pvt. Sillis was on his way to foreign service. The paper showed that the package had followed him to Australia and had finally reached him in New Caledonia. The sender was our Margot Dalrymple.

As It Is Spoken.

Leaving Comiskey park the other afternoon, Edwin Page was inching his way slowly along, together with some 28,000 other fans. Suddenly he heard a fellow far back in the line yell out, "Whassa matter wit youse up front? What takes so slow?"

End of the Trail.

"St. Miguel, Santa Fe's oldest church, of adobe but buttressed by huge stone reinforcements, and still used as a chapel by the Christian Brothers, contains rare old paintings and a sweet toned bell cast in Spain three centuries ago. . . . The towers of Bishop Latour's cathedral, the church itself French Midi Romanesque, to give the good prelate a touch of his native Auvergne. . . . Bishop's lodge, a few miles out, where Bishop Latour spent quiet and peaceful hours after evangelizing and hard riding over scorched plains and hills. Here he retired in 1885. His chapel is a small adobe one, severe, whitewashed and with a simple altar. The Loretto Sisters' chapel with its miraculous winding stairway to the choir loft. It was early looked upon as a frustration, as no carpenter could be found who could finish its beginning. One day one appeared, and completed it, and legend says he was St. Joseph. . . . Tiny, stooped old women in black clothes and shawls. . . . Poncho, a 6 year old Indian boy, shining shoes and playing the mouth organ as a sideline. . . . Silent, passive Indians selling beads and rings. . . . Parenthetical limbed cowboys. . . . A camera squad from Hollywood to "shoot" these wondrous clouds as background for an aviation picture. . . . Enchiladas, unbearably hot. Thus do distractions break in on holy things."

Opera.

Jan Kiepura, who in the last few weeks has sung with the Cincinnati opera, at the Slavic-American rally in Soldiers' field, and in the Hollywood bowl, arrived back in town in time for rehearsals for tonight's performance of "Carmen," in which he will sing the rôle of Don José. At the first rehearsal Phil Fein, who was stage directing the chorus for the bull fight scene, was explaining the procession. When he told the men that there would be matadors, picadors, and toreadors, a waggish fellow standing in the wings said, "What, no stevedores?"

A $20 Gift Is Sent to Algonquin Fund on Plea of Child

"This is for 'Dickie'," read a letter received by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., from Mrs. John F. Burleson of Grand Rapids, Mich. Inclosed in her letter was $20 which she indicated is to be used to send a small boy to Camp Algonquin, conducted by United Charities for underprivileged children. Her contribution was in response to "Dickie's" letter, which was recently printed in part in THE TRIBUNE.

Hundreds of city children, many of whom write each day pleading for an invitation to the camp, have never vacationed in the country. Such invitations are made possible by contributions from generous readers. THE TRIBUNE invites its readers to send contributions to Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., Tribune Tower, Chicago. All contributions will be gratefully acknowledged in these columns.

Recent contributions to the fund have been received from: E. B. Jensen, $25; Anonymous, $10; Mrs. Sarah White, $5; Milo, $5; Anonymous, $1; Grace C. Smith, $1, and In Memory of Ben F. Moore, $1.

Contributions to the free ice fund included: Mrs. David B. Stern, $20; Anonymous, $10; Mrs. Louis Ets Hokin, $5; Margaret W. Lange, $3; No Name, $2; Anonymous, $2; Mrs. Sarah White, $2; L. A. Thompson, $1; In Memory of Ben F. Moore, $1; M. J. K., $1; and Anonymous, $1. The camp fund stands at $747.93 and the ice fund totals $651.50.

Miss Virginia Branum Being Married Today

Miss Virginia Branum, daughter of the Albert M. Branums of La Grange, and Lieut. James Alexander Cobey, U. S. N. R., son of Mrs. James C. Cobey of Frostburg, Md., will be married at 5 o'clock today at the Branum home. Miss Branum is a graduate of Stephens college and of the University of Iowa. Lieut. Cobey is a graduate of Princeton university and of the Yale law school and attended the Harvard business school. He and his bride will reside in New York.

Miss Catherine McDermott, daughter of Mrs. Jay P. McDermott of Yates avenue, and William Walker McLaury, son of Mrs. Walker Gailey McLaury of Woodlawn avenue, are to be married at 4 o'clock this afternoon in St. Paul's Episcopal church, with a reception following at the South Shore Country club. Miss Ann McDermott will be her twin sister's maid of honor, and Miss Anne McLaury, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Patricia Perry of Fond du Lac, Wis., will be bridesmaids.

Harry Coy is standing by to act as best man if the bridegroom's brother, Nye McLaury, at the last minute is unable to get leave from the army. Ushering will be Charles Zerler, Robert and Philip Schnering, and Ralph Webster. After a wedding trip to Sea Island, Ga., Mr. McLaury and his bride will be at home on the south side.

Miss Miriam McCollum, daughter of Mrs. William E. McCollum of Paxton avenue, and Lieut. Hedric Rhodes are being married at 8:30 o'clock tonight in Bond chapel at the University of Chicago, with a reception following in Swift hall. It will be a military wedding as the bridegroom is a recent graduate of the United States Naval academy at Annapolis and his attendants also are officers. Ensign Rhodes and his bride will spend two weeks at the McCollum summer home in Douglas, Mich.

At 8 o'clock tonight in the Evanston home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hickok their daughter, Jean Elisabeth, will be married to Lieut. William R. Otter of the army air corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Otter of Glencoe. The ceremony will take place at 8 o'clock, with a reception following at the Georgian hotel. Lieut. Otter and his bride will be at home near his army camp.

The Leroy F. McHughs' daughter, Janet, and Ensign Walter M. Jennings, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Jennings of Oak Park, will be married at 11 o'clock today in St. Catherine of Siena church. The McHugh family also resides in Oak Park. Ensign Jennings and his bride will be at home on the north side.

Mrs. Eva C. Palm was elected president of the Cook County council of the American Legion auxiliary yesterday at the annual meeting in the Hotel La Salle. Mrs. Palm, a member of the Englewood unit, was unopposed. She succeeds Mrs. Thomas F. McManus.

Elected to other posts were: Mrs. Ethel Berg, vice president; Mrs. Mary O'Brien, 2d vice president; Mrs. Max Zimmerman, treasurer; Mrs. William R. Selberg, chaplain; Mrs. Arthur Lynge, historian; and Mrs. Loretta Marcus, sergeant at arms.

Mrs. Lynge reported that the Legion and auxiliary in Cook county collected $30,000 in the recent drive for funds for the USO, and Mrs. O'Brien told the women that the drive for old phonograph records yielded 32 tons in the county.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY.

Higher Education Note.

C. M. G. reports the girl graduate who felt that because she was "educated" she should be paid a higher salary. But, she was having a bit of trouble with the word alfalfa. "This doesn't look just right," she said, showing a paper in her hand across which was scrawled: "Alphalpha."

The Secretary Writes to the Wife.

"Many, many thanks for the little piece entitled 'The Wife Writes the Secretary.' It might have been written by my own boss—she's that sweet!

"I've watched so many of my friends suffer under the maligning of employers' wives who have read too many so-called 'true stories' or seen too much Hollywood distortion of the relationship between men and their secretaries.

"Sometimes the annoyance grows so great that we leave good jobs because of it—but sometimes we stay because the employers themselves are good, kind, considerate, and intelligent—so we try to be philosophical about the whole thing. Really, I wish some one would tell the fearful wives how much happier they would make our jobs as secretaries [and their jobs as wives!] if they would just RELAX."—The Auto Girl.

Two incidents are recalled by this letter. The wife of one of America's foremost executives always refers to his secretary as "that girl," which rankles no end. And—by way of contrast—the mayor of a large city, with the concurrence of his gracious wife, made the statement that he had been dependent upon three women in his life: His mother, his wife and his secretary. The mayor—Edward J. Kelly.

Speakers Born to Bore.

During the summer months the Bank Women, the Alliance of Business and Professional Women, Altrusa, Zonta, the Filing association, the Credit Women and countless others are planning fall and winter programs. Here, according to one experienced chairman, is what NOT to get if you would keep an evening audience of business women awake in their chairs:

1. The Vice President whose secretary writes his speech. Too busy to read it beforehand, he doesn't know what's coming next and [fortunately] neither does the audience.
2. The Goodtime Charley whose associates think it's AWFULLY FUNNY that he has agreed to address a meeting of business girls, so they buy him a few drinks. He arrives too late with too much.
3. The Murmurer whose words are heard by the first row only.
4. The Courtly Soul whose glowing tribute to womanhood in general and to the program chairman in particular, makes all squirm.
5. The Note Fumbler, who "jotted down a few statistics" but can't, at the moment, locate them.
6. The Dire Outlook Analyst. This kind is always on a diet . . . never can eat the dinner . . . and invariably must catch a train—which is all right with you.

In answer to "R's" inquiry about the old Fox typewriter, comes a letter: "I used one for years as a public stenographer here in Chicago, a long time ago . . . it held up so well and needed so little repairs . . . I even remember the old Caligraph with spacers at each side!"

Vivid Colored 'Dinks' Are Gay Costume Bases

BY REA SEEGER.

Finds for the career girl Saturday shopper include many of the tricky new fall costume accessories. First are the gay colored velvet "dinks," featuring vivid pink, all shades of green, old gold, stunning blond beige colors and the time honored street shades of wine, russet, mahogany, forest green, black, seal brown, and a few plaids.

These offer foundation bases for feather trim, velvet bows, velvet flowers, buttons, jeweled clips, veils, and a dozen other accent possibilities. Or you can buy them and wear them as is . . . a jaunty spot of color atop your hair-do . . . or to match or contrast your smart new fall jackets.

Feathered pillboxes are other toppers with high fashion beginnings to vary according to dress or suit or jacket. These feathered pillboxes are covered smoothly with hundreds of small tiny feathers in many new shades. A pair of feathered hatpins are furnished with the hats. Wear them as they come or dress them up with wings, bows, sequin or bangle fancies, with long or short veils or other successful additions to change the general appearance each time you wear a different costume.

Thin wool blouses are slick new ideas with high round necklines and chest pockets placed about two inches below the shoulder seams. Sleeves are short and neat, the entire blouse unusually smart and smooth for office wear. Dark shades of beige, red, and green are available with a few natural tones like old fashioned kasha.

Spanking white quilted vestees and waistcoat effects are going like mad among the Saturday and career girl shoppers. They're new, exceptionally snappy, and practical, tubbing with ease and staying cool sugar white to provide the little white accents so indispensable for an office wardrobe.

Chaplain Munday to Speak on W-G-N's Church Hour

Chaplain Wilfred A. Munday will be guest speaker on the Chicagoland Church hour to be heard over W-G-N at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning from St. Paul's chapel, Camp Grant, Rockford, Ill. Chaplain Glen A. Blackburn will conduct the service.

5 Chaplains to Join Staff at Air Force Radio School in City

Five chaplains will arrive in September to assist Chaplain Edward L. Branham in conducting religious services and activities for soldiers at the air force's new radio school in the former Stevens and Congress hotels. Along with Protestant and Roman Catholic activities, arrangements are being made for Jewish services.

In addition to directing religious programs, Chaplain Branham, his new staff, and Chaplain Robert Shepfer of Defiance, O., post organist, will serve as liaison officers between the new post and civic church groups in Chicago. Other duties of the chaplains will include personal counseling, musical program planning, hospital visiting, and sight-seeing tour conducting.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

. . . She's a great artist because she has the feeling and the innate sense to do things with that necessary rightness that can't be learned or simulated. . . .

Truly said!

Miss Fontaine, who made "Rebecca" great and "Suspicion" an outstanding cinema, gives further evidence of genius as Prudence Cathaway.

It is the sustained warmth and credibility of her performance that holds taut the observer's interest in the picture—which, without her, would be just another commendable war movie. . . . Tyrone Power is good. Brilliant bits are contributed by Nigel Bruce as a landlord, Alexander Knox as a clergyman, Thomas Mitchell as Clive's buddy, and Sara Allgood as a harried waitress. . . . The director manipulated his material with ability. . . . But Joan is the sheen—and the depth—of the production.

The background is England at war and the story circles round the painfilled romance of an English soldier, Clive Briggs, and the aristocratic Prudence Cathaway who is valiantly doing her bit as a private in the WAAF.

Clive had been wounded at Dunkirk and is up for a citation. . . . When the two meet, Clive has overstayed his leave—and is about to be reported for desertion. . . . This Prudence learns while spending a week-end with him at a small seaside resort which he had frequented in happier days. . . . She learns it from his buddy, Monty, who has come there to try to persuade Briggs to return to duty.

But Clive is adamant. . . . His mind is a wrangling, jangling mess of confusion. . . . He has lost faith in the cause he is fighting for—or, I should say—lost sight of the real cause for which he had so willingly offered his life.

And so, thru bitter days and tragic happenings, to the moment when the rector of a quiet church, who has given him tea in a peaceful room, beseeches Clive to trust his heart—not his head—and, with a few still, pertinent words, clears away the mental miasma.

Here is a dramatic and thoughtful picture—English to its core. One that commands respect—but never once gets to the heart of you as does "Mrs Miniver."

See you tomorrow.

On the House

There are many small ways around a house for the use of colorful and decorative structural glass. . . . Besides its use for walls in kitchen and bathroom, it can serve as gleaming window sills, impervious to stain or moisture. . . . Again it is a practical splash-board above a range or work surface in a kitchen, or it can be used for corner shelves for bric-a-brac or books. . . . Another distinctive use for this glass, which comes in some 10 different colors is as a border around a living room or library fireplace opening.

LOUISE BARGELT.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 7.—Joan Crawford's had many compliments paid her, but I think the highest one comes from the government and Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, director of the women's army auxiliary corps, because they themselves chose Joan for "The Women's Army"—saying "She has the spirit, vitality, get-up, and go necessary." . . . Anita Loose, who's writing the story, says those women are magnificent. Seventy-eight per cent of them are college graduates. Most of them are married, among them many army officers' wives. . . . Joan had such a nice letter from Douglas Fairbanks written on the anniversary of their marriage. Doug wrote from "somewhere at sea" that he'd just seen an old picture of hers, "The Shining Hour," praised her for the strides she's made as an actress, and hoped that life was pleasant for her these days. He didn't know about her recent marriage.

True Love.

do concerts in 12 countries down there. And he said, "Maybe I'll come back without this!"—patting his tummy. His cute little wife said, "I hope not. I like that and your voice just the way they are." . . . It's Norman Hanack who's consoling Mrs. Jimmy Ritz these days. Now it's Greer Garson who's up for the life of Madame Curie, and while it's a great story, she'd like to do something a little lighter first.

Doing a Job.

James Cagney left with Walter Abel, Merle Oberon, Eddie Arnold, and others on a bond selling tour which will take him away until some time in September. The idea is for Jimmy to visit the various fairs. His first stop will be Goshen, N. Y., where the fair and races attract 100,000 people. He's going to the people instead of asking the people to come to him, and during September all our Hollywood stars who can make a speech will flood the country one end to another, and each do a 10 day tour of bond selling. Yep, our town's doing the finest job of its career.

No Wonder.

Jack Benny moaned to me, "If I'm not the meanest man in the world now, I sure will be when this is finished." First, tomatoes are pushed into his face. Then catsup is poured over him. That scene was done five times. He had to eat raw eggs. Seagulls were hired for him. He was pushed down a flight of stairs. Rochester sets him down on a hot waffle iron, and says, "That's to put more energy into you, boss." An old man hits him with an umbrella. Priscilla Lane slaps his face. When Priscilla was asked to pull her punch, she said, "I never learned how!" and then Director Sidney Lanfield said to Jack, "She's just a little girl. She won't hurt you. Besides, she's got a glove on." At which Rochester muttered, "Joe Louis had his glove on, too, boss." Seems to me they're piling the agony on a little thick. Remember when Gladys Swarthout spent a whole day getting ripe tomatoes in her face? It was so repulsive on the screen it had to be cut out of the picture.

Short Orders.

Charlie McLean and Charlie Baron, Arthur Murray dancer, have whipped up the story "Johnny Jive Jitterbug," which has Mickey Rooney doing a nip-up. He wants to do the music for it and act in it, too. . . . Instead of Linda Darnell rowing with her mother, she bought her a small home in Brentwood. "But," says Linda, "I'll continue to live alone and like it." . . . Joe Schenck has been made librarian while he's in seclusion in Connecticut. He also put on "Green Pastures" up there, and I understand played a part himself. Could it have been Gabriel? . . . What's ailing Ginger Rogers? She's been off the "Once Upon a Honeymoon" set for four days running, which puts Leo McCarey behind on his schedule. . . . I wonder why Rudy Vallee doesn't want it known that he's taking rhumba lessons. . . . Nice to know that John T. Murray, who's been seen too little around here, and his wife, Vivian Oakland, have been signed for "How Do You Do." . . . I hear that Mrs. George M. Cohan, who's been confined to a wheelchair for some years, after seeing "Yankee Doodle Dandy" at her home in Monroe, N. Y., got out of her chair, went over, put her arms around George, kissed him, and said, "That was a beautiful performance you gave, darling."

For Future Reference.

Chatting with Anna Neagle after preview of "Wings and the Woman," which she made in England, I told her that I liked especially the way, in the screening of Amy Johnson's life, they'd brought out the work English women are doing in the air transport. "O, but it isn't just English women," said she. "We have American, Polish, and Czecho-Slovakian pilots, and they're doing a grand job." Anna lunched with Jacqueline Cochran in London. Jacqueline brought eight American flyers over. They've been ferrying planes for months. Forty more will leave for there shortly. Anna and Robert Newton are splendid as Amy Johnson and Jim Mollinson, the brilliant, erratic flyer whom she married and divorced, and the picture, especially in its closing scenes, will do lots toward acquainting our women with the job ahead of us.

What to Do.

It's quite the thing for our stars to change their phone numbers every month or so to avoid the hoi polloi, but not Pat O'Brien. Seems Eloise, who's active in the AWVS, gives their phone number to all service men she meets with instructions to call the house when they come to town. "I can't change my phone number without changing my wife," says Pat, "and I aim to keep her for duration!"

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1942: By Ely Culbertson.]

There is one type of defensive error that is lamentably common. In the following hand, consider how simple it should have been for West to stop declarer from establishing a heart trick.

NORTH
♥ Q 9 6 2

WEST
♠ 8 6
♥ A 5 4
♦ Q 7 3 2

EAST
♠ 9 5
♥ K 10 8 3
♦ J 9 6

SOUTH
♣ K Q

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	1 no trump	Pass
3 spades	Pass	4 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

West opened the club jack. East won and, afraid to break either of the red suits, returned a club. Declarer won, cashed the ace and king of spades, then laid down the heart jack. Now came the play that forms the point of this article. West ducked! After that the defenders' goose was cooked. East had to win with the king and could make no return that would establish four tricks for his side. His actual club return was ruffed, and declarer then led the low heart toward dummy's queen. West hopped up with the ace, and now dummy's heart queen remained as a perfectly good trick that permitted the discard of the losing diamond. In all, declarer lost only one club and two hearts.

West's error had been of the type that is all the more horrible for being very common. West could see the heart queen and nine in dummy. His one thought should have been to preserve any heart strength that his partner might hold over dummy, and, to that end, he obviously should have jumped on the heart jack with his ace. By passing the jack he made it possible for declarer to keep the heart queen back of the ace, where it was certain to win a subsequent trick.

This situation is worthy of study. When a low honor is led from the closed hand toward a dummy that contains another honor, it is almost invariably the correct play for second hand to jump up with the taking trick. If South, in this deal, had led the low heart toward dummy, West, of course, should have ducked, but the lead of the jack was an entirely different proposition.

Did you know that, when Valencia oranges are tinged with green, they're extra ripe and sweet? These oranges are allowed to hang on the tree after they've ripened orange all over. Then the sun gets busy and develops a chlorophyll which is not at all like the unripe green stage. Only the Valencias which grow on the outer branches of the tree, and are exposed to the sun, develop the ripe green color. So don't think you're getting "green" oranges when you see them that way.

Pour a little port wine into your lemonade, next time. You'll love the flavor and the pink lemonade color. And now that peaches are ripe, don't fail to serve fresh peaches in port for dessert once in a while. Sweeten them slightly, then pour the port over them and chill in sherbet glasses.

Cheese production has been "upped" 200 per cent, so there's plenty for us and for our allies. Let's use this rich protein food in many ways. It fills dozens of places in the menu: As appetizer, entree, dessert, depending upon the cheese selected. Cheese fondues and soufflés are wonderful luncheon dishes. Cubes of cheese may be scrambled with eggs, or eggs and corn, to make an excellent picnic food; cubes of cheese also may be mixed into almost any combination salad with good results. The soft and semisoft dessert cheeses are good substitutes for the old, sweet, sugar-laden pies, puddings, and cakes.

The army has purchased 2½ million pounds of hard stick candy for soldiers overseas. It will be good quality candy, the striped variety you ate as a child, and some of it in plain colors. There'll be nine flavors, with peppermint heading the list.

The man of the house, turned loose in the kitchen, often can come up with something really tricky. Notably good were the man-made picnic sandwiches which came out of my kitchen last week. There were some smoked shrimps on hand. These were ground, mixed with chopped pecans and mayonnaise, and the result was something to smack the lips about.

Ever eat that wonderful egg and lemon soup at a downtown Greek café? Or the ambrosial "chicken almond" at one of the near north side night spots? Or gorge yourself on those pies which taste better than the kind mother used to make, at a little basement eating place on Erie street?

Speaking of pies, perhaps you've discovered that honey as a sweetener is at its best in fresh apple and fresh peach pies. Cheese topping is almost as good on peach pie as on apple, too. If you use cream cheese, whip it up with a little milk and spread it over a baked one-cruster. If you prefer American cheese, lay it in strips over the one crust fruit pie when it's half or three-quarters baked, and make it the top crust. Don't bake it long with the pie, or you'll have tough, stringy cheese instead of the soft, melting stuff.

TODAY'S PRIZE RECIPE

Orange Cooler.
[Six servings.]

2 cups orange juice
¼ cup lemon juice
¼ cup maraschino cherry juice
2 tablespoons sliced maraschino cherries
2 tablespoons honey
1 pint vanilla ice cream
1 cup ginger ale

Mix fruit juices, cherries, and honey and chill thoroly. When ready to serve, add ice cream and ginger ale, stirring until ice cream is partly melted. Serve at once.

Women in War Work

By India Moffett

When Mrs. G. Corson Ellis was working with the women's coördinating committee of the Office of Civilian Defense in January she was often called to the telephone to answer inquiries. Too often, she recalls, she didn't know the answers. Too often, also, she found that she was the fourth or fifth person the weary questioner had telephoned. The reason was simple; things were moving so rapidly as the country was changing from peacetime activities to war production, war training, and defense plans that it would take a person's entire time to keep informed.

With a desire to stop putting off inquiries, Mrs. Ellis suggested an information detail, and that was the beginning of what is now the Central Information bureau, 219 South La Salle street, where the telephone number is Central 7182. Part of the local OCD setup, it is, of course, staffed by volunteers. It has been so successful that Mrs. Ellis hopes to have enough new recruits to double her staff between now and Sept. 8.

She will need clerical aids, information desk aids, and research and field workers. Women who are interested should telephone for an appointment with either Mrs. Ellis or Mrs. Lewis Willner, director of volunteers, before calling at 219 South La Salle street to apply.

A training course will begin Sept. 15. It will include three hours of lectures and three hours of practice training a week over a period of three weeks. Any volunteer must be able to give at least two days a week from 9 o'clock until 5 o'clock after going on the office staff.

Altho this is work for no pay whatsoever—not even carfare—there are still requirements for each job. A clerical aid must be able to type, and it is desirable that she should understand filing and know how to cut stencils. The information desk worker should like people and should have a good voice, a good appearance, and good telephone manners. A high school education is necessary, but experience is not.

Research aids also must know how to get along with people and know how to follow a subject thru. They must understand filing and know how to type. Their assignment will be to get acquainted with new organizations and to collect information for files and bulletins. They also should be able to condense that information. Field aids are chiefly required to be able to meet people in a gracious manner. They will go on reserve to assist community chairmen. There are no age limits set for these jobs. In fact the older women, sometimes barred from service by maximum age specifications, are welcome at the bureau if they can qualify for the work.

The community headquarters of Chicago's local defense units have information desks, and the workers receive weekly bulletins from the central office with corrections, additions, and new items. Thus any one who sees a brand new uniform and notes the initials or other insignia probably can find out what organization it represents simply by calling the downtown bureau or a local office.

And speaking of uniforms, all those volunteers who pass the written examination and oral telephone test following the training course will be entitled to wear a uniform. After 50 hours of work they also may wear a "CDV" [civilian defense volunteer] arm emblem or a small hat emblem.

The 200 women golfers who are expected to take part in the 42d annual closed tournament of the Women's Western Golf association opening Monday at Sunset Ridge Country club will become, indirectly, women in war work. The entire amount of gate receipts from the tourney, which will last thru next Saturday, will be turned over to Army and Navy relief funds. With 183 entries listed at noon yesterday, Mrs. Ferdinand A. Bunte, president of the association, said that the field would be the largest in tournament history and that she believed the list would reach 200 before the opening.

Besides giving the receipts to the services, the tournament committee members have invited service men to be among the guests. Representatives from both the army and navy will attend the tea at the club from 4 to 7 o'clock tomorrow, the introductory party for the week of golf. And there will be both army and navy men at dinner Wednesday evening. A mixed foursome is being arranged for service men on Wednesday afternoon. A card party and buffet dinner on Thursday evening and the club dinner-dance on Saturday evening—the final party—will find service men among the guests. Both the army and navy will be represented at the presentation of the winners' trophies Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Charles Dennehy, vice president of the association, is tournament chairman for the organization. Mrs. F. D. Thornton is chairman of the club committee.

[The Women in War Work department reports on women's activities in war and defense work and answers questions of women wishing to take part in these activities.]

'Slowpokes' Fail to Get In on Sally's Cub Baseball Party

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Late Thursday afternoon, after all the winners for next week's party had been selected and the lists were being made ready for next Sunday's TRIBUNE, I received almost 100 letters from boys and girls.

Youngsters who don't send their letters in on time can't possibly be selected as my guests, so I'm afraid there will be a good many children who won't find their names among those who'll come to our baseball party next Thursday. The best letters requesting party invitations are always selected early on Thursday, and we can't wait for slowpokes, you know!

However, even if you're disappointed at missing a chance to see the Chicago Cubs play the St. Louis Cardinals on Aug. 13, you'll find some good news about our party for Aug. 20 in my column tomorrow.

Any boy or girl may write in for an invitation to this party, but be sure to read the rules carefully, and don't wait too long to mail your letter to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

60 Instrumental Soloists to Vie Tuesday Night

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

Sixty accordion, piano, and trombone players will compete in their classification in the Cook county instrumental solo contest to be held next Tuesday night at 7 o'clock in the grand ballroom of the Drake hotel. Capt. Howard Stube, chairman of instrumental participation, will be in charge. The public is invited. Admission is 30 cents, including federal tax.

These winners will compete next Saturday morning at 9 o'clock in the Medinah club, 501 North Michigan avenue, and the final winners will be presented before an audience of 85,000 persons that night in the 13th annual Chicago Music Festival in Soldiers' field. The show begins promptly at 7 p. m. The winning pianist will be heard as soloist with the Festival Marimba orchestra, directed by Clair Omar Musser.

Other instrumental contests for those in Cook county, which includes players of the Hawaiian and Spanish guitar, the marimba, and tenor banjo, will be held next Saturday morning at 9 o'clock in the Medinah club.

Judges for next Tuesday night will be Jane Anderson and Hazel Sims Beidel, concert pianists, and Marcel Ackermann, bandmaster at Farragut High school. Miss Mildred Larsen, director of the Bowen High school band, will be contest chairman.

The contestants on Tuesday night will be:

ACCORDIONISTS—Michael Angelastri, 4304 West Iowa street; Audrey Beier, 137 Woodside road, Riverside; Bermar Mae Blauert, 4823 West Diversey avenue; William A. Massed accordion bands and fretted orchestras will rehearse in Soldiers' field next Friday evening at 7 o'clock and next Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

South Side Festival

More than 100 musicians, dancers, and singers last night presented the fourth annual Greater South Side Music festival before an enthusiastic crowd of 1,000 that filled the auditorium of the South Shore High school.

The program, almost three hours in length, featured a colorful South American cantata-pageant conducted under the direction of Miss Emma Rund in coöperation with The Tribune Music Festival.

Three south side music festival finalists in the Cook county contest appeared as star attractions. They were Winifred Heckman, 18 year old soprano, of 7818 Crandon avenue, Harriett O'Rourke, coloratura soprano, 2860 East 76th street, and Robert McFerrin, 21, of 6020 Calumet avenue, a baritone. The last preliminary festival before the climaxing event in Soldiers' field on Aug. 15 will be held tomorrow night in Soule stadium in East Moline, Ill.

WPB Is 'Amazed' by Way Silk Hose Supply Holds Out

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7 [Special].—War Production board officials today expressed amazement over the way the supply of silk stockings has lasted altho production has dropped 93 per cent since silk stocks were frozen on Aug. 3, 1941.

Astonishment at the size of retailers' inventories was expressed by John Shireman, head of WPB's knitwear section, who said he couldn't predict when existing stocks would begin, to give out. He pointed out that there still is a little production of nylon stockings and that in June 150,000 dozen pairs of silk stockings were manufactured from open silk bales unaffected by the freeze order. Production in June, 1941, was 2,000,000 dozen pairs.

Meantime, he said, conversion of hosiery machinery to cotton and rayon processes has been virtually complete. Total stocking production has been cut by 30 per cent, he said, and four-fifths of the new hose are now being made from rayon.

"Our rayon, cotton, silk, and nylon supplies are plenty for civilian needs," Shireman said, expressing relief that the panic buying that turned stocking counters into madhouses a year ago had stopped.

Shireman declined to predict the same optimistic condition for August, 1943. He indicated there would not be as much cotton available for hosiery as had been hoped and said that by that time the silk and nylon supplies undoubtedly would be used up.

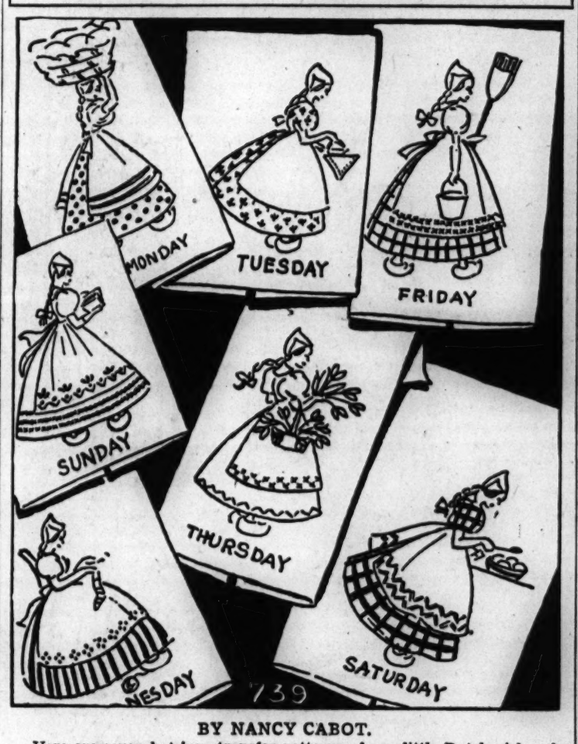
Recital by Sopranos.

Miss Nan Haynes, lyric soprano, and Miss Bonnie Rae Armstrong, coloratura soprano, will appear at a recital to be held at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow night in the Allerton hotel. Accompanist will be Eileen Bowman.

Pattern for Dutch Girls



BY NANCY CABOT.

Here are seven hot iron transfer patterns of gay little Dutch girls, who are to be embroidered on days-of-the-week towels. Each design measures about 4 by 5 inches. These same figures may be used on pot holders, curtains, or luncheon doilies.

For the hot iron transfer pattern of the Dutch girls, No. 739, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

'Moon Is Down' Rated Failure, but with Honor

"THE MOON IS DOWN."

THE CAST.

Dr. Winter.....Paul Bowers
Joseph.....Henry Fisher
Capt. Bentick.....David Kinsman
Mayor Orden.....Arthur Peterson Jr.
Mme. Orden.....Vera Conroy
Col. Lanser.....Lou Krugman
George Corell.....George Mitchell

BY CECIL SMITH.

After a considerable fanfare of preparation, the zealous Actors Company of Chicago brought John Steinbeck's dramatic version of "The Moon Is Down" to the local stage for the first time last evening. Once again Minnie Galatzer, the gifted director of the company, proved her skill in fusing a mixed company of professional and subprofessional actors into a convincing artistic unison.

In this instance, however, I wish Mr. Steinbeck's script more fully deserved the laudable pains of Miss Galatzer and her young acting troupe. "The Moon Is Down" suffers from a fatal defect. It is bloodless. It is scarcely more than a tract, whose pages of dryly ideational speeches are draped crudely around the framework of a plot which never seems to become energized from within, and around characters who seldom become more than puppet symbols.

In these aching times of ours, no human story contains more potential heartbreak or more intrinsic nobility than the story of the people of an occupied land, whose freedom may have been stamped out, but whose spirit can never be destroyed. That Mr. Steinbeck failed to reveal more than the husks of such deep and moving emotion is no more than natural, for it is probably still too soon to understand and synthesize experiences which are so full of both pain and peril for all of us.

The members of the cast do their utmost to make something theatrical out of Mr. Steinbeck's static and persistently rhetorical text. Lou Krugman, an actor of sound instinct and considerable technical skill, almost succeeds in making the ambiguous Col. Lanser, head officer of the army of occupation, into a credible figure. Arthur Peterson Jr., as the patriotic Mayor Orden, suffers from an excess of evangelistic ardor. Among the shorter parts, especially good work is done by Anthony Palma and Jules Getlin.

A failure, yes, but an honorable failure.

N. U. Summer Theater.

The Northwestern university summer theater will give its last performance of George Farquhar's 18th century comedy, "The Beaux's Stratagem," tonight at the playhouse on the Evanston campus.

The Housewife

Often in our modern, streamlined kitchens there is no place for clamping a food chopper or other clamp-fastened device because of rounded or raised edges of tables and cabinets. To provide a good surface there is a handy invention consisting of a thick piece of wood which fits over any table or sink that has as much as a half inch projection. You can attach it quickly to any enameled top, too, without cracking or defacing it. Then simply fasten your food chopper to this board.

Ravinia Festival Season Closes This Week-End.

The last concerts of the Ravinia Festival season will be heard tonight and tomorrow afternoon, with Pierre Monteux as guest conductor with the Chicago Symphony orchestra. Tomorrow night there will be an added performance, however, to which coupon book committee members, sponsors, and others who have worked officially for the success of the season are invited. The entertainment will be presented by the orchestra and Mr. Monteux, with the Budapest String quartet, which will be heard in the park next week, and the Glee club from the Great Lakes Naval Training station taking part.

Influence of Father Vital in Wartime

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

We have discussed helping our children in wartime by making every effort to have their everyday lives continue with as little change as possible. In that connection we have considered several angles of the very obvious fact that war brings new pressures to bear on almost every family, on mothers and fathers in regard to money and hours for meals and sleep, increased work for the man of the family and in some cases for the woman, and strains of various sorts.

As we mentioned before, each child in the family will feel the crisis differently and will understand it in terms of his age, sex, and temperament, his own makeup. It is the business of parents to understand these differing reactions as far as possible and to be ready whenever their help is needed.

Fathers always are enormously important in their children's lives, never more so than in times of anxiety and confusion. And yet, in war they are likely to be away from home for longer hours of work, or in service of one sort or another, and to be tired and preoccupied when they are at home. Even so, fathers, knowing that their strength and influence are vital to the whole family, should try to stay close to their children and to be with them as much as possible. This may mean changing some of the hours for meals or even bedtime, but it will be well worth the children's losing some sleep for the sake of seeing their father. They will feel greater security under changed conditions if they know the family is facing life together.

Of course, this will be more difficult if the father's work or service takes him completely out of the home. But he can still remain in the thoughts and conversation as an important part of the children's lives and an essential part of the family itself. During wars there are fewer and fewer men about, and children miss them and sense an upset in the normal balance of life.

Thru the Looking Glass

Last year, just a few days before the schools were scheduled to open, we called on a dermatologist we know. His office was jammed with patients, mostly mothers and sons and daughters who were about to go away to school. His blood pressure was up, too. Fall history was repeating itself, he said. Every year, just three or four days before the offspring went away, parents would decide that at long last they'd better do something about the skin ailments of their young. They were confident that one visit to the skin specialist and a bottle of something would do the trick.

It usually doesn't work that way. Skin troubles are often complex. In any case, the time to get after them is in the beginning. Neglected ailments aren't usually cleared up overnight.

The girls or the boys with definite skin problems or with the kind of skin that breaks out periodically do need professional attention before going off to school, especially if they're going to be pretty much on their own when it comes to a choice of diet. Medication, if it's needed, and some expert advice about food habits may save complexions and complexes while they're away from home.

It's necessary, in most cases, and certainly wise in all cases, to undertake correction in plenty of time. The youngster with an allergy of unknown cause, the youngster with acne, or the one with skin so prone to infection that it is in a state of eruption most of the time needs careful, painstaking examination. Give the dermatologist time to examine, to prescribe, and then check the reaction to treatment before the child is sent away to school—a place, incidentally, where a skin disorder can be a major torment, psychologically.

Park District Outing Club Sponsors Hike Tomorrow

The Chicago Park District Outing club will sponsor a 4 mile walking tour of the Fabyan preserve at Geneva tomorrow in coöperation with the OCD's physical fitness program. The hiking party will take the 10 o'clock train from the North Western station and return on the 5:30 train. When the preserve was the property of the late Col. Fabyan it was estimated as a million dollar estate. On their visit tomorrow the hikers will see the museum, oriental garden, and old Dutch mill.

Approves Rev. Molzahn's Friendship with Nazi.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 7 (AP).—Otto H. Kaupp, vestryman at Old Zion's church in Philadelphia, testified today that he knew that Pastor Kurt E. B. Molzahn was "friendly" with a Nazi residing in that city as agent for the North German Lloyd Steamship Line.

Prosecutor Thomas J. Dodd Jr. demanded whether he ever had discussed Kessemeier's Nazi connections with Molzahn, and the witness replied that he had not because "it was none of my business."

Defends Attitude of Church.

Kaupp first discovered Kessemeier was a Nazi about six months after meeting him, he testified. The steamship agent was "visitor," but not a member of Old Zion church.

Dodd returned to the subject of Kaupp's testimony yesterday on the bund's request to Molzahn that it be permitted to hold a memorial service in the edifice for German soldiers killed in the World war.

Yesterday Kaupp said the vestry had decided it was "the Christian duty of the church" to permit any group to use it for such purposes, regardless of nationality. He swore, however, that Molzahn stipulated that if the service were held, only American flags could be displayed, only American uniforms worn, and the speakers must be ordained ministers. The service was not held.

Terms Stand "Christian."

Dodd wanted to know if the vestry hadn't been surprised at receiving such a request from the bund, but Kaupp reiterated that they felt it was the Christian duty of the church to permit such usage by any one.

"Suppose the Ku Klux Klan had asked you, would that have made any difference?" insisted the prosecutor.

"Possibly so, possibly not," replied the witness.

Asked about a vestryman whom he testified had been called upon to resign when it was learned he was a bundsman, Dodd wanted to know: "Why were you shocked to learn that a fellow vestryman was a member of the bund when you say you were not disturbed by the request of the bund to use the church?"

"The bund never was discussed in our church," Kaupp insisted.

NEGROES PICKET FEDERAL OFFICE FOR SEGREGATION

Protest against alleged segregation of Negro workers in the Chicago office of the treasury department's bureau of public debt was made yesterday by a half dozen pickets who paced in front of the east and west entrances of the Merchandise Mart, in which the agency is located. The pickets represented the March on Washington committee which was formed a year ago to win equal rights for Negroes in war plants.

W. Spencer Thompson, deputy commissioner in charge of the office, said Charles W. Burton, a Chicago Negro attorney, had protested against the continuance as a unit of an all-Negro group of workers recently transferred here from Washington.

Thompson said the unit represents a small fraction of the Negroes employed and that in other departments Negroes and whites work together. He said any Negro worker has the right to be transferred from the unit.

A. Philip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and founder of the protesting committee, discussed the segregation issue at a mass meeting in the Good Shepherd church, 57th street and Prairie avenue.

FBI ARRESTS 13 GERMANS FOR HIDING MARKS

The number of enemy aliens arrested in Chicago since Pearl Harbor was raised to 138 yesterday when the Federal Bureau of Investigation announced that 13 Germans had been seized for failure to report holdings of $24,000 in reichwander marks to the government.

Richard Hosteny, FBI agent, said the money, purchased from banks and German consular sources and negotiable only for repairing or purchasing property in Germany, had been deposited in Chicago and thus was at the disposal of the Nazi government before the war.

The group was arrested and interned at a south side detention home, Hosteny said, after the FBI traced the holdings of the unreported marks. All of the 13 were quoted by Hosteny as refusing to bear arms against Germany.

U. OF C. SYNTHETIC SOAPS LAUDED AS AID TO SURGEONS

The development of synthetic soaps by the University of Chicago will speed surgical and other types of medical treatment, Dr. Benjamin F. Miller, assistant professor of medicine, said yesterday in a lecture at the university.

Dr. Miller said the new types of synthetic soaps, which are chemically the exact opposite of "soapless" shampoos in common use are more effective bacteria killers and less poisonous than iodine, and work faster than alcohol. In addition to their germ killing action, these germicidal soaps accelerate disinfection because they act simultaneously as a soap and as an antiseptic, he said.

500 PRINTERS WALK OUT OF 20 PLANTS IN PAY HIKE FIGHT

An estimated 500 members of the Chicago Typographical union No. 16 walked out of some 20 commercial printing plants yesterday afternoon and their officers said they would not return unless the employers, members of the Franklin association, raise wages $2.70 a week. It was indicated that the strike might spread next week.

Thomas Canty, head of the union, said that the old wage scale expired March 3 and that negotiations for a new one began several months earlier. These were unsuccessful and a government conciliator failed to get an agreement.

"The International Typographical union authorized us to quit work unless the raise was paid on the first pay day after Aug. 3," Canty said, "and this was the first one in the shops affected. Only $1.60 is to be an actual wage raise. The additional $1.10 a week is to be held for the member as a vacation fund, no vacations being granted by the shops. We consider the walkout not as a strike but a lockout."

STILL STUDYING SABOTEUR CASE, SAYS PRESIDENT

Speculate on Mercy for Two Plotters.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7 (AP).—President Roosevelt told a press conference today that he had not finished his review of testimony in the trial of eight alleged Nazi saboteurs.

Shortly before the press conference, the White House announced: "The President has not yet concluded his reading of the testimony in the saboteur case."

This statement was read to reporters by William D. Hassett, an assistant secretary, in response to inquiries about reports that Mr. Roosevelt had decreed death for six and clemency for two Nazi agents tried by a military tribunal on charges that they came to this country to sabotage vital war activities.

Sole Reviewing Authority.

Mr. Roosevelt disclosed today that he expected to spend at least two or three days reviewing the evidence and findings of the military trial commission. He is the sole reviewing authority who will pass on the commission's sentence.

There had been speculation among persons informed on the progress of the secret military trial that if any clemency were shown, it probably would be for George John Dasch and Ernest Peter Burger.

These sources, who declined to be quoted by name, emphasized that this view was solely a matter of speculation, since only President Roosevelt can make the final decision.

Assigned Special Counsel.

Dasch, 39, a native of Speyer on the Rhine, Germany, was the leader of the four man team which landed from a submarine near Amagansett, Long Island. Burger, 36, a native of Augsburg, Germany, was in Dasch's group.

From the first there were reports that Dasch might receive treatment different from that of his companions because of help given to the government. These reports were given emphasis when Dasch was assigned special counsel at the military trial and was the only one of the eight who did not join in the habeas corpus petition to the Supreme court.

The reports concerning Burger were less positive, but they gained momentum as the trial progressed.

TIN COLLECTIONS DISAPPOINTING IN CITY; URGE CARE

The tin salvage drive has been discouraging, William L. McFetridge, metropolitan area salvage director for the Office of Civilian Defense, said yesterday. Numerous complaints have been received from housewives that garbage trucks are not collecting tin cans, he said. Others assert the collectors mix the tins with rubbish which makes them unfit for detinning.

McFetridge said 35 per cent of the cans collected have to be rejected because they were not washed, were not properly opened at both ends or still bore labels. He urged housewives to notify their janitors when they have accumulated a basket or boxful of cans. The janitors will make arrangements for delivering the cans to the garbage collectors.

Lloyd M. Johnson, city commissioner of streets and electricity, ordered ward superintendents to instruct garbage truck crews to improve tin can collections. He said that the trucks have separate containers for cans and there should be no mixing of the cans with rubbish.

TREASON TRIAL FOR HAUPT KIN IN CHICAGO HINTED

Treason may be the charge filed against the six relatives and friends who aided Herbert Haupt, one of the eight German saboteurs whose fates are now in the hands of President Roosevelt, according to reports heard yesterday in Washington.

J. Albert Woll, United States district attorney could not be reached for comment, but it is understood he is waiting for official word from his superiors in Washington as to the course he is to take. It is believed the prosecution will be in the Chicago federal court. A treason charge carries the death penalty. Max Stephan, Detroit restaurant owner, was condemned to death for treason in Detroit Thursday.

The Haupt case defendants, all being held under close guard in the county jail, are Haupt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Max Haupt; his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Froehling, and two friends, Mr. and Mrs. Otto R. Wergin.

BOWLING ALLEY BURNS.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Washington Park will put on the first Saturday program of its meeting this afternoon with a schedule in which the $7,500 Sheridan handicap will share interest with the return of Alsab to competition in the $2,500 Hinsdale handicap.

Alsab, which hasn't been to the post since the Belmont stakes early in June, is considered a certain starter unless the track conditions should become particularly difficult. A little sloppy footing isn't expected to keep him idle. Unless the running strip becomes heavy and gummy, Trainer Sarge Swenke is expected to send him out.

Handlers Anxious to See Him Run.

Alsab's handlers are just as anxious to get the colt to the post as the public is to see him run because it's time to start racing him up to top condition for the American Derby on Aug. 29. Tho he is eligible for the $7,500 Sheridan handicap at a mile and an eighth, Al Sabath and Swenke decided that the 6 furlong Hinsdale would be a better spot for him in his first effort since recovering from a splint.

In undertaking a comeback which may bring him up again to a contending position for the 3 year old championship, Alsab will face some veteran handicap competition. He will encounter a number of thoroly seasoned 4 year olds and he'll be getting much the worst of the weights, with top impost of 120 pounds. On the scale of weight for age, he'll be conceding 10 pounds to Woof Woof at 117 and many more to all the others. In addition to Woof Woof, Alsab's rivals will consist of Shut Eye, Defense, Sales Talk, and Zig Zag.

Alsab Must Win American Derby.

Today's race is expected to give some kind of a line on Alsab's chances to overtake Shut Out in the race for the championship. Mrs. Sabath's colt has the Preakness and the Withers to his credit, but his rival has gone on to corner the major share of the important stakes to date. He has won the Blue Grass stakes, the Kentucky Derby, the Belmont, the Yankee handicap and the Classic. If Alsab is to get back into the struggle, he'll have to beat Shut Out in the American Derby.

If Alsab today should give one of the magnificent performances of which he was capable at his best, there is considerable probability that he's still in the title race. Even tho he should be badly beaten it wouldn't prove much to the contrary because he'll probably need a couple of races at a mile or more later in the month.

The Sheridan handicap has drawn 15 in the overnight entries. The field includes Darby Dan farm's Best Seller, winner of the Equipoise and Skokie handicap at Arlington Park, and Take Wing, winner of the Stars and Stripes handicap at Arlington and the Flossmoor at Washington Park.

LOOKING FOR REAL ESTATE VALUES?

If you plan to include more real estate in your holdings, the place to look for values is in the real estate columns in the Tribune want ad section. There you will find more choice offers of apartment blocks, acreage, homes, resort and industrial properties, because the Tribune prints more real estate want advertising than any two other Chicago newspapers combined. Turn to the want ad section now.

Uncle Oscar's Oracle.

Dear Uncle Oscar: I am a young man of 18 and I read recently that the president of a railroad said that to reach the top one must persevere and work and climb and work some more. Can this be true?
—Clarence Hippocentanues.

Dear Hippo: Without a doubt. To reach the bottom you merely walk to the edge of a cliff and then take an extra step.

Dear Uncle Oscar: My brother is a porch climber who prowls thru homes for all the money he can find. He is an unhappy man. What do you advise? —Abdon Schlahinger.

Dear Schlah: Money alone cannot bring happiness. Tell your brother to take items of jewelry and such.

Dear Uncle Oscar: The man next door practices on his cornet every Sunday morning. Do you think he will go to heaven?
—Adamandra Fatastebula.

Dear Adamandra: Foolish girl, of course he will go to heaven. However, I hold little hope for the next door neighbors. —Chet Swital.

She had been busy as a bee,
Looking for kindling wood.

Her soldier boy friend told her,
To keep the home fires burning;
And she thought this sturdy tree
Would last till his returning.

She was busy chopping when a ranger
Rode up, shouting; Stop it, Bub;
But when he glimpsed our cutie,
He helped her chop it up!

An Earthly Angel.

One day ['twas many years ago]
God sent an angel from above—
An angel He decreed should sow
The seeds of kindness and of love.

So well did she fulfill her task
That trust and faith grew everywhere
And man no longer wore the mask
Which doubt and fear had willed he wear.

When I was very young, indeed,
I came to know this angel well
And all thru life her simple creed
Has held me firmly in its spell.

Perhaps, as you have walked life's road,
You, too, have met this angel kind
And sensed the light'ning of the load
Which so oppressed your heart and mind.

But if you have I doubt that you,
As well as many an other
Who chanced to meet this angel, knew
You had met my precious mother.

Meets Patty for Junior Title Today.

BY C. H. BEUKEMA.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Culver, Ind., Aug. 7. — National championships in two divisions of competition were decided in the National Junior and Boys tennis tournament on Culver Military academy's ivy lined courts today, but both finals —the boys' singles and doubles—were just more tennis on a program that was packed with drama outside the field of tennis as well as inside.

The record books will show Wade Herren of Birmingham, Ala., beat Tom Molloy of Memphis, Tenn., for the national boys' crown, 8-6, 6-3, and Molloy and Billy Smith of Orlando, Fla., defeated Dean and McDonald Mathey of Princeton, N. J., 6-2, 6-2, in the doubles final. A devotee of the game will know Herren broke the strangle hold Budge Patty and Bob Falkenburg have given California on the boys' crown since 1938 when Milwaukee's Bobby Jake won it.

Brother Meets Brother.

But the books won't tell about the punch packed into the junior semifinal contest that saw brother thrown against brother in one of the closest matches of the tournament. In this case it was the brothers Falkenburg, Tom and Bob, who were battling for a chance to meet their pal and rival, Budge Patty, in tomorrow's final for the junior title won here a year ago by Patty.

The Falkenburgs have been in the news a lot these last few years. Big sister Jinx has made quite a name for herself as a glamor girl and in the movies. And youngest brother, Bob, has won the boys' national title these last two years, thereby having earned No. 3 seeding in this year's junior. Moreover, he recently won the Western Junior at Chicago.

Family Favors Tom.

But big brother, Tom, came to Culver along with Bob. Their parents were in the party, too. Tom wasn't even seeded. He won his first match, without trouble, had a little difficulty in his second, then upset No. 2 man Harry Likas of San Francisco. From that point, a brother match was in the making, provided Tom could get past Jim Brink of Seattle. He did, 6-4, 6-4. More talk of how Tom usually beat Bob because he was bigger and stronger and his 16 months' age advantage gave him a psychological advantage as well. Even their folks talked. They were sort of pitching for Tom, they said, because this was his last year as a junior.

Today, Tom and Bob carried out their assignments like soldiers, and Tom won 9-7, 8-6. The brother act didn't enter into the picture any more than it had in past exhibitions.

CALDER SEEKS WAY TO SAVE HOCKEY LEAGUE

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 7 (AP).—The wartime fate of the National Hockey league rested tonight on the case President Frank Calder is preparing for Canada's director of selective service, Elliott M. Little. Apparently the battle for continuance of the league, for another season at least, is half won.

Today Little made this announcement: "It may be necessary to give some consideration to maintaining the National Hockey league in some form, or else we would face the problem of replacing what it at present means to hundreds of thousands of Canadians in entertainment and maintenance of morale."

No Decision Yet.

Little said that there has been definitely no decision yet on how Canada's war requirements will cut into the man power available for the National league—not only for the Canadian teams, but also for United States teams so far as Canadian players are concerned.

Spokesmen at the selective service office intimated strongly that Little is inclined to believe the league should be continued, at least for the 1942-'43 season.

List Canadians in League.

The decision is being delayed, however, until Calder submits his brief on the league's man power situation. Calder was asked for a list of Canadians playing in the league, their age, marital status, and eligibility for armed service.

Under the present military call-up regulations, single men and childless widowers between 20 and 40 years of age are eligible for service. Married men are not.

SUVEGES BEATS STACKHOUSE FOR INDIANA TITLE

Babartsky, Morrow, Ebli Sign Cardinal Contracts

Al Babartsky, Bob Morrow, and Ray Ebli, the latter a newcomer from Notre Dame, yesterday returned signed contracts to the Chicago football Cardinals. Babartsky and Morrow will be aboard the train leaving the North Western station at 1:30 Monday afternoon, bound for the training camp at Waukesha, Wis., while Ebli will compete as a member of the College All-Star team.

Weather Halts City Amateur; Evans, Mathisen Gain Leads

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The war and the weatherman yesterday held the advantage at the end of the first 18 holes of the 36 hole semifinal matches of the 38th annual City Amateur golf tournament on the Jackson park course.

After a day in which a torrential downpour interrupted one of the semifinals at the 25th hole and the other at the 21st, coupled with the 14 hour imminence of one of the contestants to an official report for army service, the dandiest chaos that ever had struck the old party existed.

Mathisen Holds 6 Up Lead.

Harold Mathisen of Woodridge, the night tolling steel chemist who has won the championship before, came out of the morning 18 holes with a 6 up margin over Sergt. Frank McNamara, the Chicago policeman who won the qualifying medal with a fancy 66 last Monday. The Sarge could do no better than a 74 yesterday morning against the elegant 33—35—68, two under par, wrought by Mathisen. Before the rain struck them at the third green of the afternoon the count was still the same, Mathisen having won the 19th and McNamara the 21st.

Meanwhile, Chick Evans, the 52 year old Edgewater star who first made the championship grade in this same event 35 years ago, had taken a 1 up intermission lead over Jim Basko, 32 year old patent attorney. They went seven holes in the afternoon, Chick winning enough of those to run his match edge to 4 up.

Basko Has Another Date.

Basko, who resides at 1454 East 69th street, would be entitled to play in the postponed second half of the semi-finals, which have been set for this morning, beginning all over again at the 19th tee, but he has another date. Jim was officially sworn in a week ago last Monday at the draft board No. 11, 6850 Stony Island avenue, and is due to report there at 7 o'clock this morning. In the event that nothing else intervenes to extend his furlough, Evans will be declared the winner by default.

Such being the case, Chick would meet the winner of the other semifinal for the championship, first 18 holes of which are set for this afternoon, with the final 18 being played tomorrow.

Par—Out	444	443	434—34
Mathisen—Out	454	352	534—35
McNamara—Out	554	453	434—37
Mathisen leads, 2 up.
Par—In	444	355	534—70
Mathisen—In	434	245	434—33—68
McNamara—In	443	355	544—37—74
Mathisen leads, 6 up.
Par—Out	444	443	434—34
Evans—Out	444	544	434—34
Basko—Out	455	454	544—40
Evans leads, 4 up.
Par—In	444	355	434—36—70
Evans—In	574	345	444—40—74
Basko—In	433	254	544—34—74

Mathisen's Putter Clicks.

Mathisen's putter clicked well nigh perfectly all the way around, barring the second, where he joined McNamara in three putting. Mathiesen holed a 25 footer at the fourth, a 20 footer at No. 13, and 15 footers at the 11th and 14th. McNamara three putted the first, second, and 16th, was bunkered at the 17th, and dropped a neat, curling 20 footer around a stymie for a winning birdie at the 12th.

Basko was trapped at the second and three putted the third. Evans returned the fourth with a bogey, but Jim was short at the fifth, over the seventh green and in the sand at No. 8. A bunker cost Evans the tenth, first of four successive holes he lost to be even on the 14th tee. Basko holed an eight foot birdie putt at the 11th and 12th and another from 12 feet at the 13th. Evans answered this with an eight foot birdie try at the 14th, but Basko was on the 15th in two to make it square again. Basko then found a bunker at the 16th to give Chick his ultimate intermission margin.

Musicians!

COLLEGE musicians and former members of the All-Star band residing in the Chicago district are invited to participate in the ceremony between the halves of the College All-Stars-Chicago Bears game in Soldiers' field on Aug. 28. A limited number of senior high school musicians also will be accepted. Musicians should write G. Cliffe Bainum, band director, Fisk hall, Northwestern university, Evanston, Ill.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

A capacity crowd seems assured since all reserved seats except those in the $1.10 sections now have been sold. Attendance last year was 98,203. Normal profits of the game, which last year exceeded $40,000, will be divided between the army relief and navy relief.

Beyond this, however, is Chicagoland's special contribution of more than $107,000 to army emergency relief. Combined profits of $150,000 will be the largest contribution from any single sports event. It stamps the national All-Star game as a leader in charity. It again shows that the midwest rallies to all worthy causes.

The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., has provided the medium for Chicagoland's contribution to the service charities, just as it has made possible contribution in the preceding years to Chicago's Catholic, Jewish, and United charities. But behind this setup are the principles, the championship teams of the National Football league and the college men. Their performances have lifted this game to leadership in competitive football, just as Chicagoland's fans now have set a national record for generosity.

This morning the cast for the ninth annual contest will assemble. The Chicago Bears, universally called the greatest football team of modern times, will leave today for Delafield, Wis., to learn the lessons by which they hope to continue the recent supremacy of the professionals over the college graduates. The score in the series now stands: National, 4; All-Stars, 2. Two games have ended in ties.

Old Zup Is in Charge.

At Northwestern university, the 1941 college players will rally to the call of Head Coach Bob Zuppke, who last fall completed 29 years of service at the University of Illinois. Zuppke's assistants are Lon Stiner, Oregon State; Frank Leahy, Notre Dame; Homer Norton, Texas A. & M., and Lynn Waldorf and Burt Ingwersen, Northwestern.

Many of these college men have come from military camps, pausing for a few days in their preparations for the battle for democracy. For one more time, the last perhaps, until the united nations have whipped the foes of tolerance, these college boys will carry to the gridiron the principles of fair play on which the game of football and the American government are founded.

Early Arrivals on Hand.

Zuppke and his aids are ready to meet their young men. The veteran head coach has mapped his strategy carefully and, judging from his long record, the fans who come to Soldiers' field on the night of the 28th,

CHRISTOFORIDIS IS IMPRESSIVE IN DRILL FOR BOLDEN

Nate Also in Good Form in 5 Round Workout.

Chris has demonstrated he may be too aggressive and punch too fast for Bolden, but it is unlikely that the 1937 intercity Golden Gloves middleweight winner will be a knockout victim, especially since he has not been floored for the count during a five year career. During that span Bolden has engaged in 55 matches. He scored 38 triumphs, fought three draws, and lost 14 decisions.

Bolden in Good Form.

Both men will conclude sparring drills in Trafton's gymnasium this afternoon.

Al Jordan, Kansas City, Mo., heavyweight, who also is a Golden Gloves graduate, boxed with Altus Allen, still another Golden Gloves product. Allen is paired with Jo Maxin, 1940 Chicagoland Golden Gloves 160 pound title holder, in a 10 round secondary feature Monday. Maxin also participated in a double workout yesterday, going two rounds with Al Globe after having sparred three rounds with Christoforidis.

Johnson to Meet Gresham.

Promoter Irving Schoenwald last night made a change in the preliminary card. Johnny Johnson, south side middleweight, has been substituted for Billy Pierce of West Allis, Wis., in a six round event against Horace Gresham, Cleveland stablemate of Christoforidis. In other contests Jordan is matched with Dan Merritt and Calzaretto with Mickey Hayes.

Schusters Win Mater-Filia Golf with 101

Mrs. R. F. Schuster and daughter, Miriam, of La Grange won the second annual Mater-Filia tourhament of the Chicago Women's District Golf association at Glen Oak yesterday. The mothers and daughters played alternate drives and shots and the winning twosome posted a low gross of 101.

Low net honors went to Mrs. P. G. Dick and Mrs. Don Scott of La Grange with 108—25—83. Second place resulted in a deadlock between Mrs. H. A. Freevol and daughter, Betty, of Medinah who shot 105—21—84, and Mrs. E. G. Thureson and daughter, Betty, of La Grange with 117—33—84.

Held concurrently with the Mater-Filia event was the third CWDGA open day which was won by Virginia Ingram of Sunset Ridge, who fired a 40—37—77, two over women's par. Mrs. F. G. Sprafka of Illinois was second with 41—43—84 and Virginia Nilles of Park Ridge was third with 43—45—88. Mrs. Murray Moxley of St. Charles had 42—47—89.

ORTIZ DEFEATS SALICA, TAKES BANTAM TITLE

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 7 (AP).—Manuel Ortiz of California won the world bantamweight championship tonight by a decisive margin over Titleholder Lou Salica of New York in a 12 round bout. Ortiz of El Centro, Cal., weighed 116¼ and the champion 117.

Referee Abe Roth and the two judges were unanimous in handing Ortiz the crown. Ortiz, at 25, packed too much speed and stamina for the gallant little New Yorker, who had held the title since 1940.

Yankee Takes Second Lipton Series Event

Yankee, R class sloop defending the Sir Thomas Lipton trophy off Belmont harbor, was sailed to victory yesterday by the same crew which won the opening race Thursday. Under Ed Schnabel, owner-skipper, Yankee covered the 12 mile course in 2 hours, 29 minutes, and 9 seconds. Nancy, Tabasco, and Safara, next in line, crossed the finish line in the closest margins recorded this year—1 second apart.

The race began as windward-leeward event, twice around a six mile course. After the fleet had covered the first six miles, a squall struck the yachts, reversing the wind direction. Instead of beating out to the buoy on the last leg they were reaching and running.

Romany Wins Again.

The Heinemann-Schmidt syndicate entry, Romany, repeated its Thursday victory in the S class, taking the lead for the Sir John Nutting cup. Two of the sloops, Herb Osher's Orn, and Albert F. Miller's Little Haste, were disabled by the squall and withdrew. Orn had trouble with its mainsail, and a halyard broke on Little Haste.

Harry Nye Jr. and his wife, Betty, sailed their 22 foot sloop Gale to first place in both Star class races for the Joseph Richter trophy. Gale defeated Al Wilson's Bubbling Over, A. D. Dowrie Jr.'s Shrew, and Robert Cameron's Loch Lomond, in that order, in the opening race sailed yesterday morning.

Hexa Leads Tumlarens.

All four classes are scheduled to sail their third and final races for the Lipton, Nutting, Richter, and Gehrmann awards today at 2:15 p. m. off Belmont harbor. Summaries:

WEATHER KEEPS WHITE SOX AND INDIANS APART

They Play Two Tomorrow; Night Game Monday.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

On orders from the weather man, the White Sox were forced to keep their six game winning streak under lock and key last night, instead of putting it on exhibition, for better or worse, in an electric light affair with the Cleveland Indians.

It also will remain in storage today, there being nothing doing according to the schedule, but the choice prize will be subjected to a double hazard tomorrow afternoon. The Sox must take on the Indians in a twin bill.

If the Indians can't break the streak in those two chances, they'll have another whack at it Monday under the Comiskey park lights in a run off of last night's postponement. Tickets purchased for last night can be used Monday without exchange or they may be turned in for refund.

Delay Ceremony for Boudreau.

The postponement upset the plans University of Illinois alumni had for paying homage to their celebrated member, Lou Boudreau, the youthful Indian pilot. Lou was to be called to the plate before the game and, with due ceremony, presented with an "I" blanket and a scroll extolling his virtues as an athlete and a son of Illinois. All this will be staged Monday night. However, Boudreau was guest at a reception last night in the La Salle hotel so that the admiring alumni could shake the hand that shook the one time Cleveland "Cry Babies" out of their cradles.

Scheduling a night job for the Sox on Monday added more strain to their baseball lives. After taking care of that bit of work they'll assemble Tuesday morning for a daytime ride to St. Louis, where they will battle the Browns under the lights that night.

Lyons, Dietrich Go Tomorrow.

When the Sox resume work tomorrow their pitching will be handled by Ted Lyons and Bill Dietrich. Johnny Humphries, who was due for an airing against his former mates last night, will be held in reserve for Monday's after-dinner argument.

James Dykes, the Sox manager, yesterday received his draft papers —an occupational questionnaire. The 45 year old campaigner went thru the questions carefully and found nothing for which he has qualifications.

"I can't even play third base any more," lamented Dykes, who fought the battle of Gettysburg in the first World war—not the Civil war.

Navy Pier and Camp Grant to Battle Today

Navy Pier's baseball team, currently leading the Welles Park league, will face the Camp Grant nine this afternoon in Wrigley field. Two thousand sailors and the Navy band of 40 will be on hand when the game starts at 2:15 o'clock. The contest is open to the public and there is no admission charge.

Camp Grant defeated the Pier, 5 to 3, in the first game of the series in Rockford. In an effort to whip the soldiers Navy Pier withheld Willard Van Hoose, star pitcher, from Thursday's game with Chanute field. In reserve is Ray Cowser, who held Chanute to five hits altho he lost the game.

Rye, N. Y., Aug. 7 (AP).—Ted Schroeder of Glendale, Cal., and Pauline Betz of Los Angeles advanced to the final rounds of the Eastern Grass Courts tourney today.

Miss Betz, runner-up in the 1941 tournament and ranked second in the nation last year, eliminated Margaret Osborne of San Francisco, 3-6, 6-3, 6-3. Tomorrow she will oppose Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Cal., for the women's singles crown. Miss Brough downed Helen Bernhard of New York 6-2, 4-6, 6-1.

Sidney Wood of New York combined with Schroeder to defeat Harris Everett of Jacksonville, Fla., and George Richards of Montebello, Cal., in the quarter-finals of the men's doubles play, 10-8, 8-10, 6-1. Alejo Russell of Argentina, and Francisco Segura, Ecuadorean who is studying at Miami, Fla., university, defeated Seymour Greenberg of Chicago, and Ray Gladman of Hollywood, Cal., 4-6, 7-5, 8-6.

AUXILIARY BOATS OF COAST GUARD TO CRUISE TODAY

Fourteen motor yachts of the United States Coast Guard Auxiliary's second division [south side] will make a training cruise to Michigan City, Ind., today. The yachts will leave from Jackson Park harbor at 2 p. m., and will reach Michigan City about 6 p. m. The yachts will cruise in formation, according to Capt. Ralph Green, chief flag officer of the division, who will lead in his flagship, the Captain Kidd.

The owner of each yacht will receive sealed orders before starting from Chief Boatswain's Mate Martin Denash, coast guard reserve officer in command. Chief Denash will be aboard L. E. Rickard's 46 foot cruiser, Marlefay.

THE GUMPS—THE GATHERING STORM

Laabs' Homer Helps Browns Beat Tigers, 3-2

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 7 (AP).—Chet Laabs' 20th home run of the season and Vernon Stephens' speed, which carried him across the plate from second base on Mike Chartak's infield hit in the eighth inning, helped the St. Louis Browns to a 3 to 2 triumph over Detroit tonight.

Cubs and Reds Get Night Off; Play 2 Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 7.—Postponement of tonight's scheduled lamplit encounter between the Chicago Cubs and the Cincinnati Reds was announced at 7 o'clock. It also was made known then that the teams will play a double header tomorrow, as well as the pair previously arranged for Sunday.

"Sluggers" Still Resting.

Lon Warneke, who was to have made his fourth start as a restored Cub in tonight's game, will pitch one of the games tomorrow, and probably will be pitted against Paul Derringer. Bill Lee also will be given a starting assignment tomorrow, putting Claude Passeau and Hi Bithorn on deck for Sunday. Ray Starr is scheduled to oppose Lee tomorrow.

Manager Jim Wilson, who had planned to keep Jimmy Foxx, Bill Nicholson, and Rip Russell on the bench had tonight's game been played, said the three long range slugging stars who have quit slugging for reasons unknown, might continue at sedentary labor in the double header tomorrow. He wasn't sure.

Two Jims in Huddle.

Cincinnati is the seventh and last National league stop on the Cubs' current and disheartening road trip. Going into the set with the Reds the Cubs have won 4 and lost 11 on the journey.

General Manager Jim Gallagher joined the troupe this afternon and immediately summoned Wilson to his apartment. A "no news" sign was hung out before the two executives began their deliberations.

10 FIRE PERFECT SCORES IN SKEET 12 GAUGE EVENT

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 7 (AP).—An army-navy duel between an ensign and a private, both of whom shattered 100 straight targets, enlivened today's 12 gauge shooting in the National Skeet tournament.

The navy's W. C. Perdue, 20 year old former Springhill, Ala., real estate agent now stationed at Pensacola, Fla., hit 100x100 to tie the army's Dick Shaughnessy at the head of the pack. The 20 year old Dedham, Mass., marksman has posted scores of 96, 99, 100, and 100 in three days of firing.

Grant Ilseng of Chicago and Ed Lindsay of Paris, Tex., professionals, also fired with faultless aim.

Mrs. M. L. Smythe of Aurora, O., splintered 99 targets to lead feminine contenders. Mrs. Potter Palmer III. of Chicago broke 98 birds.

H. Lutcher Brown, veteran Texas oil man, who is pressing Shaughnessy for high-over-all honors, dropped one bird, as did his 15 year old son, Freddie, their combined score of 198 gave them a slim lead over young Shaughnessy and his father, J. M. Shaughnessy, who had 197, for the father-son title.

Postpone Semi-Pro Card; Play Two Games Tonight

Sycamore, Ill., Aug. 7 (AP).—The Sterling-Bloomington game scheduled tonight in the State Semi-Pro Baseball tournament was postponed and will be played as part of a double header tomorrow night. Sterling plays Bloomington at 7 p. m. and Benda Coals of Chicago faces Waukegan at 9 p. m. Both are second round games.

A Word to Conzelman in Passing

Thirteen members of the Washington Redskins football team stopped over between trains in Chicago yesterday en route to their San Diego, Cal., training camp and picked up Milburn [Tiny] Croft, the largest rookie ever signed in the National Football league.

Croft, a 305 pound tackle from Ripon college, was accompanied to the train by his mother. The Crofts are Chicago residents.

Sammy Baugh, the Redskins' star passer, will join the team in Clovis, N. M. Clyde Shugart, a veteran guard, will be picked up in Kansas City. Dick Todd and Marvin Whited, a back from the University of Oklahoma, have been instructed to be in Amarillo, Tex., and Bob Seymour, a triple threat back, will board the train at Waynoka, Okla.

Forty-three men are expected to report to Coach Ray Flaherty on Monday morning when the Redskins begin training for their game against Wallace Wade's West Army All-Stars in Los Angeles Aug. 30.

HAINLINE ENTERS SEMI-FINALS IN IOWA TENNIS

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 7 (AP).—Dick Hainline of Rock Island, Ill., defending champion, moved a step nearer his second consecutive Iowa state tennis title today when he defeated Wayne Anderson of Shenandoah, Ia., 6-3, 6-3, in a quarter-final round match.

Sterling Lord of Burlington, Ia., gained the semi-final berth opposite Hainline when he downed Chuck Evert of Chicago, 6-0, 6-2. The other seeded player in the quarter-final round advanced as Harris Coggeshall of Des Moines, Ia., whipped Ben Beckerman, also of Des Moines, 6-2, 6-1.

Harold Johnson, the Iowa high school champion, added the men's junior title to his collection as he trounced Gerry Van Ginkel, 6-2, 6-0, in the championship match. Joanne Dunn captured the girls' crown when she defeated Doris Jensen, 6-1, 6-2.

Burnett Beats Edwards on Madison-Cicero Fight Card

Barney Burnett, novice Golden Gloves boxer, won a decision in five rounds over Bishop Edwards, also a Golden Gloves boxer, in one of the leading bouts on last night's amateur card in the Madison-Cicero arena. They weighed 165 pounds. In another five rounder Lynch Travis, New Orleans, beat Buddy Ryan, unattached. Both were 147 pounds. Other results:

The All-Stars who live in the immediate vicinity will check in this morning in Northwestern's Hinman house. Several, who came from greater distances, were quartered in the Hinman and Goodrich houses last night. Those already on hand yesterday were Vic Lindskog, Stanford center; Helge Pukema, Minnesota guard, and Jack Jacobs, Oklahoma half back. Bob Westfall, Michigan full back, arrived last night, as did Judd Ringer, Minnesota end.

Jack Hunt, Marshall college half back; Bill Diehl of Iowa, and Henry Stanton, Arizona end, were other late arrivals last night. They came from New Haven, Conn., and will return there after the national game to play with the eastern army eleven.

Lach Checks In.

Steve Lach, the talented Duke half back, who starred in the Rose bowl game in Durham, N. C., last Jan. 1, was another of the boys who reported 24 hours early. Bob Hargrave, Notre Dame quarter back, is driving from his home in Evansville, Ind. He advised he would arrive this morning. Also scheduled this morning are Bob Robertson, Southern California half, who arrives aboard the Golden State Limited at 8:40 a. m., and Fred Meyer, Stanford end, who is coming on the Californian. Meyer will reach La Salle Street station 10 minutes ahead of Robertson.

At 8:50 o'clock this morning Al Blozis, Georgetown university tackle, will arrive in Union station on the Liberty Limited. Larry Sartori, Fordham university guard, is due in the same station a half hour earlier.

Coach Zuppke indicated yesterday that this morning would be devoted to a brief squad meeting and to issuing equipment. The first organized practice is scheduled this afternoon.

Bears Off for Camp Today; Sign Kuzman

BY EDWARD PRELL.

With the Chicago Bears this morning when they shove off from Wrigley field for their Wisconsin training grounds will be big John Kuzman, who did a lot of playing at tackle last season for the Chicago Cardinals. Kuzman, former Fordham star, was obtained from the Cards yesterday. In exchange, the pro champions will turn over a player to their crosstown rivals later in the season.

Owner Coach George Halas will be busy up until departure time at 10 a. m. getting the last few Bears signed up. National league owners last winter voted a rule making it mandatory for players to be signed before stepping on the practice field.

Ed Kolman Gives In.

Ed Kolman came to terms yesterday. Ed's first experience in 1940 with the Bears was at right tackle. Last year he was shifted to the left side of the line, but present plans call for the 232 pound Polish giant from Brooklyn to return to his original position at right tackle. Kolman established himself among the league's best tackles last season after Joe Stydahar was stopped by injuries.

The Bears have finished a week of informal practice along the lake front, but tomorrow afternoon on the practice field of St. John's Military academy in Delafield, the first steps will be taken in preparation for meeting the College All-Stars in Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 28. Last year the Bears walloped the collegians, 37 to 13, after two earlier trips into the big game. In 1934, the Bears were held to a scoreless tie and the following year managed to win, 5 to 0.

Lose Hughes to Army.

It was learned yesterday that the Bears will have to do without Billy Hughes, center obtained last season from the Philadelphia Eagles. Hughes, former University of Texas player, is in the army air corps. The Bears have three centers—Clyde [Bulldog] Turner, Al Matuza, and Stuart Clarkson. The latter was graduated last spring from Texas Arts and Industries.

The Bears have a light drill planned upon their arrival shortly after noon today in Delafield. Halas indicated yesterday there would be a single workout tomorrow, with the two-a-day schedule beginning Monday.

GULDAHL, WOOD LEAD CANADIAN OPEN WITH 135s

Guldahl was in trouble all the way but his recovery shots kept him in the running and his putting was deadly. The combination brought him a 35—34—69 over the par 72 course.

Wood also had a 69, equalling par out with a 36 and then applying the pressure for a 33 on the home nine.

One of Guldahl's best recovery shots of the day was out of a bad trap on No. 17. His drive was only a few feet short of 300 yards, but wide, the ball coming to rest in the middle of the trap. Taking plenty of sand, Guldahl pitched to within 7 feet of the pin and then two-putted for a par four.

Street Scene.

Well, Arch, the merry old pride and self-respect received quite a setback on the return trip from the postoffice this morning. Here was I, complacently pursuing the even tenor of my ways, utterly secure in the belief that a loyal public, or a sizable portion of it at least, waited practically breathlessly from day to day for something new from my more or less rusty typewriter.

Then along the tree lined mall of Locust street comes one of the town's leading young citizens, stops me, and without a word of warning let's me have it.

"Morning, John."

"Fine morning, isn't it?"

"How's everything, John?"

"Fine, thanks."

Tom Beats Bob Falkenburg in Culver Tennis

had the crowd on its feet. It seemed to be a match between Tom's greater power and Bob's slightly more finished game, with the match being extended because Tom's drives frequently were too powerful and over the baselines.

Tom thus qualified to face Champion Patty in tomorrow's final, which, if the Falkenburgs are correct, Tom can win. The family refused to say as much for Bob.

Herren Beats Molloy Again.

Herren's victory over Molloy was his second, Wade having beaten his younger opponent in the semi-finals of the recent Southern tournament in Clinton, S. C. The first set was close, but Herren clearly was the master in the second.

Patty started and finished his match with MacDonald fast. He ran up a 3-0 lead in the first game, after which MacDonald played him even. MacDonald won the first two games of the final set, then Patty took the third game without loss of a point and went on to add the necessary five games.

Falkenburgs Work Fast.

The Falkenburgs ran off the first seven games of their opening set quickly, after which Bob started uphill to catch Tom. Tom was at set point twice in the 16th game only to lose his advantage by firing the ball past the baseline. He scored seven points in that game before winning.

Tom won the 11th game of the second set by coming from behind after Bob had him 40- love, running the score to deuce four times and finally winning with his eighth point. Bob ran out with four quick points in the 12th game, then scored only one more in the last two games.

Two semi-finals doubles junior matches were stopped by the weather late in the afternoon and postponed until tomorrow. A Falkenburg is involved in each one and there is a possibility they may meet again in the finals.

BRAVES DEFEAT DODGERS, 2-1, IN 11 INNING DUEL

Triple by Fernandez Is Decisive Blow.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 7 (AP).—The lowly Boston Braves defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers, 2 to 1, in 11 innings tonight, scoring the winning run when Nanny Fernandez tripled after two were out and raced home as Peewee Reese fumbled Max West's grounder which Relief Pitcher Hugh Casey had deflected.

The game was completed just a few minutes before the dim-out regulations would have halted play, but, even tho the Dodgers fell behind in the top half of the 11th and the score would have reverted to a tie if the contest was stopped, Brooklyn made no attempt to stall.

STOCKS EDGE UP IN DISREGARD OF CONFUSING NEWS

Trading Second Lightest for Two Years.

New York, Aug. 7 (AP).—The stock market today displayed further disregard for confusing international news, and leading issues managed to edge into moderately higher territory.

The list was a shade irregular at the start, but bids soon appeared for steels, motors, and other favorites. Gains ranged from fractions to around a point at the best, but these were reduced in most cases. Almost one-third of the list showed minus signs at the close.

Average Bounces Back.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 0.1 of a point at 36.2, erasing yesterday's like decline. Transfers of 212,250 shares compared with 248,773 Thursday and were the smallest for a full five hour session since July 1, low mark since Aug. 26, 1940.

Bethlehem Steel and Chrysler finished up ¾ each, and du Pont rose 1⅜. Lesser gains were held by United States Steel, General Motors, Sears Roebuck, Santa Fe, Great Northern, Anaconda, Standard Oil [N. J.], International Harvester, United Aircraft, American Can, Union Carbide, and Eastman Kodak.

CHICAGO LIST MIXED.

Advances by 21 stocks were balanced by declines of 22 others on the Chicago Stock exchange. Nineteen issues closed unchanged. Transfers totaled 11,000, equaling Thursday's turnover. Elgin National Watch, the volume leader with 1,600 share sales, declined ⅛. Middle West, Commonwealth Edison, and Chicago corporation were unchanged. Borg-Warner advanced ⅝. In the last half-hour Zenith Radio dipped ⅛ below the New York close.

ARNOLD ALLEGES TURMOIL RULES RADIO INDUSTRY

Too Important to Tell in Open Court.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 7 (AP).—Thurman Arnold, head of the anti-trust division of the department of justice, said in federal court today that there was "international confusion" in the radio industry of such "significance" he would be unwilling to describe it in an open courtroom.

Thurman Arnold.

Arnold declined to amplify the statement, but offered to discuss it "confidentially" with the court. It was made shortly after he had charged that the Radio Corporation of America, the American Telephone and Telegraph company, and other corporations "are now engaged in a new monopoly covering the whole radio field."

Seeks to End Decree.

The assertions were made during argument on a government motion to set aside a 10 year old consent decree against nine radio and electrical manufacturing companies which the government charged had violated anti-trust statutes.

Arnold told Judge Albert B. Maris that Attorney General Francis Biddle believes the decree is no longer effective.

The order divorced RCA from General Electric company and Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company and prohibited the affected companies from claiming exclusive rights to certain radio patents.

Other companies involved included National Broadcasting Company, Inc., RCA Communications, Inc., RCA Photophone, Inc., RCA Radiotron Company, Inc., and RCA-Victor Company, Inc.

Opposed by Companies.

Arnold said "the course of events since then [1932 when the consent decree was entered] indicated that the decree has not removed the unlawful restraints of trade and prohibited the monopolies."

Bruce Bromley, attorney for Westinghouse, objected to vacating the decree, asserting Arnold's motion was a "typically ingenious device to get rid of the defense we could enter to a new suit which he plainly contemplates bringing against us."

The government dropped suits against five companies when General Electric and Westinghouse agreed to dispose of stock holdings in those companies. Counsel for the other corporations also objected to dismissal of the decree. They contended the defendants had made new license agreements with their customers on the strength of the decree and that the companies would lose millions of dollars if it were vacated.

SUBPENA BOOKS OF CHICAGO FIRE INSURANCE BODY

Charles F. Thomas, manager of the Western Underwriters' association, one of two Chicago fire insurance organizations included in 13 against which the justice department announced it will present complaints charging rate fixing and suppression of competition to a federal grand jury in Atlanta, Ga., in October, said yesterday he had received a subpena ordering books and records of the organization delivered to the grand jury. He had no comment, however, on the complaints.

Officials of the Western Insurance bureau, the other Chicago firm listed in the complaint, could not be reached for a statement.

Chicago Milk Marketing Hearing to Open Aug. 14

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7 (AP).—The department of agriculture today announced that public hearings on amendments proposed to the Chicago federal milk marketing order would open Aug. 14 at the Palmer House in Chicago. Farmer representatives in the area are seeking to amend milk class prices by establishing them in relation to an alternative butter and dry skim milk formula price to be used when the present evaporated milk formula is lower.

Crude Petroleum Stocks Reduced Again in Week

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7 (AP).—The bureau of mines reported today stocks of crude petroleum on Aug. 1 totaled 248,336,000 barrels, a decrease of 926,000 barrels from a week earlier. Stocks of domestic oil decreased 821,000 barrels and foreign crude 105,000.

New Ore Route Around Soo to Open This Year

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7 (AP).—The War Production board announced today it had approved the spending of 20 to 30 million dollars to provide an alternate route across the upper peninsula of Michigan for iron ore shipments in order to provide a second traffic route and insure against possible closure of the locks at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

The project, to be completed this year, calls for immediate construction of ore yards and docks, as well as the possible dredging of new channels, at Escanaba, Mich.

Rail Improvement Planned.

Also to be started immediately are improvements of the railroads operating between Superior, Wis., and Ironwood, Mich., on Lake Superior, and Escanaba, on Lake Michigan, thru ballasting, tying, and the strengthening of bridges.

The project will make it possible, the Office of Defense Transportation estimated, to handle up to 100 million tons of iron ore annually without using the Soo locks, which are vulnerable to sabotage or accidental damage.

Approximately 84 million tons of ore will pass thru the Soo locks this year and a larger tonnage is expected in 1943.

All-Rail Route Possible.

ODT estimated that 40 million tons could be moved annually, when the new project is completed, from the Duluth area to blast furnaces in Pennsylvania and Ohio by railroad, and 60 million tons could be moved from Duluth and the Michigan ore ranges to Escanaba, either by an all-rail route or by water and rail by way of Marquette, Mich.

"The ability of boats on the Great Lakes to handle the iron ore trade is being heavily taxed and will be burdened even more heavily as additional lake boats are transferred to salt water," WPB's announcement said.

LONDONER BIDS FOR SINGAPORE POSTWAR TRADE

A London company with the traditional British foreign trading instinct, T. V. Mitchell & Co., is inviting American manufacturers to let it represent them in Japanese occupied Singapore, Penang, Surabaya, and Batavia. The firm advised a Chicago manufacturer by letter that it would be willing to act as agent in the areas for a commission of 10 per cent of the manufacturer's prices.

The letter asserts that Mr. T. V. Mitchell will be leaving England for Singapore—at the first available opportunity after the cessation of hostilities.

"We shall be reopening offices in Singapore, Penang, Surabaya, and Batavia as soon as those areas are relieved from enemy occupation, which we are confident will be in the near future," the Chicago manufacturer was told.

AM. LOCOMOTIVE MAY TOP 2 YEAR OUTPUT IN 1942

New York, Aug. 7 (AP).—"Judging by the first six months' orders, it is likely that American Locomotive company will design and build more locomotives than in 1940 and 1941 combined," William C. Dickerman, president, said today in his statement covering the first half of 1942.

Unfilled orders as of June 30 amounted to 637 million dollars. Three months ago the figure was $299,400,000 and six months ago it was $253,200,000.

Net income for the six months was $2,551,731, equal to $1.72 a share on the common stock, compared with $2,141,520, or $1.18 a share, in the first half of 1941. The tax bill in the first half of this year was $11,945,000, against $1,160,530 a year ago.

NATION'S WORK FORCE RISES TO NEW PEAK OF 54 MILLION IN JULY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7 (AP).—Employment increased 700,000 from June to July, bringing the total number of persons at work to a new record high of 54 million, the Works Projects administration reported today. Unemployment remained unchanged at 2,800,000, the WPA explaining that while 700,000 persons found jobs an equal number, mostly young people leaving school and seeking employment for the first time, entered the labor force.

WPA said employment had increased by 6,400,000 since July, 1940, and by 3,100,000 since July, 1941. Most of the increase was in nonagricultural employment, which reached 42,300,000 last month, up 500,000 from June and 5,500,000 from July, 1940. Agricultural employment was estimated at 11,700,000, a rise of about a million in the last 12 months.

Relief in Sight, Dealers Say of Meat Scarcity

Relief is in sight in the nation-wide meat shortage that has closed more than 60 retail butcher shops in Chicago, meat dealers said yesterday on their return from Washington after a conference with OPA officials.

"The nation can look for the end of the meat shortage as soon as OPA adjusts its price ceilings," said George Dressler, secretary of the Central Retail Meat Dealers association, an organization of Chicago butcher shop owners. "We were told at the conference that some relief is in the offing altho OPA officials would not commit themselves as to what action they will take.

Agree Change Is Needed.

"From their statements at the conference, I believe immediate relief is in sight. The OPA acknowledged that the present setup for the control of meat prices has many bad points and is unworkable. If the price ceiling situation is adjusted so that the farmer, the packer and the retail dealers will receive fair prices, the meat shortage will be relieved within less than 30 days."

Dressler said that representatives of every branch of the meat industry from every section of the country except the producers were invited by OPA to the conference. Approximately 55 were in attendance.

"We think we have a bad situation in Chicago but in some of the eastern markets things are pathetic by comparison," he said. "In some cities the retail butchers have hung out signs 'We carry no fresh meat!'"

Ask Peg for Live Animals.

The National Association of Retail Meat Dealers suggested at the meeting that the OPA call a conference of farmers and get them to agree on prices they consider fair ceilings on live animals. The suggestion was said to have met general approval.

"If the farmers believe a $15 Chicago market for hogs is required for them to make a living, put the ceiling at that level," Dressler said. "If they want $15 or $16 cattle, that is all right. All we ask that we be given workable margins above these prices.

"We are willing to operate at cost for the duration but we cannot continue to operate and take the losses the price ceilings are causing."

Central Cold Storage Co. Buys 6 Story Warehouse

The Central Cold Storage company yesterday purchased the six story paper warehouse at the northwest corner of Dearborn street and Carroll avenue, 105 by 80 feet, from the Hamilton-Dearborn Building corporation, for $45,000, according to county records. The building, which was damaged by fire last February, adjoins the 15 story fireproof warehouse of Central Cold Storage. An official said the damaged building may be rebuilt and used temporarily as a commercial storage plant.

MIDLAND TO DISSOLVE 2 UNITS

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 7 (AP).—The Securities and Exchange commission today approved a voluntary plan for the dissolution of the Traction Light and Power company and the Shirley Realty company, both subsidiaries in the Midland United company system.

Midland will acquire all Traction assets, consisting of $64,000 cash and 17,906 common shares of Public Service Company of Indiana, Inc., also a Midland subsidiary. In consideration, Midland will surrender all of Traction's 500 outstanding $100 par common shares and $288,550 in notes.

Assets to Be Pledged.

Traction assets will be pledged by Midland to Commonwealth Subsidiary corporation, Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, and Public Service Company of Northern Illinois as collateral in place of Traction's capitalization.

Midland also will sell 1,013 common shares and $1,850 of notes of Shirley Realty to Indiana Industrial Land company, another Midland unit, for $23,667 cash. Indiana Industrial then will own all Shirley capitalization and proposes to acquire Shirley assets of real estate and mineral rights before dissolving it.

Standard Gas Hearing Set.

The SEC also set Aug. 13 for a hearing on a petition by the Standard Gas and Electric company, a subsidiary of Standard Power and Light, for a one year extension to comply with a SEC order directing the big holding company to dispose of 16 subsidiaries.

The subsidiaries include California Oregon Power company, Mountain States Power company, Louisville Gas and Electric company [Del.], Northern States Power company [Del.], Market Street Railway company, Wisconsin Public Service corporation, and Pacific Gas and Electric company.

Standard Head Slaps Back at 'Smear' Attack

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7 (AP).—Declaring his company was being made the object of a "vicious smear campaign," William S. Farish, president of the Standard Oil company [New Jersey], today contradicted what he called "reckless assertions" made before the senate patents committee by C. R. Starnes, Texas oil operator.

Starnes testified Wednesday that he had been blocked at every turn in his efforts to produce synthetic rubber, "blocked by Standard of New Jersey and men who are affiliated with and influenced by Standard Oil."

Farish, in a telegram to Chairman Homer S. Bone [D., Wash.], said he was at a loss to understand why Bone permitted his committee to be used as a sounding board for "reckless, unsupported accusations."

Loyalty of Many Impuned.

"The charges involving Standard Oil Company of New Jersey also cast doubt on the loyalty, the patriotism and the motives of many persons in key positions in the government and in many private companies not connected with Standard," Farish said.

"An example of the glaring falsehoods and misrepresentations in yesterday's testimony which your counsel must have failed to explore or to verify, includes the charge 'that Standard Oil Company of New Jersey now owns enough stock in the Texas company to control it.' There is no corporate relationship whatever between our company and the Texas company.

"I also wish to contradict flatly Mr. C. R. Starnes' reckless assertion that my company is in any way denying him a license or withholding information on the manufacture of butyl rubber or flexon.

License Quickly Granted.

"Mr. Starnes formally applied to my company for information on the manufacture of butyl rubber on July 6. We sent him on July 8 all of the information which we could supply without violation of government secrecy orders. At the same time we offered him an emergency form of license, as this was exactly what he asked for.

"Altho we sent him a free license, in accordance with our public offer of March 10, 1942, Mr. Starnes has been objecting for the last three weeks to the form and scope of this license.

"Like all Americans we want to get on with this war. We have hesitated to contribute in any way to prolong public controversy and name calling. But the abuses of democratic privilege and procedures, which occurred at yesterday's hearing, must be promptly and openly branded for what they are or we shall be in danger of losing the very things this nation is fighting for."

Farish said "the most slanderous statements" given the committee by Starnes "were torn from the press release, and these mutilated copies were actually distributed to the press in your committee room by your own committee counsel. Your counsel can hardly plead that he was unaware of the wild and scurrilous nature of the statements the witness was going to make."

'TAP' ISSUE SALE NEARS BILLION; TOPS MAY OFFER

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7 (AP).—The treasury announced tonight that it has sold $964,778,800 of the "tap" bonds which went on sale Monday morning.

The issue, which consists of 2½ per cent, 20-25 year bonds, will continue on sale for an indefinite period, but sales already have surpassed the $880,000,000 market on a similar offer during two weeks in May.

Besides $350,600,000 sold on subscriptions filed directly with the treasury, largest sales by federal reserve districts were: New York, $612,138,200; Boston, $65,180,300; Philadelphia, $42,864,700; Chicago, $40,103,200. Insurance companies were understood to have been the largest buyers. Commercial banks are not permitted to subscribe.

People and Events

William R. Odell Jr., assistant treasurer of International Harvester company, has joined the staff of the Chicago ordnance district, Brig. Gen. Donald Armstrong, district chief, announced yesterday. Odell will serve as assistant to James F. Oates Jr., head of the district's contract service division.

Orin Thatcher, farm manager of the First Trust Joint Stock Land bank of Chicago, has been commissioned a major in the field artillery and will report to Lowry field, Denver, Colo. Thatcher was a lieutenant in the World war.

The underwriting firm of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Beane announced the appointment of Morris Siegel as account executive in its Chicago office. Siegel was formerly associated with the firm of Fenner and Beane, and more recently with H. Hentz & Co.

R. E. Powers of Chicago has been named Pacific coast district manager of the manufacturing and repair department for the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

BATTLE ON SEC MOVE FOR MORE POWER PLEDGED

Paddock Hits Rule of 'Municipals.'

Congressional action to block a contemplated move of the Securities and Exchange commission to extend its regulation to over the counter transactions was promised yesterday by Rep. George A. Paddock [R., Ill.]. Paddock asserted the projected step would have "disastrous effects" on the municipal bond market, dealers in unlisted securities, states, counties, and cities which finance their operations thru existing machinery, and buyers and sellers of municipal securities.

Rep. G. A. Paddock.

Meanwhile Chicago unlisted securities dealers, most of whom regard the SEC action unnecessary, discussed their phase of a nation-wide opposition move at a meeting in the Field building called by John S. Loomis of the Illinois Company of Chicago, chairman of the Investment Bankers' association's central states group.

Oppose Written Prices.

Dealers' principal objection is to a proposed amendment to SEC powers which would require them to provide over the counter customers, in writing, "the best independent bid and asked prices for the security at the time of the sale or purchase which the dealer is able to ascertain upon the exercise of reasonable diligence." Failure to do this would make dealers subject to punishment under SEC fraud provisions.

Paddock, one of several speakers at the Field building meeting, said that congress "for good reason" exempted municipal securities from the SEC field of control set up in the original legislation and labeled the contemplated move "unworkable and illegal." He said that if the agency persists in this step, he will sponsor clarifying legislation in congress.

"The only pretext for such an extension of authority is that in a few instances excessive profits have been realized by irresponsible dealers," the legislator said. "If any fraud is involved in such cases, state laws adequately provide punishment without recourse to federal action.

Declares Rule Impossible.

"In many cases it would be physically impossible to obtain independent bid and asked prices for customers. And if they were obtainable they would not necessarily reflect existing market values."

Before he entered congress Paddock was vice president of Rogers & Tracy, La Salle street unlisted securities firm. He and other speakers emphasized the difficulty the dealers would encounter in canvassing the financial centers of the country for bid and asked prices of many types of securities traded infrequently. Altho the additional expense of such an arrangement was not overlooked, most of the dealers addressing the meeting centered their opposition on what they termed "the physical impossibility" of complying with such a rule.

STEEL CAPACITY OF 628,350 TONS ADDED THIS YEAR

New York, Aug. 7 (AP).—Enough new facilities to make steel for 12 victory ships or 16,000 medium tanks were put up by United States mills in the first half of this year, the American Iron and Steel institute reported today. It said 628,350 tons were added to potential capacity, lifting the total to 89,198,320 tons annually.

"That is probably 50 per cent of the entire steel capacity of the world," the institute commented, and around 50 per cent more than the potential at the close of the first World war.

The additional facilities included 139,970 tons of open hearth capacity and 488,380 tons for electric furnaces, which produce the highest grades of alloy steels. Bessemer capacity was unchanged.

There was a rise of 422,500 tons in total capacity of blast furnaces, which produce the pig iron which is combined with scrap in making steel.

Schram Doubts Voluntary War Bond Buying Will Meet Needs

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7 (AP).—The opinion that the government could not depend on voluntary bond purchases for war financing after this year was expressed before the senate finance committee today by Emil Schram, president of the New York Stock exchange.

Schram, formerly chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, appeared before the committee to urge revision of the portion of the new revenue bill dealing with capital stock levies but Sen. Arthur M. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] led him into a discussion of government financing.

Doubts It Will Work.

Vandenberg asked if Schram believed it would be "safe" for the government to rely on a system of financing by which only 12 billion dollars yearly would be raised by the voluntary purchases of bonds while the commercial banks were putting up about 30 billion for other types of bonds.

"Perhaps you can finance this operation by voluntary purchases for this year," Schram said, "but I can't see how it can be done until the end of the war."

Appearing for the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce, John W. Hooper urged the committee to permit corporations to hold back part of their profits for immediate reinvestment in the business, pay only half of their taxes in cash, and defer payment of the remainder until after the war. Hooper called for a 5 per cent retail sales tax, and a 1 billion 200 million additional reduction in the government's nonwar spending.

At the suggestion of Sen. Tom Connally [D., Tex.], Sen. Walter F. George [D., Ga.], the chairman, agreed to resubmit to the committee the question of revising the method of levying federal income taxes in the so-called community property states.

Agree on Pension Trusts.

A subcommittee of the finance committee has agreed unanimously to compromise house approved provisions imposing tax restrictions on pension trusts which witnesses said would cause many businesses to pay inflationary cash bonuses.

Sen. Prentiss M. Brown [D., Mich.], chairman, said the subcommittee had agreed to modify a requirement that 70 per cent of a firm's employés must participate in a pension plan before the employer would be permitted to make a tax free contribution to the trust's reserve fund.

He said the group voted to permit such contributions if, in effect, 56 per cent of employés were covered. It also relaxed a provision limiting the amount of immediate tax credit an employer could take to 5 per cent of his pay roll total.

Scarcities Halt Housing Unit on South Side

BY AL CHASE.

Scarcity of certain building materials has stopped work on the Maurice J. Dorney homes, Lowe avenue and 43d street, the Chicago Housing authority announced yesterday.

Estimated to cost $680,000, this federally financed housing project was to have accommodated 108 families of war workers. It had been hoped to have 54 home units ready on Sept. 15, but the completion date now is indefinitely postponed.

Opens on Schedule.

"The War Production board refuses to permit any construction to go ahead unless the National Housing agency has certified that the housing shortage in that community is so critically severe that hardship to the war effort will result if housing is not built," said Miss Elizabeth Wood, executive secretary of CHA. "So far, the NHA has been unwilling to give this certification."

Scarce Items Listed.

Delays in construction on the housing projects still under way have been caused by scarcity of reinforcing steel for concrete floor slabs and for such items as copper wire, metal lath, and lumber.

"Altho priority ratings have been received for these projects, increased army and navy needs this year have further decreased the supply of these items even for essential purposes," Miss Wood said. "Work therefore has been delayed until substitute materials can be found."

The two other south side housing projects besides the Dorney units—Bridgeport homes and Robert H. Brooks homes—are expected to be completed this fall. Applications are being received from hundreds of war workers with annual incomes of less than $2,100 who are in need of housing, Miss Wood said.

RULES FOR HOME REGISTRATION TO BE ISSUED SOON

Earl Dean Howard, Chicago area rent director, said yesterday he expects to announce over the week-end the details of the machinery for registering more than 1½ million dwellings in the area as required by the federal rent regulation. Herbert N. Lustig, Chicago real estate expert who was placed in charge of registration, said he is completing arrangements for the distribution of the landlord statements.

Howard disclosed that of 5,224 petitions for rent adjustments filed since rent control became effective in the area July 1 approximately 500 have been disposed of completely and 500 more are almost ready for final decision.

BANKS' COSTS RISE, PROFITS DIP

Aggregate expenses of 816 Illinois banks were 7½ per cent larger in 1941 than in 1940, and combined net earnings from operations declined 9 per cent, the Illinois Bankers' association reported yesterday. The association, emphasizing the trend of the last few years toward rising expenses and declining income from earning assets, warned that heavier taxes will cause new shrinkages in earnings, and suggested that banks consider revisions in service charges.

Some bankers had predicted last March, at the Central States conference held in Chicago, that the time soon would come when banks would have to require each customer to bear the cost of his account.

New Sources Necessary.

The association's survey was made from data supplied by the Federal Reserve banks of Chicago and St. Louis, and the Illinois state auditor. The study was limited to banks having less than 25 million dollars of deposits.

"It will be necessary for bank management to consider every possible method of safely increasing income if the 1942 earning and dividend results are to be on a par with those of 1941," the association said. "Old and new fields of income must be explored. Banks, more than ever, are faced with the fact they are selling their services, facilities, and guidance. Less and less will they be order takers."

Changing Charge Policies.

Harry C. Hausman, association secretary, said many banks are taking steps toward expanding their operations and changing service charge policies.

"Smaller agricultural banks are sending out field men in search of good agricultural loans," he said. "In the short time since Regulation V loans [made to war goods producers, with government guarantees if necessary] have been in existence, 40 or 50 of the smaller banks outside of the Chicago area have taken advantage of this new type of business, proving that Regulation V is for all sizes of banks."

TWO PER CENT OF ALL NATION'S HOTEL ROOMS TAKEN OVER FOR WAR

New York, Aug. 7 (AP).—The government has taken over more than 2 per cent of all the hotel rooms in the United States for war uses, mostly by the army, a hotel statistical firm reported today.

Horwath & Horwath said that nearly 30,000 rooms were requisitioned in occupying 203 hotels, adding that the army had approved release of the figures.

The majority of the affected hotels are at two east coast resorts, Miami Beach has yielded 150 with nearly 11,000 rooms, and Atlantic City, 21, with more than 7,000 rooms.

Figures compiled by the hotel red book, official directory of the American Hotel association, show hotel requistioning as follows: Florida 154, New Jersey 22, California 6, Massachusetts, Iowa, and North Carolina 3, Illinois, Minnesota, and Oklahoma 2, and District of Columbia, New York, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Virginia, and Washington, 1.

FTC ATTACKS AD CLAIMS OF TWO CIGARET MAKERS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7 (AP).—The Federal Trade commission announced today that it had issued complaints against Philip Morris & Company, Ltd., Inc., and R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company.

The complaints charge, the FTC said, that Philip Morris falsely advertised that Philip Morris cigarets cause no throat or nose irritation, that their superiority was recognized by eminent medical authorities and had been scientifically proved. The complaint also alleged that misrepresentations were made with regard to Dunhill cigaret majors and Revelation smoking tobacco.

The complaint against Reynolds alleged false representation in advertising that Camel cigarets aided digestion, gave a "lift" in energy, and in general that the smoker of Camels was thereby "quickened" from fatigue to brisk animation.

In New York Alfred E. Lyon, executive vice president of Philip Morris, declared that the claims made by the commission were without merit and would be contested vigorously.

5 CHICAGO AREA COMPANIES BID ON OCEAN TUGS

Five Chicago area companies, three of them in Chicago, have submitted bids with the Maritime commission for construction of a total of 24 ocean going wooden tugs, it was revealed in Washington yesterday. Bids were received from 27 contractors in 12 states. The tugs, to be 150 feet long, will be used mainly to move concrete and wooden barges.

Chicago bidders were the Newman Caisson company, which bid on six tugs; Central Shipbuilding company, four, and the Oval Barge Engineering company, six.

Other Chicagoland companies were the Waterway Engineering corporation, Green Bay, Wis., which bid on six tugs, and the Truscott Boat and Dock company, St. Joseph, Mich., which bid on two tugs.

3 YEAR FEDERAL OUTLAY OF 205 BILLIONS VOTED

Most of It Ticketed for War Costs.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7 (AP).—A compilation of congress' fiscal activity showed today that the staggering sum of $205,514,657,286 had been appropriated or authorized for expenditure between June 1, 1940, and June 30, 1943, to provide the nation's normal government and war needs.

Sen. Carter Glass.

The figures, including a breakdown of both war necessitated and normal appropriations voted this year, were prepared by the bureau of the budget and were placed in the Congressional Record by Sen. Carter Glass [D., Va.] and Rep. Clarence Cannon [D., Mo.], chairmen of the senate and house appropriations committees.

Of the $139,770,114,641 appropriated during this session, Cannon pointed out that $133,370,000,000 was earmarked for war purposes and about $6,400,000,000 was tagged for ordinary costs of government.

Normal Expenses Cut.

Glass, in his analysis of the figures, said congress had reduced appropriations for the normal activities of government by $1,667,005,150.89 below last year's figures, and made increases in that category of $579,872,154, leaving a net cut of $1,087,132,996.71.

In citing the three year $205,514,657,286 total on the books for war expenditures, Cannon emphasized that the figure did not represent actual expenditures.

"Appropriations and authorizations," he said, "need to be made far in advance in order that programs of orders for material, weapons, naval vessels, merchant ships, and all other war effort requirements may be integrated with the recruitment and training of man power, and the long range planning and conduct of the war in the various theaters of action where that war may be fought."

Burden to Get Heavier.

He said the expenditure burden had been heavy in the fiscal year of 1942, "will be heavier in the fiscal year 1943, and beyond that will be determined by the course of the war."

The budget bureau's figures on actual expenditures for war purposes:

Fiscal year 1941	$ 6,301,000,000
Fiscal year 1942	25,954,000,000
Fiscal year 1943 [estimated]	67,000,000,000

Simultaneously, Cannon reported that the total gross public debt on June 30, 1942, was $72,422,000,000, and estimated that it would reach $125,443,000,000 by that date next year.

Emergency relief, WPA	595,000,000
National Youth administration	83,767,000
Civilian Conservation corps	246,960,000
Public roads	50,300,000
Public Buildings administration	34,584,576
Department of agriculture	402,656,321
Department of commerce	7,639,316
Interior department	63,056,814
Tennessee Valley authority	60,700,000
Veterans' administration	9,838,490
State department	4,554,840
Treasury department	31,606,595

OHIO TELEPHONE STRIKE IS ENDED; SERVICE NORMAL

Cleveland, O., Aug. 7 (AP).—Telephone service was back to normal in northeastern Ohio tonight after 2,100 striking maintenance employés of the Ohio Bell Telephone company returned to work pending a War Labor board hearing of their wage dispute on Aug. 17.

On strike since 7 a. m. Wednesday, the maintenance men resumed work at 8 a. m. today after reaching an agreement with the company that any wage increases resulting from the WLB hearing would be retroactive to July 12.

Back to work also went hundreds of women telephone operators in Cleveland, Akron, Youngstown, and Canton. Their refusal to cross picket lines yesterday impaired intra-state toll call service.

BUTTER AND EGG FUTURES RISE TO LONG TIME HIGHS

Butter futures climbed to new peaks since 1930 and egg contracts reached new tops since 1929 on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. Traders reported further evidence that heavy wartime demand is cutting into winter egg reserves at an abnormal rate and is retarding markedly the accumulation of reserve stocks of butter.

In the wholesale markets, prices on top grades of butter advanced to 40 to 40¾ cents a pound, within ¼ cent of the 13 year price peaks established Tuesday. Egg prices were unchanged at the highest early August levels since just after World War I.

The November butter future climbed more than ½ cent from the day's low point before profit taking became a factor, paring the net gain for the day to 0.35 cent. The market advanced to 41 cents a pound at one time. Transfers of the November futures totaled 68 cars, while 9 contracts for other delivery months changed hands.

Butter futures staged a strong rally after it was reported that dealers in the four major markets — Chicago, New York, Boston, and Philadelphia —had had to dig into storage reserves to fill requirements. Market observers said a reduction of any amount in the warehouse stocks of these dealers this early in August is an unusual occurance. Yesterday's net withdrawals totaled 80,886 pounds.

Declining receipts played major parts in the advance of the futures. Butter receipts were 300,000 pounds short of a week ago. Egg receipts were the lightest in seven months.

MEN'S WORK CLOTHING STYLES FIXED BY WPB; BUTTONS, POCKETS GO

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7 (AP).—The WPB decreed styles for men's work clothes today—fewer pockets, fewer buttons, and buckles, and no unnecessary yardage.

Unlike previous clothing orders, this one contained a minimum as well as a maximum yardage regulation for each type of garment.

"The minimum yardage restriction was provided," the WPB explained, "to prevent skimping which would interfere with a worker's freedom of action and defeat the conservation purpose of the order by making it necessary for a worker to buy a larger size or wear out in a short time as a tight fitting garment."

SALES CONNECTION OPEN

This organization is a leader in its field and has enjoyed international prestige during a period of more than 30 years. Sales volume increased during the depression and is not, and probably will not be affected by priorities.

The man who fits into our organization must be under 50, and of unimpeachable character with sufficient experience to enable him to talk to mature business men. He will be the type of man who wants a permanent, profitable connection. He will receive preliminary training, full co-operation, and an adequate and regular supply of inquiries from national and local advertising.

Many of our men have enjoyed substantial, regular incomes over a period of from ten to twenty-five years.

Compensation is based upon a drawing account against earned commission and liberal bonuses, and is commensurate with the high qualifications required.

If you think you have the necessary qualifications, write, telling us your business history, including age, education, experience, past and current earnings, and telephone number.

All letters confidential and an interview will be arranged if the information you supply would seem to justify it.
